The love that's half refused inflames the more,
Sweetest the kiss that's stol'n from weeping maid.
Claddian. In Nuptias Honorii. iv. 10.

PROLOGUES.

Macbeth. Two truths are told,
As happy prologues to the swelling act Of the imperial theme.

Shakespeare. Macbeth. Act i. Sc. 3. 1. 142.

Prologues precede the piece in mournful verse,
As undertakers walk before the hearse. Garrick. Apprentice. Prologue.

Prologues, like compliments, are loss of time;
'Tis penning bows and making legs in rhyme.
Garrick. Prologue to Crisp's Tragedy of Virginia.

PROMISE.

Never promise more than you can perform.

Publilius Syrus. Maxim 528.
Promise is most given when the least is said.

George Chapman. Hero and Leander. 1. 234.

Bawd. He was ever precise in promisekeeping.

Shakespeare. Measure for Measure. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 42.

Katharine. His promises were, as he then was, mighty;
But his performance, as he is now, nothing.
Ibid. Henry VIII. Act iv. Sc. 2. 1. 41.
Charles. Thy promises are like Adonis' gardens,
That one day bloomed, and fruitful were the next.
Ibid. I. Henry VI. Act 1. Sc. 6. 1. 6.
Fayre words fat few, great promises without performance, delight for the tyme, but yèarke euer after.

LYLy. Euphues and His England (Euphues to Philantus). Last letter.

We promise according to our hopes, and perform according to our fears. La Rochefoticauld. Maxim 39.

Failed the bright promise of your early day. Reginald Heber. Palestine.
You never bade me hope, 'tis true;
I asked you not to swear:
But I looked in those eyes of blue,
And read a promise there.
Gerald Griffin. You Never Bade Mfe Hope.
Yet thou art welcome, welcome as a friend
Whose zeal ontruns his promise.
WORDSWORTH. To a Snow-drop.

PROPERTY.

Quod tuom 'st meum 'st: omne meum est autem thom.
What is thine is mine, all mine is also thine.
Plautus. Trinummus. Act ii. Sc. 2.
Duke. Dear Isabel,
I have a motion much imports your good;
Whereto if you'll a willing ear incline,
What's mine is yours and what is yours is mine.

La propriété exclusive est un vol dans la nature.

Exclusive property is a theft in nature. BRIssot. Essays.
Property has its duties as well as its rights.

Thomas Drummond. Letter to the Landlords of Tipperary.
[Disraeli appropriates the phrase without acknowledgment in his novel of Sybil, Ch. xi.]

Dosn't thou 'ear my 'erse's legs, as they canters awaäy?
Proputty, proputty, proputty - that's what I'ears'em saäy.
Proputty, proputty, proputty - Sam, thou's an ass for thy paains:
Theer 's moor sense i' one $\mathrm{o}^{\prime}$ 'is legs nor in all thy braaïns.
tennyson. The Northern Farmer, New Style. 1. 1.

PROPHECY; PROPHETS.

Is Saul also among the prophets? old Testament. I. Samuel x. 11.
But Jesus said unto them : A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own honse.

New Testament. Matthew xiii. 57.
[See also Mark vi. 4; Luke iv. 24 ; John iv. 44.]

Banquo. If you can look into the seeds of Time,
And say, which grain will grow and which will not,

Speak then to me, who neither beg nor fear
Your favours nor your hate.
Shaeespeare. Macbeth. Act 1. Sc. 3. 1. 60.

Macbeth. Bring me no more reports; let them fly all:
Till Birnam-wood remove to Dnnsinane,
I cannot taint with fear. What's the boy Malcolm?
Was he not born of woman? The spirits that know
All mortal consequences have pronounc'd me thus:
'Fear not, Macbeth; no man that's born of woman
Shall e'er have power upon thee.'-Then fy, false Thanes.

Ibid. Macbeth. Act v. Sc. 3. 1. 1.
Soon shall thy arm, unconquer'd steam ! afar
Drag the slow barge, or drive the rapid car;
Or an wide-waving wings extended bear
The flying chariot through the field of air.
Erasmus Darwin. The Botanic Garden. Pt. i. Canto i. 1. 289.
Ancestral voices prophesving war.
Coleridge. Kubla Khan.
Lochiel, Lochiel; beware of the day ;
For, dark and despairing, my sight I may seal
But man cannot cover what God would reveal;
'Tis the sunset of life gives me mystical lore,
And coming events cast their shadows before.

Camprell. Lochiel's Warning.
I am about to die, and that is the hour in which men are gifted with prophetic power. Socrates. Reported hy Plato. Apology. xxx. (Stephens, p. 39, c.)

What folly can be ranker? Like our shadows,
Our wishes lengthen as our sun declines. Youna. Night Thoughts. Night v. 1. 661.
Of great events stride do the spirits
Of great events stride on before the events, And in to-day already walks to-morrow. Coleridge. The Death of Wallenstein. Act v. Sc. 1
Poets are the hierophants of an unapprehended inspiration; the mirrors of the gigantic shadows which futurity casts upon the present.

Shelley. A Defence of Poetry. [See Omens.]

The prophet's mantle, ere his flight began,
Dropt on the world-a sacred gift to man.
Campbell. Pleasures of Hope. Pt.i. 1. 43.
Of all the horrid, hideous notes of woe, Sadder than owl-songs or the midnight blast;
Is that portentous phrase, "I told you so."
Byron. Don Juan. Canto xiv. St. 50.
Don't never prophesy-onless ye know.
Lowell. The Biglow Papers (2d Series). Masom and Stidell.

PROTESTANT.

The religion most prevalent in our northern colonies is a refinement on the principals of resistance: it is the dissidence of dissent, and the protestantism of the Protestant religion.

Burke. Speech on the Conciliation of America. Vol. ii. p. 123.
When love could teach a monarch to be wise,
And gospel-light first dawned from Bullen's eyes.

Gray.
[This couplet was to have formed part of an unfinished poem: "The Alliance of Education and Government." It was preserved hy Gray's biographer and editor, Mason, as "much too beantiful to be lost."]

We have a Calvinistic creed, a Popish liturgy, and an Arminian clergy.
William Pitt. Prior's Life of Burke (1790).
The Americans equally detest the pageantry of a king and the supercilious hypocrisy of a bishop.

Junius. Letter 35. Dec. 19, 1769.
It [Calvinism] established a religion without a prelate, a government without a king.

Gemroe bancroft. History of the United States. Vol. iii. Ch. vi.
The solitary monk who shook the world, From pagan slumber, when the gospel trump
Thunder'd its challenge from his dauntless lips
In peals of truth.
Robert Montgomery. Luther: Man's Need and God's supply.

PROVERB.

A proverb and a byword.
Otd Testament. I. Kings ix. 7.
The genius, wit, and spirit of a nation are discovered in its proverbs.

Bacon. Essays.
I do not say a proverb is amiss when aptly and seasonably applied; but to be forever discharging them, right or wroug, hit or miss, renders conversation iusipid and vulgar.

Cervantes. Don Quixote. Pt. ii. Ch. xliii.
Romeo. For I am proverb'd with a graudsire plirase.

Shakespeare. Romeo and Juliet. Act i. Sc. iv. l. 37.
A proverb is one man's wit and all men's wisdom.

Lord John Russell. (See Memoirs of Mackintosh. Vol. ii., p. 473.)
[Usually quoted "the wisdom of many and the wit of one."]

Leonato. Patch grief with proverbs. Ibid. Much Ado About Nothing. Act v. Sc. 1. 1. 17.
Proverbs, like the sacred books of each nation, are the sanctuary of the Intuitions. Emerson. Essays: Compensation.

PROVIDENCE.

He maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

New Testament. Matthew v. 45.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul : he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Old Testament. Psalm xxiii. 2, 3.
The Lord my pasture shall prepare, And feed me with a shepherd's care; His presence shall my wants supply, And guard me with a watehful eye. Joseph Addison. Spectator. No. 444.
Man proposes, but God disposes. Old Proverb.
[Thomas a Kempis quotes the proverb in its literal Latin form, Homo proponet sed Deus disponit, in The Imitalion of Christ, Bk. i., Ch. xix. But it is much earlier than à Kempis. It may be found quoted in its Latin form, with only the change from "but" to "and," in the Vision of Piers Ploughman, as follows:

Homo proponet et Deus disponit.
And governeth all good virues.

1. 13,994.

The obvious original is in tbe otd Testament: A man's heart deviseth his way: but the Lord directeth bis steps. (1roverbs xvi. 9.) Which in the Latin or Vulgate translation ran: Cor bominis disponet viam suam, sed Domini est dirigere gressus ejus. Cf. also Virgil:

Diis aliter visum.
The Gods have judged otherwise. Eneid. Bk. ii. 1. 428.
And Homer:
'T is man's to fight, but Heaven's to give success.
liiad. Bk. vi. l. 427. (Pope, trans.)]
Hamlet. There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough hew them how we will.
Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 128.
Not as we wanted it,
But as God granted it.
Quiller ©ouct. Poems and Ballads: To Bearers. St. 1.

Hamlet. There is a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come; the readiness is all.

Shakespeare.. Hamlet. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 230.

Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of theru shall not fall on the ground withont your Father.

New Testament. Matthew xi. 29.
Who sees with equal eyc, as God of all, A hero perish or a sparrow fall, Atoms or systems into ruin hurled
And now a bubble burst, and now a world. Pope. Essay on Man. Epis. i. 1. 87.
Adam. And He that doth the ravens feerl,
Yea, providently caters for the sparrow, Be comfort to my age!

Sharespeare. As Yon Like It. Act ii. Sc. iii. l. 43.

He who, from zone to zone,
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone
Will lead my steps aright.
BRYANT. To a Waterfowl.
She had travelled all over Lombardy without money, and through the flinty roads of Savoy without shoes: how she had borne it, she could not tell ; hut "God tempers the wind," said Maria,
" to the shorn lamb." "Shorn, indeed! and to the quick," said I.

Sterne. A Sentimental Journey.
[Maria was here qnoting a familiar French proverb, thus recorded by the proverbmonger Henry Estienne:
Dieu mesure le froid à la brebis tondue.
God measures the cold to tbe shorn lemb.
Le Livre des Proverbes Epigrammotiques (1594).

The proverb was also known to mediæval England:
To a close shorn sheep God gives wind to measure.

Herbert. Jacula Prudentum. 1640.]
Beatrice. It is said, "God sends a curst cow short horns," but to a cow too curst he sends none.

Shakesprare. Much Ado About Nothing. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 22.
Anx petits des oiseaux il donne la pature.
To the bird's young ones He gives food. Cobneille. Athalie.
[The irreverent Et sa bonte s'arrete d la littérature (and His bounty stops only with men of letters) is Gozlan's variant of the second line of the conplet.]

Katharine. Heaven is above all yet; there sits a judge
That no king can corrupt.
Shakespeare. Henty VIII. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 101.

The providence of Heav'n
Has some peculiar blessing giv'n
To each allotted state below.
Aineneide. Ode on the Winter Solstice.
Heaven's all-subduing will
With good the progeny of ill, Attempr'th ev'ry state below.

Ibid. Ode 2.
'T is Providence alone secures
In every change, both mine and yours.
Cowper. A Fabte: Morats.
The Ball no question makes of Ayes and Noes,
But Here or There as strikes the Player goes;
And He that toss'd you down into the Field,
He knows about it all-He knows-He knows !
Fitzgerald. Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.
While Thee I seek, protecting Power,
Be my vain wishes stilled;
And may this consecrated hour
With better hopes be filled.
Helen Maria Williams. Trust in Providence.

Providence cares for every hungry mouth.
R. Browning. Ferishtah's Fancies: The Eagle.
God never sends th' mouth, but hesendeth meat.

Heywood. Proverbs. Chap.iv.
The hope of all who suffer.
The dread of all who wrong,
Whittier. The Mantle of St. John de Matha.

So, darkness in the patbway of Man's life
Is but the shadow of God's providence, By the great Sun of Wisdom cast thereon; And what is dark below is light in Heaven.

Ibid. Tauter. 1. 79.

I know not where His islands lift Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care.
1bid. The Eternal Goodness. St. 20.

PROXY.

Claudio. Friendship is constant in all other things
Save in the office and affairs of love:
Therefore all hearts in love use their own tongues;
Let every eye negotiate for itself
And trust no agent.
Sharespeare. Much Ado About Nothing. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 182.
Orlando. O, how bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another man's eyes! By so much the more shall I to-morrow be at the height of heart heaviness, by how much I shall think my brother happy, in having what he wishes for.

Ibid. As You Like It. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 44.
Hermid. O, hell! to choose love by another's eyes.

Ibid. A Midisummer Night's Dream. Act 1. Sc. 1. 1. 142.

PURITAN.

A sect, whose chief devotion lies
In odd perverse antipathies:
In falling out with that or this,
And finding somewhat still amiss:

More peevish, cross, and splenetick,
Than dog distract, or monkey sick: That with more care keep holy-day The wrong, than others the right way: Compound for sins they are inclin'd to: By damning those they have no mind to: Still so perverse and opposite, As if they worshipp'd God for spite. Butler. Hudibras. Pt. i. Canto i.

Round-heads and wooden-shoes are standing-jokes.

Addison. Prologue to The Drummer.
The Puritan hated bear-buiting, not because it gave pain to the bear, but because it gave pleasure to the spectators.

Macaulay. History of England. Vol. i. Ch. iii.
Even bear-baiting was esteemed heathenish and unchristian : the sport of it, not the inhumanity, gave offence.

HUME. Listory of England. Vol. i. Cb. lxii.

The Puritan was not a man of speculation. He originated nothing. His principles are to be found broadcast in the centuries behind him. His speculations were all old. You might find them in the lectures of Abelard; you meet with them in the radicalism of Wat Tyler; you find them all over the continent of Europe. The distinction between his case and that of others was simply that he practised what he believed.

Wendell Phillips. Speeches, Lectures, and Letters: The Puritan Principle.

The Puritan did not stop to think; he recognized God in his soul, and acted. Ibid. Speech. Dec. 18, 1859.
Puritanism meant someihing when Captain Hodgson, riding out to battle through the morning mist, turns over the command of his troop to a lieutenant, and stays to hear the prayer of a cornet, there was "so much of God in it."

LowEll. Among My Books: New England Two Centuries Ago.
Puritanism, believing itself quick with the seed of religious liberty, laid, without knowing it, the egg of democracy.

Ibid. Among My Books: New England Two Centuries Ago.

PURITY.

To the pure all things are pure.
St. Paul. Episile to Titus. i. 15.
Ut quisque est vir optimus, ita difficillime esse alios improbos suspicatur.
The better a man is, the less ready is he to suspect dishonesty in others.

Cicero. Ad Quintum Pratrem. i. 1, 4, 12.
The sun, too, shines into cesspools and is not polluted.

Diogenes Laertius. Lib. vi. Sec. 63.
The sun, though it passes through dirty places, yet remains as pure as before.

Bacon. Advancement of Learning.
Spiritalis enim virtus sacramenti ita est ut lux: etsi per immundos transeat, non inquinatur.
The spiritual virtue of a sacramcnt is like light: although it passes among the impure, it is not polluted.

St. Augustine. Works. Vol. iii. In Johannis Evang. Cap. i. Tr. v. Sec. 15.

The sun shineth upon the dunghill, and is not corrupled.

Lyly, Euphues, The Anatomy of Wit. (Arber's reprint). p. 43.

The sun reflecting upon the mud of strands and shores is unpolluted in his beam.

Jeremy Taylor. Holy Living. Ch. i. p. 3.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam.

Milton. The Doctrine and Discipline of Divorce.

Like the stain'd web that whitens in the sun,
Grow pure by being purely shone upon. Moore. Lalla Rookh-The Veiled Prophet of Khorassan.
A spirit pure as hers
Is always pure, even while it errs:
As sunshine, broken in the rill,
Though turned astray, is sunshine still.
Ibid. Lalla Rookh. Fire-worshippers.
Evil into the mind of God or man
May come and go, so unapproved, and leave
No spot or blame behind.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. v. 1. 117.
There's a woman like a dewdrop, she's so purer than the purest.
robert beowning. A Blot in the 'Scutcheon. Act i. Sc. 3.

To doubt her fairness were to want an eye,
To doubt her pureness were to want a heart.

Tennyson. Launcelot and Elaine.
My good blade carves the casques of men,
My tough lance thrusteth sure,
My strength is as the strength of ten,
Because my heart is pure.
Ibid. Sir Galahad.

PURSUIT AND POSSESSION.

Throngh thicke and thin, both over banck and bush,
In hope her to attain by hooke or crooke. Spenser. The Faerie Queene. Bk. iii. Canto i. St. 17.

By hoke ne by croke. John Skelton. Colyn Cloute. 1. 1240.

Gratiano. All things that are,
Are with more spirit chased than enjoyed.
How like a younker or a prodigal
The scarfed bark puts from her native bay,
Hugged and embracèd by the strumpet wind!
How, like the prodigal doth she return,
With over-weathered ribs and ragged sails,
Lean, rent, and beggared by the strumpet wind!
Shakespeare. Merchant of Venice. Act ii. Sc. 6. 1. 13.

Things won are done, joy's soul lies in the doing.

Ibid. Troilus and Cressida. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 313.

An object rarely retains in possession the charm it had in pursuit.
Pliny the Younger. Letters. Bk ii. 15, 1 .
Bliss in possession will not last:
Remembered joys are never past;
At once the fountain, stream, and sea,
They were, they are, they yet shall be.
James Montgomery. The Isittc Cloud.
When I behold what pleasure is Pursuit.
What life, what glorious eagerness it is,
Then mark how full Possession falls from this,
How fairer seems the blossom than the fruit,--
I am perplext, and often stricken mute,

Wondering which attained the higher bliss,
The winged insect, or the chrysalis
It thrust aside with unreluctant foot. T. B. Aldrich. Pursuzt and Possession.

Friar. For it so falls out
That what we have we prize not to the worth
Whiles we enjoy it, but being lacked and lost,
Why, then werack the value; then we find
The virtue that possession would not show us
Whiles it was ours.
Shakespeare. Much Ado About Nothing. Act iv. Sc. I. l. 219.
How blessings brighten as they take their flight!

Young. Night Thoughts. Night ii. 1. 602.
Ask of the Learn'd the way? The Learn'd are blind;
This bids to serve, and that to shun mankind;
Some place the bliss in action, some in ease,
Those call it Pleasure, and Contentment these.
Pope. Essay on Man. Epis. iv. 1. 19.
Coy Hebe flies from those that woo,
And shons the hands would seize upon her;
Follow thy life, and she will sue
To pour for thee the cup of honor.
O. W. Holmes. Hebe.

Ton avid of earth's bliss, he was of those
Whom delight flies because they give her chase.
William Watson. Byron the Voluptuary.
As is your sort of mind
So is your of sort of search, you'll find What you desire.

Robert Browning. Eastet Day.

PYRAMIDS.

Virtue alone outbuilds the Pyramids;
Her monuments shall last, when Egypts fall.
Young. Night Thoughts. Night vi. l. 314.
The tapering pyramid, the Egyptian's pride,
And wonder of the world, whose spiky top
Hath wounded the thick clond.
Robert Blair. The Grave, 1,190.

Beside the Eternal Nile
The pyramids have risen.
Nile shall pursue lis changeless way;
Those pyramids shall fall;
Yeal not a stone shall stand to tell
The spot whereon they stood;
Their very site shall be forgotten.
As is their builder's name.
Shelley. Queen Mab. St. ii.
Egyptl from whom all dateless tombs arose
Forgotten Pharaolis from their long repose,
And shook within their pyramids to hear
A new Cambyses thundering in their ear;
While the dark shades of forty ages stood
Like startled giants by Nile's famous flood.

Byron. The Age of Bronze. St. v.
She has seen the mystery hid
Under Egypt's pyramid:
By those eyelids pale and close
Now she knows what Rlamses knows. Emprson. Little Mattie. St. 2.

QUARREL.

Amantium ire amoris integratiost.
The quarrels of lovers are the renewal of love.

Ternnce. Andria. Act iii. Sc. 5.
The anger of lovers renews the strength of love.

Publilius Syrus. Maxim 24.
The fallyng nut of faitbful frends, is the renuying of loue.

Richard Edwards. Pajadise of Dainty Devices. No. 42. st. 1.

Let the falling out of friends be a renewing of affection.

Lyly. Euphues.
The falling out of lovers is the renewing of love.

Burton. Anatomy of Melancholy. Pt. iii. Sec. 2.
So also those false alarms of strife
Between the husband and the wife,
And little quarrels often prove
To be but new recruits of love;
When those who're always kind of coy, In time must eitber tire or cloy. Butler. Hudibras. Pt. ii. Canto iii, 1 . 290.

We have a crow to pull.
J. Heywood. Proverbs. Bk, ii. Ch. v.

Mercutio. Thou ! why, thou wilt quarrel with a man that hath a hair nore, or a liair less, in his beard than thon hast. Thou wilt quarrel witl a nan for cracking nuts, luving no uther reason but because thou liast hazel eyes.

Butler. Hudibras. Pt. ii. Canto ii. 1. 79
A good cause needs not to be patruned by passion, but can sustain itself upon a temperate dispute.

SIr T. Browne. Religio Medici. Sec. 5.
Dissensions, like small streams, are first begun,
Scarce seen they rise, but gather as they run:
So lines that from their parallel decline,
More they proceed the more they still disjuin.
Sir Sam'l Garth. The Dispensary. Canto iii. 1. 184.
Those who in quarrels interpose,
Must often wipe a bloody nose. Gay. Fables: The Mastiffs. 1.1.

Pray, Goody, please to moderate the rancour of your tongue $]$
Why flash those sparks of fury from your eyes?
Remember, when the judgment's weak the prejudice is strong.
Kane O'Hara. Midab. act i. Sc. 4.
Let dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God hath made them so;
Let bears and lions growl and fight,
For 't is their nature, too.'
Isacac Watts. Divine Songe. Song 16.
Candida pax homines, trux decet ira feras.
Fair peace becomes men ; ferocious anger belongs to beasts.
OVID. Ars Amatoria. iii. 502.
The Indian tiger bears no hate, But keeps truce with its savage mate: E'en fiercely-ranging bears agree To live in general amity:
But man on anvils all abhorred,
Is not afraid to forge the sword.
Juyenal. Satires. xy. 163.
Bat, children, you should never let
Such angry passions rise;
Your little hands were never made
To tear each other's eyes.
Watts. Divine Songs. Song 16.
Birds in their little nest agree;
And 't is a shameful sight
When children of one family Fall out, and chide, and fight. Ibid. Divine Songs. Song 17.
So when two dogs are fighting in the streets,
When a third dog one of the two dogs meets:
With angry teeth he bites him to the bone,
And this dog smarts for what that dog has done.
Henry Fielding. Tom Thumb the Great. Act i. Sc. 5. 1. 55.
The quarrel is a very pretty quarrel as it stands; we should only spoil it by trying to explain it.

Sheridan. The Rivals. Activ. Sc. 3.
Thus when a barber and a collier fight,
The barber beats the luckless collierwhite;
The dusty collier heaves his ponderous sack,
And, big with vengeance, beats the barber-black.
' Persistently misquoted "to."

In comes the brick-dust man, with grime o'erspread,
And beats the collier and the barberred;
Black, red, and white, in various clouds are toss'd,
And in the dust they raise the combatants are lost.
Christopeer Smart. A Trip to Cambridge.

An association of men who will not quarrel with one another is a thing which never yet existed, from the greatest confederacy of nations down to a townmeeting or a vestry.

Thomas Jefferson. Letter to John Taylor. 1798.

And musing on the little lives of men,
And how they mar this little by their feuds.

Tennyson. Sea Dreams.
As thro' the land at eve we went,
And pluck'd the ripen'd ears,
We fell out, my wife and I,
O we fell out, I know not why,
And kiss'd again with tears.

But quiet to quick bosoms is a hell. Byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. st. 42.

QUOTATION.

Some for renown, on scraps of learning dote,
And think they grow immortal as they quote.
To patch-work learn'd quotations are allied:
But strive to make our poverty our pride. Young. Love of Fame. Satire i. 1. 81.
'Twas counted learning once and wit
To void but what some author writ ;
And when men understood by rote
By as implicit sense to quote.
Butler. Satire upon Plagiaries. 1. 99.
Every Quotation contributes something to the stability or enlargement of the language.

Jomnson. Preface to Dictionary.
Classical quotation is the parole of literary men all over the world.

The hooded clouds, like friars,
Tell their beads in drops of rain. LONGFELLOW. Midnight Mass for the Dying Year. St. 4.
We knew it would rain, for the poplars showed
The white of their leaves, the amber grain
Shrunk in the wind-and the lightning now
Is tangled in tremulous skeins of rain!
T. B. Aldrich. XXXVI Lyrics and XII Sonnets. Lyric XVII : Before the Rain. St. 3.

RAINBOW.

I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.
old Testament. Genesis ix. 13.
Triumphal arch, that fill'st the sky
When storms prepare to part,
I ask not proud Philosophy

REFORM.

A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you. Old Testament. Ezekiel xxxvi. 26.
And ye were as a firebrand plocked out of the burning.

Ibid. Amos iv. 11.
Prince Henry. So, when this loose behaviour I throw off,
And pay the debt I never promised,
By how muck betier than my word I am,
By so much shall I falsify men's lopes;
And like bright metal on a sullen ground,
My reformation, glittering o'er my fault,

RELIGION.

Pure religion, and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

New Testameni. James i. 27.
Sacred religion! mother of form and fear.

Daniel. Musophilus. St. 57.
As if Religion were intended
For nothing else but to be mended.
Butler. Hudibras. Pt. i. Canto i. I. 205.

Religion is like the fashion. One man wears his doublet slashed, another laced, another plain; but every man has a doublet. So every man has his religion. We differ about trimming. John Selden. Table Talk. Religion.

Sir, I think all Christians, whether Papists or Protestants, agree in the essential articles, and that their differences are trivial, and rather political than religious.

Dr. Johnson. Boswell's Life. Chap. v. 1763.

The conversation .. turned soon into some dispute upon subjects of religion: after a good deal of that sort of talk, the earl ${ }^{1}$ said at last, "People differ in their discourse and profession about these matters, but men of sense are really but of one religion." Upon which says ihe lady of a sudden, "Pray, my lord, what religion is that which men of sense agree in? "Madam," кays the earl, immediately, " men of sense never tell it."

Burnet. History of My Own Times. Vol. i. p. 175.
"As for that," said Waldershare, "sensihle men are all of the same religion." "And pray what is that?" inquired the prince. "Sensible men never tell."

Disraeli. Endymion. Ch. lexxi.
${ }^{1}$ Anthony Ashley Cooper, First Earl of Shaftesbury.

I do not find that the age or country makes the least difference; no, nor the langnage the actors spoke, nor the religion which they professed, whether Arab in the desert, or Frenchman in the Academy. I see that sensible men and conscientious men all over the world were of one reli-giou,--the religion of well-doing and daring.

Emerson. The Preacher. Lectures and Biographical Sketcher.
We have just enough religion to nake us hate, but not enough to make us love another.

SWIFT. Thoughts on Various Subjects.
What religion is he of?
Why, lee is an Anythingarian.
Ibid. Polite Conversation. Dialogue I.
Men will wrangle for religion; write for it; fight for it; die for it ; anything but-live for it.

REMORSE; REPENTANCE.

Joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, wore than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentince.

New Testament. Luke xv. 7.
Sweet tastes have sour closes;
And he repents on thorns that sleeps in beds of roses.

Quarles. Emblems. Bk. i. No. 7.
Our repentance is not so much sorrow for the ill we have done, as fear of the ill that may happen to us in consequence.

Crime and punishment grow out of one stem. Punishment is a fruit that unsuspected ripens within the flower of the pleasure which concealed it.

Emerson. Essays: Compensalion.

REVENGE.

Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed lim; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

New Testament. Romans xii. 19, 20.
Exoriare aliquis nostris ex ossibns ultor.

Rise front my ashes, some avenger, rise!

Virfill. Aheid. Bk. iv. 1. 625.
[Dying imprecation of Dido upon the false
Eneas. It is said to have been written with the point of his sword on the walls of bis dungeon by Philip Strozzi before killing himself, when imprisoned by Cosmo I., Grand Duke of Tuscany.]

A man that studieth revenge, keeps his own wounds green.

Bacon. Essay: Revenge. iv.
Revenge is a kind of wild justice, which the more man's nature runs to, the more ought law to weed it out. Ibid. Essay: Revergge. iv.
Othello. O, that the slave had forty thousand lives !
One is too poor, too weak for my revenge.
Sharespeare. Othello. Act iii. Sc. 3. 1. 433.

Othello. Had all his hairs been lives, my great revenge
Had stomach for them all.
Ibid. Othelto. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 74.
Othello. Not Cassio kill'd! then murder's out of tune,
And sweet revenge grows harsh.
Ibid. Othello. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 116.
Shylock. If a Jew wrong a Christian, what is his humility? Revenge. If a Christian wrong a Jew, what should his sufferance be by Christian example? Why, revenge. The villainy you teach me I will execute; and it shall go hard, but I will better the instruction.

Ibid. Merchant of Venice. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 72.

To work a fell revenge a man's a fool, If not instructed in a woman's school.

Fletcher. The Spanish Gurate. Act v. Sc. 1.
Revenge, at first though sweet, Bitter ere long back on itself recoils. Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. ix. 1. 171.
Sweet is revenge-especially to women. Byron. Don Juan. Canto i. St. 124.

Revenge proves its own executioner.
Ford. The Broken Heart. Act v. Sc. 2.
'Tis sweet to love; but when with scorn we meet,
Revenge supplies the loss with joys as great.
Lord Lansdowne. British Enchanter. Act $\mathrm{q} . \mathrm{Sc} .1$.
Revenge is profitable, gratitude is expensive.

Gibbon. Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. Cb. xi.

It costs more to revenge injuries than to bear them.

Bishop T. Wilson. Maxims. 303.
An act by which we make one friend and one enemy is a losing game; because revenge is a much stronger principle than gratitude.

Colton. Lacon.
Souls made of fire, and children of the sun,
With whom revenge is virtue.
Young. The Revenge. Act v. Sc. 2.
There are things
Which make revenge a virtue by reflection, And not an impulse of mere anger ; though
The laws sleep, justice wukes, and injur'd souls
Oft do a public right with private wrong.
Byron. Marino Faliero. Act iv. Sc. 2.
And if we do but watch the hour,
There never yet was human power
Which could evade, if unforgiven,
The patient search and vigil long
Of him who treasures up a wrong.
Ibid. Mazeppa. St. 10. (Concluding lines.)
Wrongs unredressed, or insults unavenged.

WORDsworth. The Excursion. Bk. iii. 1. 374.

REVOLUTION.

Revolutions are not made: they come. A revolution is as natural a growth as an oak. It comes out of the past. Its foundations are laid far back.

Wendell Phillips. Speech at the Melodeon. January 28, 1852.

Revolutions never go backward.
Ibid. Speech. Boston, Mass., February 17, 1861.
If by the mere force of numbers a majority should deprive a minority of any clearly written constitutional right, it might, in a moral point of view, justify revolution-certainly would if such a right were a vital one.
Lincoln. First Inaugural Address. March 4, 1861 .

REWARD.

Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days.

Old Testament. Ecclesiastes xi. 1.

Portia. He is well paid that is well satisfied :
And I, delivering you, am satisfied,
And therein do account myself well paid.
Shakesprare. Merchant of Venice. Act iv. Sc. 1. 1. 415.

For blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds,
And though a late, a sure reward succeeds.
Congreve. The Mourning Bride. Act v. Sc. 12.

Is there no bright reversion in the sky
For those who greatly think, or bravely die?
Pope. Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady. 1. 9.
Palmam qui neriut ferat.
Let him bear the palm who deserves it.

John Jortin. Lusus Poetici. Ad Ventos. St. 4.
[Tbe motto of Nelson and of the Ruyal Naval School of England. The whole stanza runs as follows:
Et nobis faciles parcite et hostibus;
Concurrant paribus cum ratibus rates,
Speetent numina ponti, et
Palmam qui meruit, ferat.
On friend and foe breathe soft and calm,
As ship with ship in hattle meets ;
And while the sea-gods watch the fleets
Let him who merits, bear the palm.
(W. M. F. King, trans.)]

Who would run, that's moderately wise,
A certain danger for a donbtful prize?
Pompret. Love Triumphant Over Reason. 1. 85.

When all is won that all desire to woo,
The paltry prize is hardly worth the cost.
byron. Childe Harold. Canto ii. xxxy.

RIDDLES.

'Twas in heaven pronounced-it was muttered in hell,
And echo canght faintly the sound as it fell;
On the confines of earth 'twas permitted to rest,
And the depth of the ocean its presence confessed.

Yet in "shade let it rest, like a delicate flower,
Ah, breathe on it softly, it dies in an hour.
Catherine M. Fanshawe. A Riddle on the Letter $H$.
[This riddle has often bcen credited to Lord Byron. The first line has been improved by Horace Smith's alteration to the form now best known:
'Twas whispered in heaven, 'twas muttered in hell.|
A handless man a letter did write,
A dumb dictated it word for word ;
The person who read it had lost his sight,
And deaf was he who listened and heard.
George Borrow. The Bible in Spain.
[This is Borrow's more accurate translation of a popular Spanish riddle, of uncertain date, already known through Bishop Whewell's version :
A headless man had a letter to write,
And he who read it had lost his sight;
The dumb repeated it word for word,
and deaf was the man who listened and heard.]

RIDICULE.

Benedick. Shall quips and sentences and these paper bullets of the brain awe a man from the career of his bumour? No, the world must be peopled. When I said I would die a bachelor, I did not think I should live till I were married. Shakespeare. Much ado about Nothing. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1. 219.

For still the world prevail'd, and its dread laugh,
Which scarce the firm philosopher can scorn.
Thomson. Seasons. Autumn. 1. 233.
Nothing in poverty so ill is borne,
As its exposing men to grinning scorn. Olnham. Third Satire of Juvenal.
Of all the griefs that harass the distress'd,
Sure the most bitter is a scornful jest.
Fate never wounds more deep the generous beart,
Than when a blockhead's insult points the dart.

Dr. Johnson. London. 1. 166.
It is commonly said, and more particularly by Lord Shaftesbury, that ridicule is the best test of truth.

Lord Chesterfield. Letter to His Son. 6th of February, 1752.

Truth, 'tis supposed, may bear all ligbts; and one of those principal lights or natural mediums by which things are to be viewed in order to a thorough recognition is ridicule itself.

SHaftesbury. Ebsay on the Freedom of Wit and Humour. Sec. i.
'Twas the saying of an ancient sage (Gorgias Leontinus, apud Aristotle's Rhetoric, Lib. iii. Cap. 18) that humor was the only test of gravity, and gravity of humor. For a subject wbich would not bear raillery was suspicious; and a jest which would not bear a serious examination was certaiuly false wit.

Ibid. Essay on the Freedom of Wit and Hитоит. Sec. 5.

And took for truth the test of ridicule.
Crabbe. Tales of the Hall. Bk. viii. The Sisters.

And coxcombs vanquish Berkeley by a grin.

John Brown. An Essay on Satire. Occasioned by the Deuth of Mr. Pope.

Who can refute a sneer?
William Paley. Moral Philobophy. Vol. ii. Bk. v. Ch. ix.

And shaped his weapon with an edge severe,
Sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer.
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. St. 107.

Cervantes smiled Spain's chivalry away.

1bid. Don Juan. Canto xiii. St. 11.

RIDING.

I sprang to the stirrup, and Joris, and he;
I galloped, Dirck galloped, we galloped all three ;
"Good speed P" cried the watch, as the gate-bolts undrew;
"Speed I" echoed the wall to us galloping tbrough;
Behind shut the postern, the lights sank to rest,
And into the midnight we galloped abreast.
Robert Browning. Dramalic Iytics: How They Brought the Good News from Ghent to Aix. St. 1.

What if we still ride on, we too,
With life for ever old yet new,

Changed not in tirne, but in degree
The instant made eternity
And heaven just prove that I and she
Ride, ride together, forever ride?
Robert browning. The Last Ride Together.
The rule of the road is a paradox quite
In riding or driving about.
If you go to the left you are sure to go right.
If you go to the right you go wrong.
Attributed to Henry Erskine.

RIGHT:

Пoı $\eta \tau a ̀$ dè $\nu \delta \mu \iota \mu a$ عivat.
Whatever is, is right.
Democritus. Diogenes Laertius. ix. 7, $12,4 \overline{5}$.
(See under Optimism.)
Better, though difficult, the right way to go,
Than wrong, tho' easy, where the end is woe.

Bunyan. Pilgrim's Progress. Pt.i.
Can any man have a higher notion of the rule of right and the eternal fitness of things?

Fielding. Tom Jones. Bk. iv. Ch.iv.
We hold these truths to be self-evi-dent,-that all men are created equal ; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Thomas Jefferson. Declaration of Independence.
All men are born free and equal, and have certain natural, essential, and unalienable rights.

Constitution of Massachusetts.

Be sure you are right, then go ahead.
[The motto of David Crockett in the war of 1812.]

If you choose to represent the various parts in life by holes upon a tahle, of different shapes,-some circular, some triangular, some square, some oblong.and the persons acting these parts by bits of wood of similar shapes, we shall generally find that the triangular person has got into the square hole, the oblong into the triangular, and a square person has squeezed himself into the round hole. The officer and the office, the doer and the thing done, seldom fit so exactly that we can say they were almost made for each other.

Sydney Smith. Sketches of Moral Philosophy.
The lot assigned to every man is suited to hinu, and suits him to itself.

Makcus Aurelius. Meditations. iii. 4.
Some must be great. Great offices will have Gireat talents. And God gives to every msn. The virtue, temper, understanding, taste, 'I hat lifts him into life, aud lets him fall Just in the niche he was ordain'd to fill.

Cowper. The Tank. Bk. iv. The Winter E'vening. 1. 788.

Of the various executive abilities, no one excited more anxious concern than that of placing the interests of our fellow-citizens in the hands of honest men, with understanding sufficient for their stations.

Thomas Jefferson. Letter to Llias Shipman and others. July 12, 1801.

I have always believed that success wonld be the inevitable result if the two services, the army and the navy, had fair play, and if we sent the right man to fill the right place.

Sir austen Henry Layard. Speech in Parliament. January 15, 1855.
Sir, I would rather be right than be President.

Henry Clay. Speech, 1850 (referring to the Compromise Measures).
With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right. Abraham Lincoln. Second Inaugutal Adäress. March 4, 1865.
But 't was a maxim he had often tried,
That right was right, and there he would abide.
Crabbe. Tale xv. The Squire and the Priest.
For right is right, since God is God ;
And right the day must win ;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin.
F. W. Faber. The Right Must Win. (Concluding lines.)
Because right is right, to follow right
Were wisdom in the scorn of consequence. TENNYSON. EnOne. 1. 148.

I trust in Nature for the stable laws Of beanty and utility. Spring shall plant And Antumn garner to the end of time. Itrist in God,-the right shall be the right And other than the wrong, while He endures.

I trust in my own soul, that can perceive
The ontward and the inward,-Natnre's good
And God's.
hobert Browning. A Soul's Tragedy. Act i .

In the great right of an excessive wrong.

Ibid. The Ring and the Book. The Other Half-Rome. I. 1055.

RIVAL.

There witl commutual zeal we both had strove
In acts of dear benevolence and love:
Brothers in peace, not rivals in command.
Pope. The Odyssey of Homer. Bk. iv. 1. 241.

Sine rivali teque et tua solus amares.
Withont rivals thou lovest alone thyself and thine.

Horace. Art of Poetry. I. 444.
Un homme qui s'aimait sans avoir de rivaux.

A man who loved himself without baving any rivals.

In arms and science 'tis the same;
Our rival's hurts create our fame.
Prior. Alma. Canto i. 1. 196.

For monarchs ill can rivals brook,
Even in a word, or smile, or look. Scott. Marmion. Canto v. St. 13.

RIVER.

There is a river in Macedon; and there is also moreover a river at Monmouth ; . . . and there is salmons in both.

Shakespeare. III. Henty IV. Act iv. Sc. 7. 1. 25.
By shallow rivers, to whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.
Marlowe. The Passionate Shepherd to His Love. St. 2.
Julia. The current that with gentle murmur glides,
Thou know'st, being stopp'd, impatiently doth rage;
But when his fair course is not hindered,
He makes sweet music with the enamell'd stones,
Giving a gentle kiss to every sedge
He overtaketh in his pilgrimage.
Shakespeare. Two Gentlemen of Verona. Act ii. Sc. 7. 1.25.
O, could I flow like thee, and make thy stream
My great example, as it is my theme!
Though deep, yet clear: though gentle, yet not dull;
Strong without rage, without o'erflowing full.

Denham. Cooper's Hill. 1. 189.
Listen and appear to us,
In name of great Oceanus,
By all the nymphs that nightly dance Upon thy streams with wily glance, Rise, rise, and heave thy rosy head
From thy coral-paven bed,
And bridle in thy headlong wave,
Till thou our summons answered have Listen and save.

Milton. Comus. l. 867.
About me round I saw
Hill, dale, and shady woods, and sunny plains,
And liquid lapse of murmuring streams; by these,
Creatures that lived and moved, and walked or flew.
Ibid. Paradise Lost. Bk. viii. l. 263.

In the leafy month of June,
That to the sleeping woods all night
Singeth a quiet tune.
Coleridge. The Ancient Mariner. Pt. v . St. 18.

Ye nymphs that reign o'er sewers and sinks,
The river Rhine, it is well known, Doth wash your city of Cologne;
But tell me, nymphs ! what power divine
Shall henceforth wash the river Rhine? Ibid. Cologne. (Concluding lines.)
In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decrew;
Where Alph, the sacred river ran,
Through caverns measureless to man,
Down to a sunless sea.
Ibid. Kubla Khan. 1. 1.
On Linden, when the sun was low, All bloodless lay the untrodden snow, And dark as winter was the flow

Of Iser, rolling rapidly.
Campbell. Hohenlinden. St. 1.
The river glideth at his own sweet will.

Wordsworth. Sonnet XXXVI. Composed upon Westminster Bridge, September 3, 1802.
The stream, aspiring, pants its source to mount
As streams meander level with their fount.
Robert Montgomery. The Omnipresence of the Deity. Pt. i.
[We take this to be, on the whole, the worst similitude in the world. In the first place, no stream meanders or can possibly meander level with the fount. In the next place, if streams did meander level with their founts, no two motions can be less like each other than that of meandering level and that of mounting upwards.

Macaulay. Review of -Montgomery's Poems.]
See the rivers, how they run, Changeless to the changeless sea.

Charifes Kingsley. Saint's Tragedy. Act ii. Sc. 2.

I wandered by the brook-side, I wandered by the mill;
I could not hear the brook flow,
The noisy wheel was still.
Richard Monekton Milnes (Lord Houghton). The Brookside.
I chatter, cliatter, as I flow
To join the brimming river,
For men may come and men may go, But I go on for ever.

Tennyson. The Brook.
No check, no stay, this streamlet fears:
How merrily it goes.
'Twill murmur on a thousand years
And flow as now it flows.
WORDSWORTH. The Fountain. St. 6.
But the majestic river floated on,
Out of the mist and hum of that low land,
Into the frosty starlight, and there mor'd,
Rejoicing, through the husb'd Chorasmian waste,
Under the solitary moon;-he flow'd
Right for the polar star, past Orgunje,
Brimming, and hright, and large: then sands hegin
To hem his watery march, and dam his streams,
And split his currents; that for many a league
The shorn and parcell'd Oxus strains along
Throngh beds of strand and matted rushy isles-
Oxus, forgetting the bright speed he had
In his high mountain-cradle in Pamere,
A foil'd circuitous wanderer-till at last
The long'd-for dash of waves is heard, and wide
His luminous home of waters opens, bright
And tranquil, from whose floor the newbathe'd stars
Emerge, and shine upon the Aral Sea.

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

Extra Ecclesiam nulla salus.
Outside the Church there is no salvation.

St. Cvprian. Epistles iv. 4. and lxiii, 18.

Extra Ecclesiam Catholicam totum potest preter salutem.
Outside of the Catholick Cburch everything may be had except salvation.

SAint Augustine. Vol. ix. 122 .B. (Bened. ed.)
[St. Augustine continnes: You may have Orders and sacraments, you may sing Alleluia and answer Amen, you may hold the Gospel and have and preach tlic faith in the name of the Fatber, the son, aud the Holy Ghost: but nowhere except in the Catholick Church cau salvation be found.]

Roma locuta est, causa finita est.
Rome has spoken, the case is concluded.
[Founded upon this passage from St. Algustilue (Sermons, 131, 10):
Jam enim de hac causa duo coucilia missa sunt ad sedem Apostolicam. Inde etiam rescripta yeneruut: causa finita est; utinam aliquando error finiatur!

Already the results of two councils on this (Pelagian) question have been sent to the Apostolic See, and rescripts have been returned from thence. The case is finished; would that some time or other the heresy might come to an end as well.]

The result justifies the deed. Motto of Washington.
She may still exist in undiminished vigonr when some traveller from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of Londlon Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's.

Macaulay. On Ranke's Histomy of the Popes. Often referred to as Macaulay's New Zealander.
[In his New Zcalander, Macaulay gave its most brilliant and permanent form to an idea which had been already used by innumerable authors, among others himself.

His essay ou Ranke appeared in the Edinburgh Review for October, 1840. In a criticism of Mitford's Greece, contributed so early as 1829 to Knight's Quarterly Magazine, he had said:

When the sceptre shall have passed away from England; when, perbaps, travellers from distant regions shall in vain labor to decipher on some muuldering pedestal the name of our proudest chief; shall bear savage bymns chauted to some misshapen idol, over the ruined dome of our proudest temple; and shall see a siugle naked fisherman wash his nets in the river of the ten thousand masts; her [Athenss] influence and her glory will still survive, tresh in eternal youth. (Concluding paragraph.)

There may be here a reminiscence of the prophet Ezekiel:
It (Tyre) shall be a place for the spreading of nets in the midst of the sea. . . . Then all the princes of the sea shall come down from their thrones; ... they shall sit upon the gronnd, and shall tremble at every moment, and le astonished at thee. And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of seafaring men, the renowned city, which wast strong in the sea, she and her inhabitants? (xxvi. 5, 16, 17).
And it shail come to pass, that the fishers shall stand upon it from En-gedi even to En-eglaim ; they sball be a place to spread forth uets (xlvii. 10).
Closer parallels are numerous in modern literature:
For my part, I take Europe to be worn out. When Voltaire dies we may say "Good-night." The next Augustan age will dawn on the other side of the atlantic. There will, peirhaps, be a Thucydidês st Boston, a Xenophou at New York, and, in time, a Virgil at Mexico, and a Newton at Peru. At last some curious traveller from Lima will visit England, and give a description of the ruins of St. Paul's, like the editions of Baalbee and Palmyra

Horace Walpole. Letters to Sir Horace Mann. November 24, 1774.

Wherc now is Britain?

Even as the savage sits upon the stone

That marks where stood her capitols, and hears
The bittern booming in the weeds, he shrinks
From the dismaying solitude.
Henry Kirke White. Time. 1. 194.
In the firm expectation, that when London shall be a habitation of bitterns, when St. Paul's and Westminster Abbey shall stand shapeless and nameless ruins in the midst of an unpeopled marsh; when the piers of Westminster Bridge shall become the nuclei of islets of reeds and osiers, and cast the jagged shadows of their broken arches on the solitary stream, some transatlantic commentator will be weighing in the scales of some new and now unimagined system of criticism the respeetive merits of the Belis, and the Fudges, and their historians.
shelley. Peter Bell the Third. Dedication to Thomas Brown, Esq. (Thomas Мооте).
Who knows but that hereafter some traveller like myself will sit down upon the banks of the seine, the Thames, or the Zuyder Zee, where now, in the tumalt of enjoyment, the heart and the eyes are too slow to take in the multitude of sensations,who knows but that he will sit down solitary amid silent ruins, and weep a people invrned, and their greutness changed into an empty name?

Rowe. Jane Shore. Act iii. Sc. 1,

To the glory that was Greece.
And the grandeur that was Rome.
PoE. To Helen.
Oh Rome! my countryl city of the soul!
The orphans of the heart must turn to thee,
Lone mother of dead empires.
byron. Childe Harold. Canto iv. St. 78.
"While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand ;
"When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall !
"And when Rome falls-the World." From our own land
Thus spake the pilgrims o'er this mighty wall
In Saxon times.
Ibid. Childe Harold. Canto iv. St. 145.
The Niobe of nations! there she stands,
Childless and crownless, in her voiceless woe;
An empty urn within her withered hands,
Whose holy dust was scattered long ago. Ibid. Childe Harold. Canto iv. st. Tg.

It was the calm and silent night !
Seven hundred years and fifty-three
Had Rome been growing up to might,
And now was queen of land and sea.
No sound was heard of clashing wars,
Peace brooded o'er the lushed domain;
A pollo, Pallas, Jove, and Mars
Held undisturbed their ancient rein
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

ROSE.

There is no gathering the rose without being pricked by the thorns.

Pilpay (or Bidpai). The Two Travellers. Ch. ii. Fahle 6.
Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose.

Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. iv. 1. 256.

And I will make thee beds of roses,
And a thousand fragrant posies.
MARLowE. The Passionate Shepherd to His Love. St. 3.
O, how much more doth beauty beauteous seem,
By that sweet ornament which truth doth givel
The rose looks fair, but fairer we it deem,
For that sweet odor which doth in it live.

Shakespeare. Sonnet LIV.

How fair is the Rose! what a beautiful flower.
The glory of April and May!
But the leaves are heginning to fade in an hour,
And they wither and die in a day.
Yet the Rose has one powerful virtue to boast,
Above all the flowers of the field:
When its leaves are all dead. and fine colours are lost,
Still how sweet a perfume it will yield!
Isaac Watts. Moral Songs: The Rose.
When we desire to confine our words, we commonly say they are spoken under the rose.

Thomas Browne. Vulgar Errors.
Go, lovely rose !
Tell her that wastes her time, and me
That now she knows,
When I resemble her to thee,
How sweet, and fair, she seems to be. Edmund Waller. The Robe.
Die of a rose in aromatic pain.
Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. i. 1. 200.
Let opening roses knotted oaks adorn,
And liquid amber drop from every thorn.

Red as a rose is she.
Coleridge. The Ancienl Mariner. Pt.i. St. 9.

You may break, you may shatter the vase, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.
Moore. Farewell! But Whenever You Welcome the Hour. (Concluding lines.)

Quo semel est imbuta recens, servabit odorem
Testa diu.
The vase will long the scent retain
It chanced, when newly made, to gain. horace.
[Horace's allusion is to earthen vessels into which wine has once been poured. Aldrich kins Moore to Horace in his parody of the former: "You may break, you may shatter Watkins if you will, but the scent of the Roederer will hang round him still.' -Maryorie Daw.]
Rose of the Garden! such is woman's lot-
Worshipp'd while blooming-when she fades, forgot.
Rose of the Desert! thus should woman be
Shining uncourted, lone and safe, like thee.

Moore. Rose of the Debert. 1.5.
'Tis the last rose of summer,
1bid. The Labt Rose of Summer. 1. 1.

Ibid. Love Alone. St. 2.
The budding rose above the rose full blown.

Wordsworth. The Prelude. Bk. xi.1. 121.
A lovely being, scarcely formed or moulded,
A rose with all its sweetest leaves yet folded.
Byron. Don Juan. Cantoxp, St. 43.

The rose that all are praising,
Is not the rose for me;
Too many eyes are gazing
Upon the faultless tree.
Bat there's a rose in yonder glen
That scorns the gaze of other men;
For me its beanty saving, -
Oh ! that's the rose for me.
Thomas Haynes bayly. The Rose that All are Praising.

Perfume which on earth is not.
Keats. Ode. Bards of Passion and of Mirth. 1. 13.

Two roses on one slender spray
In sweet communion grew,
Together hailed the morning ray
And drank the evening dew. Montgomery. The Roses.

As rich and purposeless as is the rose:
Thy simple doom is to be beautiful.

ROYALTY.

(See Kings.)
Brackenbury. Princes have but their titles for their glories,
An outward lonour for an inward toil ; And for unfelt imaginations,
They often feel a world of restless cares:
So that between their titles, and low name,
There's nothing differs but the outward fame.
SHAKESPEARE. Richard III. Act i. Sc. 4. 1.78.

Richard. How sweet a thing it is to wear a crown,
Within whose circuit is Elysium
And all that poets feign of bliss and joy!
Ibid. III. Henry V'. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 28.
Prince Henry. Why doth the crown lie there upon his pillow,
Being so troublesome a bedfellow?
O polish'd perturbation! golden care !
That keep'st the ports of slumber open wide,
To many a watchful night! Sleep with it now,

Yet not so sound and half so deeply sweet
As he whose brow with homely biggen bound
Snores out the watch of night. O, Majesty !
When thou dost pinch thy bearer, thou dost sit
Like a rich armour worn in heat of day, That scalds with safety.
Shakespeare. II. Henty IV. Act iv. Sc. 5. 1. 25.

Subjects may grieve, but monarchs must redress.

Dryden. Annus Mirabilis. ccxlii.
Entire and sure the monarch's rule must prove,
Who founds her greatness on her subjects' love.
Prior. Prologue Spoken on Her Majesly's Birthday. 1704.
A sovereign's ear ill brooks a subject's questioning.

Coleridge. Zapolya. Sc. 1.

When kings are building, draymen have something to do.

Schiller. Kant und Seinc Ausleger.
For a king
'Tis sometimes better to be fear'd than loved.
Byron. Sardanapalus. Act i. Sc. 3.
And when Reason's voice,
Loud as the voice of Nature, shall have waked
The nations; and mankind perceive that vice
Is discord, war, and misery-that virtue
Is peace and happiness and harmony;
When man's maturer nature shall disdain
The playthings of its childhood; kingly glare
Will lose its power to dazzle; its authority
Will silently pass by; the gorgeous throne
Shall stand unnoticed in the regal hall
Fast falling to decay; whilst falsehood's trade
Shall be as hateful and unprofitable
As that of truth is now.
Shelley. Queen Mab.

Wearing the white flower of a blameless life,
Before a thousand peering littlenesses,
In that fierce light which beats upon a throne,
And blackens every blot.
Tennyson. Idyls of the King. Dedication.
God said, "I am tired of kings,
I suffer them no more;
Up to my ear the morning brings
The outrage of the poor."
Emerson. Boston Hymin.

What are the laurels of the Coisar's brow?
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto v. St. 110.

RULE.
No rule is so general, which admits not some exception.

Burton. Anatomy of Melanchoty. Pt. i. Sec. 2. Memb. 1. Subsec, 5.
Quod si exceptio facit ne liceat; ibi nccesse est licere, ubi non est cxceptum.
If the exception make this thing unlawful, necessarily it is lawfill where there is no exception.

Cicero. Oratorio pro l. Cornelio Balbo. Sec. 32.

Isaac Watts. Divine Songg. Soug xii.
When bad men combine the good must associate; else they will fall an unpitied sacrifice in a contemptible struggle.

Edmund Burke. Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontent. Works. Vol. i. p. 256.

SAILOR.

They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.
old Testament. Psalm cvii. 23.
Illi robur et aes triplex
Circa pectus erat, qui fragilem truci
Commisit pelago ratem
Primus.
Oak and brass of triple fold
Encompassed sure that heart, which first made bold
To the raging sea to trust.
A fragile bark.
Horace. Odes. i. 3, 9. (Conington, trans.)
Give me a spirit that on this life's rough sea
Loves $t^{\prime}$ have his sails fill'd with a lusty wind,
Even till his sail-yards tremble, his masts crack,
And his rapt ship run on her side so low That she drinks water, and ler keel plows air.
Chapman. Tragedy of Charles, Duke of Byron. Act iii. Sc. 1.
Hastings. Who builds his loope in air of your good looks,
Lives like a drunken sailor on a mast;
Ready, with every nod, to tumble down
Into the fatal bowels of the deep.
Shakespeare. Richard III. Act iii. Sc. 4. l. 100.

Pass we the joys and sorrows sailors find, Coop'd in their winged sea-girt citadel,

The foul, the fair, the contrary, the kind, As breezes rise and fall, and billows swell,
Till on some jocund morn-lo, land I and all is well.
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto ii. St. 28.
O'er the glad waters of the dark blue sea,
Our thoughts as boundless, and our souls as free,
Far as the breeze can bear, the billows foam,
Surveyour empire, and behold our home!
These are our realms, no limit to their sway,-
Our flag the sceptre all who meet obey. Ibid. The Corsair. Canto i. St. 1.

SATIRE.

Castigat ridendo mores.
He chastises manners with a laugh. Santeuil.
[Adopted as a motto by the Comèdie Italienue and the Opera Comique Theatre in Paris.]
Satire should, like a polished razor keen,
Wound with a touch that's scarcely felt or seen.
Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Epigram: To the Imitator of the First Salire of Horace. Bk. ii.
Satire is a sort of glass wherein beholders do generally discover everybody's face but their own, which is the chief reason for that kind reception it meets with in the world.

Swift. The Batlle of the Books. Preface.

SCANDAL.

And there's a lust in man no charm can tame
Of loudly publishing our neighbour's shame;
On eagles' wings immortal scandals fly,
While virtuous actions are but born and die.
Juvenal. Satire ix. (Stephen Harvey, trans.)
The mightier man, the mightier is the thing
What makes lim honour'd, or begets him hate;
For greatest scandal waits on greatest state.

Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
With blossom'd furze unprofitably gay,
There, in his noisy mansion, skill'd to rule,
The village master tanght his little school;
A man severe he was, and stern to view,I knew him well, and every truant knew;

Well had the boding tremblers learn'd to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they lauglh'd with counterfeited glee "
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper circling round
Convey'd the dismal tidings when he frown'd.
Yet was he kind, or if severe in anght, The love he bore to learning was in fault; The village all declar'd how much he knew,
'T was certain be could write and cipher too.

I am where I would ever be,
With the blue above and the blue below,
And silence wheresoe'er I go.
Ibid. The Sea.

I never was on the dull, tame shore,
But I loved the great sea more and more.
B. W. Proctor (Barry Cornfall). The sea.

The best thing I know between France and England is the sea.

Douglas Jerrold. The Anglo-French Alliance.

For every wave with dimpled face
That leap'd upon the air,
Had caught a star in its embrace
And held it trembling there.
Amelia B. Weldy. Musings. St. 4.
And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill ;
But oh for the touch of a vanish'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!
Tennyson. To E. L., on His Travels in Greece.

At the foot of thy crags, O Seal
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me.
Ibid. To E. L., on his Travels in Greece.
The dim, dark sea, so like unto Death,
That divides and yet unites mankind.
LONOFELLow. The Building of the Ship.
"Would'st thou,"-so the helmsman answered,
" Learn the secret of the sea?
Only those who brave its dangers Comprehend its mystery!"
Ibid. The Secret of the Sea. Verse viii.
And like the wings of sea-birds
Flash the white-caps of the sea.
Ibid. Twilight.
A God, a God their severance rul'd; And bade betwixt their shores to be
The unplumb'd, salt, estranging sea.
Matthew Arnold. Swilzerland. vi. Absence.

Stick close to your desks and never go to sea,
And you all may be rulers of the Queen's Navee!
W. S. Glleert. H. M. S. Pinafore. Act i. (Sir Joseph Porter's song.)

SECRET.

Hamlet. And whatsoever else shall hap to-night
Give it an understanding, but no tongue. Shakespeare. Hamlel. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 249.

Hotspur. I know you wise; but yet no further wise,
Than Harry Percy's wife: constant you are;
But yet a woman: and for secrecy,
No lady closer ; for I will believe,
Thou wilt not utter what thou dost not know :
And so far will I trust thee, gentle Kate !
Lady. How ! so far?
Hotspur. Not an inch farther.
Ibid. I. Henry IV. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1. 110.
When we desire to confine our words, we commonly say they are spoken under the rose.

Sir Thomas Browne. Vulgar Etrors.
A man can keep another person's secret better than his own: a woman, on the contrary, keeps her secret thongh she blabs all others.

Il faut laver son linge sale en famille.
One should wash his soiled linen in private.

Napoleon I.

Is there whom you detest, and seek his life?
Trust no soul with the secret-but his wife.
Young. Love of Fame. Satire vi. 1. 389.

How can we expect another to keep our secret if we cannot keep it ourselves? La Rochefoucauld. Maxims. No. 90.

None are so fond of secrets as those who do not mean to keep them; such persons covet secrets as a spendtbrift covets money, for the purpose of circulation.

> Colton. Lacon. xl.

If a fool knows a secret, he tells it because he is a fool; if a knave knows one, he tells it wherever it is his interest to tell it. But women and young men are very apt to tell what secrets they know from the vanity of having been trusted.

Chesterfield. Letters, Sentences, and Maxims.

SELFISHNESS.

Dauphin. Self-love, my lord, is not so vile a $\sin$
As self-neglecting.
Shafespeare. Henty V. Act ii. Sc. 4. 1. 74.

That man may last, but never lives,
Who much receives, but nothing gives;
Whom none can love, whom none can thank,-
Creation's blot, creation's blank.
Thomas Gibbons. When Jesus Dwelt.
By whatever name we call
The ruling tyrant, Self is all in all. Churchill. The Conference. 1. 167.
I have sulbdued at last the will to live,
Expelling nature from my weary heart;
And now my life, so calm, contemplative,
No longer selfish, freely may depart. The vital flame is burning less and less; And memory fuses to forgetfilness.
P. G. Hamerton, The Sanyassi.

SELF-RELIANCE.

Ille, velut pelagi rupes immota, resistit.
Like rock engirdled by the sea,
Like rock immovable is he.
Virgile. ABneid. vii. 586. (Conington, trans.)

Come one, come all! This rock shall fly
From its irm base as soon as $I$.
Scott. Lady of the Lake. Canto v. St. 10.

Where is Truth, if there be no selftrust?

Shakespeare. The Rapeof Lucrece. St. 23.

No thought of fight,
None of retreat, no unbecoming deed
That argued fear ; each on himself relied,
As only in his arm the moment lay
Of victory.
Mliton. Paradise Lost. Bk. vi. 1. 236.
How happy is he born or taught,
That serveth not another's will;
Whose armour is his honest thought,
And simple truth his utmost skill.
Sib Heniy Wotton. The Character of a Happy Life.

With a religious book or friend. Ibid. The Character of a Happy Life.
Self-confidence is the first requisite to great undertakings.

Johnson. Works. viii. 237. (Oxford ed., 1825.)
Self-defence is a virtue,
Sole hulwalk of all right.
Byron. Sardanapalus. Act ii. Sc. 1.
Self-defence is Nature's eldest law.
Dryden. Absalom and Achitophel. Pt. i. 1. 458.

Nothing great is lightly won, Nothing won is lost;
Every good deed, nobly done, Will repay the cost.
Leave to Heaven in humble trust, All you will to do;
But, if yon succeed you must, Paddle your own canoe.
Sarah K. bolton. Paddle Your own Canoe.
My head is bloody but unhowed.

Resolve to be thyself, and know that he
Who finds himself, loses his misery. Matthew Arnolp. Self-dependence,

SERPENT.

Latet anguis in herba.
There lurks a snake in the grass.
Virail. Eelogues. iii. 93.
Serpents lie where flowers grow.
Old Ballad. The Spanish Lady's Love.
Be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves.

New Testament. Matthew x. 16.
Now will 1 show myself to have more of the serpent than the dove; that is, more knave than fool.

Brutus. It is the bright day that lirings forth the adder;
And that craves wary walking.
Sharespeare. Julius Casar. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 14.

Johnson said that he could repeat a complete chapter of "The Natural History of Iceland" from the Danish of Horrebow, the whole of which was exactly thus: "There are no snakes to be net with throughout the whole island." DR. JOHNSON. Boswel's Life. 178.
[This is chapter lxxii. But chapterxlii. is still shorter: "There are no owls of any kind in the whole island."]
Man spurns the worm, but pauses ere he wake
The slumbering venom of the folded snake:
The first may turn, but not avenge the hlow;
The last expires, but leaves no living foe. Byron. The Corsair. Canto i. St. 11 .
But the trail of the serpent is over them all.

Posthumus. Every good servant does not all commands:
No bond but to do just ones.
Shakespeare. Óymbeline. Act v. Sc. 1. 1. 6.

Orlando. O, good old man, how well in thee appears
The constant service of the antique world,
When service sweat for duty, not for meed I
Thou art not for the fashion of these times,
Where none will sweat but for promotion;
And having that, do choke their service up,
Even with the having.
Ibid. As lou Like It. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1. 56.
A faitllful and good servant is a real godsend; but truly 't is a rare bird in the land.

Luther. Table Talk. clvi.

SHADOW.

Thus shadow owes its hirth to light.
Gay. Fables: The Persian, Sun, and Cloud.
Shadows are in reality, when the sun is shining, the most conspicuous thing in a landscape, next to the highest lights. Ruskin. Painting.

Falstaff. The son of the female is the shadow of the male.

Shakespeare. II. Henty IV. Act iii. Sc. 2. 1. 141.
Follow a shadow, it still flies yon;
Seem to fly it, it will pursue.
ben Jonson. Women are but Men's Shadows.
Syene, and where the shadow both ways falls,
Merve, Nilotic isles. Milton. Paradise Regained. Bk. iv. 1. 70.

And now his shadow reach'd her as she run,
His shadow lengthen'd by the setting sun.

Pope. Windsor Forest.

The worthy gentleman who has been snatched from us at the moment of the election, and in the middle of the contest, whilst his desires were as warm and his hopes as eager as ours, has feelingly told us what shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue.

Burke. Speech at Bristol on Declining the Poll. Vol. ii. p. 420.
For this I see, that we, all we that live.
Are but vain shadows, unsubstantial dreams.

Sophocles. Ajax, 125. (Plumptre, trans.)
Let beeves and home-bred-kine partake
The sweets of Burn-mill meadow:
The swan on still St. Mary's Lake
Floats double-swan and shadow !
Wordsworth. Yarrow Unvisited.
In a deep pool, by happy chance we saw A twofold Image. On a grassy bank
A snow-white Ram, and in the crystal flood Another and the same! Most beautiful, on the green turf. with his imperial front Shaggy and bold, and wreathed horns superb.
The breathing creature stood as beautiful. Beneath him, show'd his shadowy Counterpart.
Each had his glowing mountains, each his sky,
And each seem'd centre of his own fair world:
Antipodes unconscious of each other.
Yet, in partition, with their several spheres, Blended in perfect stillness to our sight.

Ibid. The Excursion. BE. ix.
The awful shadow of some unseen Power Floats, tho' unseen, amongst us.

Sheleey. Hymn to Intellectual Beauty.

But why lament the common lot
That all must share so soon;
Since sliadows lengthen with the day,
That scarce exist at noon.

Fortunatus. Man, shackled to his shadow, cannot move
Without the base companionship of self. Alfred Atistin. Fortunalus the Pessimist. Act i. Sc. 4.

SHAKESPEARE.

Alas ! tis true I have gone here and there,
And made myself a motley to the view,
Gored mine own thoughts, sold cheap what is most dear,
Made old offences of affections new;
Most true it is that I have looked on truth
Askance and strangely.
Shakespeare. Sonnet 110.
And he the man, whom Nature selfe had made
To mock her selfe, and Truth to imitate,
With kindly counter under Mimick shade,
Our pleasant Willy, ah! is dead of late:
With whom all joy and jolly merriment
Is also deaded, and in dolonr drent.
Sir Philip Sidney. Tears of the Muses.
Soul of the age !
Th' applause! delight! the wonder of our stage !

My Shakespeare, rise! I will not lodge thee by
Chaucer, or Spenser, or bid Beaumont lie A little further, to make thee a room;
Thou art a monument, without a tomb,
And art alive still, while thy book doth live,
And we lave wits to read, and praise to give.
Ben Jonson. Underwoods. To the Memory of Shakespeare.
He was not of an àge, but for all time,
And all the Muses still were in their prime,
When, like Apollo, he came forth to warm
Our ears, or like a Mercury to charm ! Ibid. To the Memory of Shakespeare.
Though thou hadst small Latin and less Greek. Ibid. To the Memory of Shakespeare.
Sweet Swan of Avon! what a sight it were
To see thee in our water yet appear,
And make those flights upon the banks of Thames,
That so did take Eliza and our James. Ibid. To the Memory of Shakespeare.
What needs my Shakespeare for his honour'd bones,-
The labour of an age in piled stones?
Or that his hallow'd relics should be hid
Under a starry-pointing pyramid?
Dear son of memory, great heir of fame,
What need'st thon such weak witness of thy name?

Minton. Epitaph on Shakespeare.
Shakespeare, who (taught by none) did first impart
To Fletcher wit-to labouring Jonson art.
He , monarch-like, gave those, his subjects, law;
And is that nature which they paint and draw.
Dryden. Prologue to His Version of The Tempest.
But Shakespeare's magic could not copied be;
Within that circle none durst walk but he.
Ibid. Prologue to His Version of The Tempest.

So bold, yet so judiciously you dare,
That your least praise is to be regular.
Time, place, and action, may with pains be wrought;
But genius must be born, and never can be taught.
This is your portion ; this your native store;
Heaven, that but once was prodigal before,
To Shakespeare gave as much; she could not give him more.

Denden. Epistle to Congreve.
Shakespeare (whom you and every playhouse bill Style the divine, the matchless, what you will)
For gain, not glory, wing'd his roving Hight,
And grew immortal in his own despite.
Pope. Satire v. l. 69.
On Avou's bank, where flowers eternal blow,
If I but ask, if any weed can grow?
One tragic sentence if I dare deride
Which Betterton's grave action dignified,
Or well-mouth'd Booth with emphasis proclaims,
(Though but, perhaps, a muster-roll of names,)
How will our fathers rise up in a rage,
And swear all shame is lost in George's age!

Ibid.
When Learning's triumph o'er her barb'rous foes
First rear'd the stage, imnortal Shakespeare rose;
Each change of many-colored life he drew,
Exhansted worlds, and then imagin'd new;
Existence saw lim spurn her bounded reign,
And panting Time toil'd after him in vain,
His powerful strokes presiding Truth impress'd,
And unresisted Passion storm'd the breast.
Dr. Johnson. Protogue at Opening of Drury Lane Theatre, 1747. 1. 1.

Happy in tragic and in comic powers,
Have we not Shakespeare? is not Jonson ours?
For them, your natural judges, Britons, vote;
They'll judge like Britons, who like Britons wrote. Churchill. Robciad. 1. 223.
Things of the noblest kind his genius drew,
And look'd through nature at a single view:
A loose he gave to his unbounded sonl,
And taught new lands to rise, new seas to roll;
Call'd into being scenes unknown before, And passing nature's bounds, was something more.

Ibid. Rosciad. 1. 264.
Kitty. Shikspur? Shikspur? Who wrote it? No, I never read Shikspur.
Lady Bab. Then you have an immense pleasure to come.

Rev. James Townley, High Life Below Stairs. Act ii. Sc. 1.
Thou soft flowing Avon, by thy silyer stream
Of things more than mortal sweet Shakespeare would dream;
The fairies by moonlight dance round his green bed,
For hallowed the turf is which pillowed his head.

SHEEP; SHEPHERD.

Other sheep I have, whieh are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.

New Testamenl. John x. 16.
They who differ pole-wide serve Perchance the common Master, And other sheep He hath than they Who graze one narrow pasture! Whititer. A Spiritual Manifestation.
In summer's heat, and winter's cold. He fed his tlock, and penn'd the fold. Gay. Fables. Introduction.

Ye shepherds, give ear to my lay, And take no more heed of my sheep;
They have nothing to do but to stray, I have nothing to do but to weep.

Shenstone. Pastoral Ballad.
Ill fares it with the flock,
If shepherds wrangle when the wolf is nigh.
Sir W. Scotr. Haidon Hill Act i. Sc. 2.
One sickly sheep infects the flock, And poisons all the rest.
Dr. I. Watts. Songs for Children. xxi.

One rotten sheep spoils the whole flock.

Blake. King Edward the Third.

SHELL.

I have seen

A curious child, who dwelt upon a tract
Of inland ground, applying to his ear
The convolutions of a smooth-lipped shell,
To which, in silence hushed, his very soul
Listened intensely ; and his countenance soon
Brightened with joy, for from within were heard
Murmurings, whereby the monitor expressed
Mysterious union with bis native sea. Wordsworth. Exeursion. Bk.iv.
But I have sinuous shells of pearly hue
Within, and they that lustre have imbibed
In the sun's palace-porch, where when unyoked
His chariot-wheel stands midway in the wave:
Shake one, and it awakens; then apply
1ts polisht lips to your attentive ear,
And it remembers its august abodes,
And murmurs as the ocean murmurs there.
Landor. Gebir. By. v.
The soul of music slumbers in the shell.
Till worked and kindled by the master's spell,
And feeling hearts-touch them but lightly - pour

A thousand melodies unheard before.
ROGers. Human Life.
See what a lovely shell,
Small and pure as a pearl, Lying close to my foot, Frail, but a work divine, Made so fairily well
With delicate spire and whorl,
How exquisitely minute,
A miracle of design !
Tennyson. Maud. Pt. ii. Ch. ii. St. 1.
I wiped away the weeds and foam, I fetched uny sea-born treasures home;
But the poor, unsightly, noisome things
Had left their beauty on the shore,
With the sun and the sand and the wild uproar.

She lost her needle, and did then despair Ever to work so lively and so fair. Massinger ann Field. Fatat Dowry.

Nature's richest, sweetest store,
She made an Hoyland, and can make no more.

Chatterton. To Miss Hoyland.

SHIP.

Enobarbus. The barge she sat in, like a burnish'd throne,
Burn'd on the water: the poop was beaten gold;
Purple the sails, and so perfumed, that
The winds were love-sick with them: the oars were silver
Which to the tune of flutes kept stroke, and made
The water which they beat to follow faster,
As amorous of their strokes. For her own person,
It beggar'd all description.
Shakespeare. Antony and Cleopatra. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 196.

Enobarbus. Her gentlewomen, like the Nereids,
So many mermaids, tended leer $i^{\prime}$ the eyes,
And made their bends adornings; at the helm
A seeming mermaid steers; the silken tackle
Swell with the touches of those flowersoft hands
That yarely frame the office. From the barge
A strange invisible perfume hits the sense
Of the adjacent wharfs.
Shak espeare. Antony and Cleopatrc. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 200.

Postlumus. The swiftest harts have posted you by land;
And winds of all the corners kiss'd your sails,
To make your yessel nimble. Ibid. Cymbetine. Act ii. Sc. 4. 1. 27.

Shylock. But ships are boards, sailors are but men: there be land-rats and water-rats, land-thieves and water-thieves-I mean pirates; and then there is the peril of the waters, winds, and rocks.

Ibid. Merchant of Venice. Act i. Sc. 3. 1. 22.

Ships, ships, I will descrie you
Amidst the main,
I will come and try you,
What you are protecting,
And projecting,
What's your end and aim.
One goes abroad for merchandise and trading,
Another stays to keep his country from invading,
A third is coming home with rich and wealthy lading,
Hallo! my fancie, whither wilt thon go? William Harvey. Hallo! My Fancie.

SHIPWRECK.

Miranda. O, I have suffer'd
With those that I saw sufferla brave vessel,
Who had no doubt some noble creature in her,
Dash'd all to pieces. O, the cry did knock
Against my very heart! poor souls! they perish'd.
Shakespeare. Tempest. Acti. Sc. 2. 1. 5.

He who has suffered shipwreck, fears to sail
Upon the seas, though with a gentle gale. Herrice. Shipureck.
What though the sea be calnu? Trust to the shore:
Ships have been drown'd where late they danc'd before.

Ibid. Safety on the Shore.
Again she plunges! hark! a second shock
Bilges the splitting Vessel on the Rock-
Down on the vale of death, with dismal cries
The fated victims shuddering cast their eyes,
In wild despair; while yet another stroke,
With strong convulsion rends the solid oak:
Ah, Heaven l-behold her crashing ribs divide!
She loosens, parts, and spreads in ruin o'er the Tide.
Falconer. Shipwreck. Canto iii. 1. 64.
Then rose from sea to sky the wild farewell-
Then shriek'd the timid and stood still the brave,-
Then some leap'd overboard with dreadful yell,
As eager to anticipate their grave;
And the sea yawned around her like a hell,
And down she sucked with her the whirling wave.
Byron. Don Juan. Canto ii. St. 52.
And fast through the midnight dark and drear,
Through the whistling sleet and snow,
Like a sheeted ghost, the vessel swept
Towards the reef of Norman's Woe.
Longrellow. The Wreck of the Hesperus. St. 15.

SHOES; SHOEMAKER.

Ne sutor supra crepidam.
A cobbler should stick to his last. Pliny. $35,10$.
[When a cobbler, not content with pointing out defects in a shoe of Apelles' painting, presumed to criticise the drawing of the leg, the artist checked him with the above rebuke.]

Second Citizen. I am indeed, sir, a surgeon to old shoes; when they are in great danger I recover them. As proper men as ever trod upon meat's leather have gone upon my liandiwork.

Shakespeare. Julius Cæsar. Act i. Sc. 1. 1. 27.

My clouted brogues from off my feet.
Ibid. Cymbeline. Act iv. Sc. 2. 1. 214.
Him that makes shoes go barefoot himself.

Burton. Anatomy of Melancholy. Democritus to the Reader.

Who is worse shod than the shoemaker's wife?

Joinn Heywood. Proverbs. Pt.i. Ch.ix.
Ye tuneful cobblers! still your notes prolong,
Compose at once a slipper and a song;
So shall the fair your handiwork peruse,
Your sonnets sure shall please-perhaps your shoes.
Byron. English Burds and Scotch Reviewers. 1. 751.
Marry, because you have drank with the King,
And the King hath so graciously pledged you,
You shall no more be called sloemakers;
But you and yours, to the world's end, Shall be called the trade of the gentle craft.

ANON. George a-Greene. 1599.
[According to tradition the king was Edward IV., who once drank incognito with a party of shoemakers and pledged them.]

SICKNESS.

Cassius. He had a fever when he was in Spain,
And when the fit was on him, I did mark
How he did shake; 'tis true, this god did shake:
His coward lips did from their colour fly,
And that same eye whose bend doth awe the world
Did lose his lustre.
Shakespeare. Julius Czear. Acti. Sc. 2. 1. 119.

Timon. My long sickness
Of health and living now begins to mend, And nothing brings ine all things.

Shakespeare. Timon of Athens. Act $v$. Sc. 1. 1. 189.

Portia. What, is Brutus sick,
And will he steal out of his wholesome bed,
To dare the vile contagion of the night? Ibid. Julius Cæsar. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 263.

So, when a raging fever burns,
We shift from side to side by turns;
And 't is a poor relief we gain
To change the place, but keep the pain.
Isaac Watts. Spiritual Hymns. Hymn 146.

See the wretch, that long has tost
On the thorny bed of pain
At length repair his vigour lost,
And breathe and walk again:
The meanest flow'ret of the vale,
The simplest note that swells the gale,
The common sun, the air, the skies,
To him are opening paradise.
Gray. Ode on a Vicissitude.

SIGH.

(See Sorrow.)
Sigh'd and look'd and sigh'd again. Dryden Alexander's Feast. 1. 120.

Sighed and looked unutterable things.

Implores the passing tribute of a sigh. Gray. Elegy in a Counlry Churchyard. St. 20.

Who bath not paused while Beauty's pensive eye
Ask'd from his heart the homage of a sigh ? Campbell. The Pleasures of Hope. ii.

To sigh, yet feel no pain,
To weep, yet scarce know why,
To sport an hour with Beanty's chain,
Then throw it idly by.
Thomas Moore. Songs from M. P.: The Blue Stocking.

Sighs

Which perfect Joy, perplexed for utterance,
Stole from her sister, Sorrow.

George Herbert.
Intelligisne me esse philosophum?
Intellexeram, si tacuisses.
Do you understand that I am a philosopher 7. . I I should have so understood had you remained silent.

BoETHiss. De Consolatione Philosophiae.
ii. Prosa 7.
[Hence the phrase, "Si tacuisses, philosophus mansisses.]

When Demaratus was asked whether he held bis tongue hecause he was a fool or for want of words, he replied, "A fool cannot hold his tongue."

Plutarch. Of Demaratus.
A fool's mouth is his destruction.
Old Testament. Proverbs. xviii. 6.
My tongue within my lips I reign ;
For who talks much must talk in vain.
GAy. Introduction to the Fables. Pt. i. 1. 57 .

The cur's bark is worse than his bite ; the deepest rivers flow most silently.

Suffolk. Smooth runs the water where the brook is deep;
And in his simple show he harbors treason.
The fox barks not when he wonld steal the lamb.
Shakespeare. II. Henty I't. Act iii. Sc. 1, 1. 53.

Passions are likened best to floods and streams:
The shallow murmur, but the deep are dumb.

Raleige. The Silent Lover.
Eternal smiles his emptiness betray,
As shallow streams run dimpling all the way.

POPE. Epistle to Arbuthnot. 1.315.

Cure leves loquantur, ingentes stupent.
Light sorrows speak, but deeper ones are dumb.

SEneca. Hippocrates. 607.
Striving to tell his woes, words would not come;
For light cares speak, when mighty griefs are dumb.

The heart hath treble wrong,
When it is barr'd the aidance ol the tongue.

Ibid. Venus and Adonis. 1. 329.
Think all you speak; but speak not all you think:
Thoughts are your own ; your words are so no more.
Where Wisdom steers, wind cannot make you sink:
Lips never err, when she does keep the door.

Delaune. Epigram.
They that govern the most make the least noise.

Join Selden. Tabte Talk: Power.
Becanse half-a-dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chink, whilst thousands of great cattle reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not inagine that those who make the noise are the only inbabitants of the field; that of course they are many in number; or that, after all, they are other than the little shrivelled, meagre, hopping, though loud and troublesome insects of the bour.

Burke. Reflections on the Revolulion in France. Vol. iii. p. 344.

Come then, expressive silence, muse His praise.

Thomson. Hymn. 1. 118.
There is a silence where hath been no sound,
There is a silence where no sound may be,-
In the cold grave, under the deep, deep sea,
Or in the wide desert where no life is found.

Three brethren named, the guardians gloomy-winged,
Of one abyss, where life and truth and joy
Are swallowed up.
Shelley. Fragments : Silence.
A sound so fine, there's nothing lives 'Twixt it and silence.

James Sheridan Knowles. Virginius. Aet v. Sc. 2.
Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard
Are sweeter ; therefore, ye soft pipes, play on,-
Not to the sensual ear, but, more endear'd,
Pipe to the spirit ditties of no tone.
Keats. Ode on a Grecion Urn.
Speech is great, but silence is greater. Carlyle. Essays: Characteristics of Shakespeare.

As the Swiss inscription says: Sprechen ist silbern,Schweigen ist goldenSpeech is silvern, Silence is golden; or, as I might rather express it, Speech is of Time, Silence is of Eternity.

Ibid. Sartor Resarlus. Bk. iii. Ch. iii.
Under all speech that is good for anything there lies a silence that is better. Silence is deep as Eternity ; Speech is shallow as Time.

Ibid. Essoys: Memoirs of the Life of Scott.

The uttered part of a man's life, let us always repeat, bears to the unuttered, unconscious part a small unknown proportion. He himself never knows it, much less do others.

Sin is too dull to see beyond himself. Tennyson. Queen Mary. Act v. Sc. 2.

SKELETON ; SKULL.

Hamlet. Why may not that be the skull of a lawyer? Where be his quiddities now, his quillets, his cases, his tenures, and his tricks?

Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act v. Sc. 1. 1. 107.

Hamlet. Alas, poor Yorick 1 I knew him, Horatio: a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy. He hath borne me on his back a thousand times; and now, how abhorred in my imagination it is ! my gorge rises at it. Here long those lips that I have kissed I know not how oft. Where be your gibes now; your gambols, your songs? your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now, to mock your own grinning? Quite chap-fallen? Now get you to my lady's chamber, and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favour she must come.

Ibid. Hamlet. Act v. Sc. 1. 1. 204.

Look on its broken arch, its ruin'd wall,
Its chambers desolate, and portals foul:
Yes, this was once Ambition's airy hall,
The donse of Thought, the palace of the Soul ${ }^{1:}$
Behold through each lack-lustre, eyeless hole;
The gay recess of Wisdom and of Wit,
And Passion's host, that never brook'd control:
Can all saint, sage, or sophist ever writ,
People this lonely tower, this tenement refit?
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto ii. St. 6.
[Meditations on a skull found in the Acropolis.]

Edmund Waller. On Tea.
Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull
Once of ethereal spirit full.
This narrow cell was Life's retreat,
This space was Thought's mysterious seat.
What beauteous visions filled this spot!
What dreams of pleasure long forgot!
Nor hope, nor joy, nor love, nor fear,
Have left one trace of record here.
Anon. Lines to a Skeleton.
Every family has a skeleton in the closet.

Proverb.
Mrs. Craigie. Dearest, every man-even the most cynical-has one enthusiasm-he is earnest about some one thing; the allround trifler does not exist. If there is a skeleton-there is also an idol in the cupboard!

SLANDER.

(See Calumny ; Gossip.)
Pisanio. No, 'tis Slander;
Whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue
Ontvenoms all the worms of Nile; whose hreath
Rides on the posting winds, and doth belie
All comers of the world : Kings, Queens, and States,
Maids, Matrons, nay, the secrets of the grave
This viperous slander enters.
Shakespeare. Cymbeline. Act iii. Sc. 4. 1. 35.

Slander's mark was ever vet the fair ;
The ornament of beauty is suspect,
1 And keeps the palace of the soul.

A crow that flies in heaven's sweetest air.
So thou be good, slander doth but approve
Thy worth the greater.
Shakespeare. Sonnet. Ixx.
Slander,
Whose whisper o'er the world's dianeter,
As level as the cannon to lis blank, Transports his poison'd shot.

Ibid. Hamlet. Act iv. Sc. 1. 1. 40.
I'll devise some honest slanders

Squint-eyed Slander.
Beatrie. The Judgment of Paris.
Slander, the foulest whelp of sin.
Pollock. Course of Time. Bk. viii. I. 725.

Skilled by a touch to deepen scandal's tints,
With all the kind mendacity of hints,
While mingling truth with falsehood, sneers with smiles,
A thread of candor with a web of wiles;

A plain blunt show of briefly-spoken seeming,
To hide her bloodless heart's sonlharden'd scheming;
A lip of lies, a face formed to conceal;
And, without feeling, mock at all who feel:
With a vile mask the Gorgon would disown,
A cheek of parchment, and an eye of stone.

Byron. Sketch. 1.55.
Slander, meanest spawn of HellAnd woman's slander is the worst.

Tennyson. The Letters.
The tiny-trumpeting gnat can break our dream
When sweetest ; and the vermin voices here
May buzz so loud-we scorn them-but they sting.

Ibid. Lancelot and Etaine.

SLAVERY.

(See Negro.)
Whatever day
Makes man a slave, takes half his worth away.
Hомеr. Odyseey. Bk. xvii. 1. 392.

Every bondman in his own hand bears The power to cancel his captivity.

Sharespeare. Julius czaar. Acti. Sc. 3. 1. 101.

O execrable son 1 so to aspire
Above his brethren, to himself assuming Authority usurped from God, not given, He gave us only over beast, fish, fowl, Dominion absolute; that right we hold By His donation; but man over men

He made not lord, such title to himself Reserving, human left from human free. Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. xii. 1. 64.
The meanest Briton scorns the highest slave.

Addison. The Campaign.

Disguise thyself as thou wilt, still, Slavery, said I, still thou art a bitier draught.

Sterne. Sentimental Journey. The Passport.
I would not have a slave to till my ground,
To carry me, to fan me while I sleep
And tremble when I wake, for all the wealth
Thatosinews bought and sold have ever earı'd.

Cowrer. The Task. Bk ii. l. 29.
Lord Mansfield first established the grand doctrine that the air of England is too pure to be breathed by a slave.

Campbell. Lives of the Lord Chancellors. Vol. ii. p. 418.
[The reference is to Mansfield's decision in tbe case of James Somerset, a negro slave from Jamaica, who, accompanying his master to England, claimed his freedom and was bronght into court on a writ of Habeas Corpns (1772). The decision npheld the argument of Hargrave, Somerset's connsel, that England is "a soil whose air is dcemed too pure for slaves to breathe in." But the words were Hargrave's, not Lord Mansfield's. As reported in the State Trials, vol. xx, p.1, Lord Mansfield declared that-
Every man who comes into England is entitled to the protection of the English law, whatever oppression he may heretofore have buffered, and whatever may be the color of his skin :
Quamvis ille niger, quamvis tu candidus.
Cowper has summarized the plea of Hargrave and its endorsement by Mansfield in the famons lines:
Slaves caunot breathe in England; if their lungs
Receive our air, that moment they are free! They touch onr country and their shackles fall.

The Task. Bk. ii. The Timepiece. 1. 40.
Tater John Philpot Curran amplified the idea:

I apeak in the apirit of the British law, which makes liberty commensurate with and inseparable from British aoil; which proclaims even to the stranger and sojourner, the moment he sets his font upon Britiah earth, that the ground on which he treads is holy and consecrated by the genius of universal emancipation.

Before any of these British autborities Bodinus, a French jurist who flourished in the sixteenth century bad said:
Servi peregrini, ut primum Galliæ fines penetraverunt eodem momento liberi sunt. Foreign slaves, as soon as they come within the limits of France, are free.

Charles Sumner. Speech: Slavery and the Rebellion.
1 do not see how a barbarons community and a civilized commnnity can constitnte a state. 1 think we must get rid of slavery or we must get rid of freedom.

Emerson. The Assault upon Mr. Sumner's Speech. May 26, 1856.
I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free.

Lincoln. Speech. June 16, 1858.
This is a world of compensations, and he who would be nn slave must consent to have no slave. Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and, under a just God, they cinnot long retain it.

Ibid. Letter. April 6, 1859. Declining to Attend Festival in Honor of Anniversary of 'Jefferson's Birthday.
24 And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25 And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

26 And if Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.

New Testament. Mark iv.

Men! whose boast it is that ye
Come of fathers brave and free,
If there breathe on earth a slave,
Are ye truly free and brave?
Lowell. Stanzas on Freedom.

SLEEP.

He giveth His beloved sleep. Old Testament. Psalm cxxvii. 2.
Of all the thonghts of God that are
Borne inward into souls afar,
Along the Psalmist's music deep,
Now tell me if that any is,
For gift or grace, surpassing this-
"He giveth His beloved sleep"? Mrs. Browning. Sleep.
Dingenes the Cynic, when a little before his death he fell into a slumber, and his physician rousing lim out of it asked him whether anything ailed hin, wisely answered, "Nothing, sir; only one brother anticipates another,-Sleep before Death."

Witch. Sleep shall neither night nor day
Hang upon his pent-house lid.
Ibid. Macbeth. Act i. Sc. 3. 1. 19.
King Henry. O sleep, O gentle sleep, Nature's soft nurse, how have I frighted thee,
That thou no more wilt weigh ny eyelids down,
And steep my senses in forgetfulness?
Why rather, sleep, liest thou in smoky cribs,
Upou uneasy pallets stretching thee,
And hush'd with buzzing night-flies to thy slumber,
Than in the perfum'd chambers of the great,
Under the canopies of costly state,
And lull'd with sounds of sweetest melody?
O thou dull god, why liest thou with the vile
In loathsome beds, and leav'st the kingly couch
A watch-case or a common 'larum-bell? Ibid. II. Henry 1V. Aet iii. Sc. 1. 1. 4.
King Henry. Canst thou, O partial sleep, give thy repose
To the wet sea-boy in an hour so rude;
And in the calmest and most stillest night,
With all appliances, and means to boot, Deny it to a king? Then, happy low, lie down!
Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown. Ibid. II. Henry IV. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 26.

And rags and hags, and hideous wenches, I counted two-and-seventy stenches, All well defined, and several stinks!

Coleridge. Cologne.
Do you not smell a rat?
Ben Jonson. Tale of a Tub. Act iv. Sc. 3.

I smell a rat.
Butler. Hudibras. Pt. i. Canto i. l. 821.

SMILE.

Hamlet. One nay smile, and smile, and be a villain.

Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act i. Sc. 5. 1. 108.

Smile with an intent to do mischief or cozen him whom he salutes.

Burton. Anatomy of Melancholy. Democritus to the Reader.

Coesar. Seldom he smiles, and smiles in such a sort
As if he mock'd himself, and scorn'd his spirit
That could be mov'd to smile at anything.
Shakespeare. Juliuy Cæsar. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 205.

But owned that smile, if oft observed and near,
Waned in its mirth, and wither'd to a sneer. Byron. Lara. Canto i. St. 17.
To whom the angel, with a smile that glowed
Celestial rosy red, love's proper liue.

SNOW.

Her cap, far whiter than the driven snow,
Emblems right meet of decency does yield.
William Shenstone. The Schootmistress. St. 6.

Througl the slarp air a flaky torrenl flies,
Mocks the slow sight, and bicies the gloomy skies;

The fleecy clouds their chilly bosoms bare,
And shed their substance on the floating air.

Crabber. Inebriety.
Out of the bosom of the Air,
Out of the cloud-folds of her garments shaken,
Over the woodlands brown and bare,
Over the harvest-fields forsaken,
Silent and soft and slow
Descends the snow.
LONGFRLLOW. Snow-flakes.
Announced by all the trumpets of the sky,
Arrives the snow, and, driving o'er the fields,
Seems nowhere to alight: the whited air
Hides hills and woods, the river, and the heaven,
And veils the farmhouse at the garden's end.
The sled and traveller stopped, the courier's feet
Delayed, all friends sliut out, the housemates sit.
Around the radiant fireplace, enclosed
In a tumultuous privacy of storm.
Emerson. The Snow-storm.
The frolic architecture of the snow.

He who meanly admires a inean thing is a Snob-perhaps that is a safe definition of the character.

Thackeray. Book of Snobs. Ch. ii.
But honer rough to common men,
Almped Lord hewnsper of ari. Prologue. 11. 114, 115.

SOLDIER.

Othello. 'Tis the soldiers' life
To have their balmy slumbers wak'd with strife.
Shakespeare. Othello. Act ii. Sc. 3. l. 257.

Iago. 'Tis the curse of the service,
Preferment goes by letter and affection,
Not by the old gradation, where each second
Stood heir to the first.
Shakespeare. Othello. Act i. Sc. 1.

Did I say "better"?
Ibid. Julius Cæsar. Act iv. Sc. 3. 1. 56.
But we are soldiers;
And may that soldier a mere recreant prove,
That means not, hath not, or is not in love!
Ibid. Troilus and Cressida. Act 1. Se. 3. 1. 286.

The country rings with loud alarnas,
And raw in fields the rude militia swarms;
Mouths without hands; maintain'd at vast expense,
In peace a charge, in war a weak defence:
Stout once a month they march, a blustering band,
And ever, but in times of need, at hand.
This was the morn, when, issuing on the guard,
Drawn up in rank and file they stood prepared
Of seeming arms to make a short essay,
Then hasten to be drunk, the business of the day.
Dryden. Oymon and Iphigenia. 1. 399.

There's but the twinkling of a star
Between a man of peace and war.
Butler. Hudibras. Pt. ii. Canto iii. 1. 957.

Such is the country maiden's fright, When first a red-coat is in sight;
Behind the door she hides her face;
Next time at distance eyes the lace.

Soldier, rest l thy warfare o'er,
Sleep the sleep that knows not breaking;
Dream of battled fields no more,
Days of danger, nights of waking. Sir W. Scott. The Lady of the Lake. Canto i. 31.

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat The soldier's last tatioo;
No more on Life's parade shall meet
The brave and fallen few.
On Fame's eternal camping-ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards, with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

Then it's Tommy this, an' Tonmy that, an' "Tomny, 'ow's yer soul?"
But it's "Thin red line of 'eroes" when the drums begin to roll.

Rudyard Kipisno. Tommy.
$O$ it 's Tommy this, an' Tommy that, an' "Tommy, go away,"
But it's "Thank you, Mister Atkins," when the band begins to play.

Ibid. Tommy.

SONG.

Then from a neighbouring thicket the mocking-bird, wildest of singers,
Swinging aloft on a willow-spray that hung o'er the water,
Shook from his little throat such floods of delirious music
That the whole air and the woods and the waves seemed silent to listen.
h. W. Longrellow. Evangeline. Pt. ii. 2. 11. 133-6.

That's the wise thrush; he sings each song twice over,
Lest you should think he never could recapture
The flrst fine careless rapture:
1bid. Home-Thoughts from Abroad. ii.
June's bridesman, poet o' the year,
Gladness on wings, the bobolink, is here;
Half-hid in tip-top apple-blossoms he swings,
Or climbs against the breeze with quiverin' wings,
Or givin' way to 't in a mock despair,
Runs down a brook o' laughter, thru' the air.
Low ele. The Biglow Papers. Ser. ii. letter 6 .
I think that life is not too long;
And therefore I determine,
That many people read a song
Who will not read a sermon. Praed. Ballad of Brazenhead.

SONNET.

Scorn not the sonnet. Critic, you have frowned,
Mindless of its just honors; with this key
Shakespeare unlocked his heart.
Wordsworth. Scorn not the Sonnet. .
With this same key
Shakespeare unlocked his heart? once more Did Shakespeare? If so, the less Shakespeare be!
R. Browning. House.

And when a damp
Fell round the path of Milton, in his hand

The thing became a trumpet; whence he blew
Soul-animating strains,--alas! too few. Wordsworth. Scorn not the Sonnet.
Yon silvery billows breaking on the beach
Fall back in foam beneath the star-shine clear,
The while my rhymes are murmuring in your ear
A restless lore like that the billows teach;
For on these sonnet-waves my soul wonld reach
From its own depths, and rest within you, dear,
As, through the billowy voices yearning here,
Great nature strives to find a human speech.
A somnet is a wave of melody :
From heaving waters of the impassion'd soul
A billow of tidal music one and whole
Flows in the "octave"; then returning free,
Its ebbing surges in the "sestet" roll
Back to the deeps of Life's tumultuous sea.
Theodore Watts. The Sonnet's Voice: A Metrical Lesson by the Seashore.

The Sonnet is a world, where feelings canght
In webs of plantasy, combine and fuse
Their kindred elements 'neath mystic dews
Shed from the etber round man's dwelling wrought;
Distilling heart's content, star-fragrance fraught
With influences from the breathing fires
Of heaven in everlasting endless gyres
Enfolding and encircling orbs of thought.
Our Sonnet's world hath two fixed hemispheres:
This, where the sun with fierce strength masculine
Pours his keen rays and bids the noonday shine;

That, where the moon and the stars, concordant powers,
Shed milder rays, and daylight disappears
In low melodious music of still hours. John Addington Symonds. The Sonnet. iii.

SOPHIST; SOPHISM.

Who shames a scribbler? Break one cobweb through,
He spins the slight, self-pleasing thread anew:
Destroy his fil, or sophistry, in vain,
The creature's at his dirty work again.
Pope. Protoyue to the Satires. 1. 89.
Here tbe self-torturing sophist, wild Rousseau,
The apostle of affliction, he who threw
Enchantment over passion, and from woe
Wrung overwhelming eloquence, first drew
The breath which made him wretched. byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. St. 77.

SORROW.

(See Grief; Misery ; Misfortune.)
Constance. Oh! if thou teach me to believe this sorrow,
Teach thou this sorrow how to make me die;
And let belief and life encounter so,
As doth the fury of two desperate men,
Which, in the very meeting, fall, and die.
Shakespeare. King John. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 99.

Affliction till it do cry out itself,
Enough, enough, and die.
Ibid. King Lear. Act iv. Sc. 6. 1. 75,

Horatio. A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.

Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 232.

Do not drop in for an after-loss,
Alh, do not, when my heart hath 'scap'd this sorrow,
Come in the rearward of a conquer'd woe;
Give not a windy night a rainy morrow,
To linger out a purpos'd overthrow.
Ibid. Sonnet. xc.
The path of sorrow, and that path alone,
Leads to the land where sorrow is unknown.
Cowper. To an Afficted Protestant Lady.
Ah, what a warning for a thoughtless man,
Could field or grove, could any spot of earth,
Show to his eye an image of the pangs
Which it hath witnessed,-render back an echo
Of the sad steps by which it hath been trod!

WORDSWOETH. Excursion. Bk. vi.

Goethe. Faust. Pt. i. 1. 15.

To sorrow

I bade good-morrow
And thought to leave her far away behind;
But cheerly, cheerly,
She loves me dearly;
She is so constant to me and so kind.
Keats. Endymion. Bk. Iv.
Sorrow more beautiful than beauty's self.

Ibid. Hyperion. Bk. iv.
Your sorrow, only sorrow's shade,
Keeps real sorrow far away.
TENNYson. Margaret.
Comfort? comfort scorn'd of devils! this is truth the poet sings,
That a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things

Ibid. Locksley Hall
[The poet is Dante, and the particular passage is one of the most famous in the Divine Comedy (Inferno, Canto v., 1. 121):

Nessun maggior dolore
Che ricordarsi del tempo felice
Nella miseria.
No greater grief than to remember days of joy when misery is at hand.
(Cary, trans.)
There is no greater sorrow Than to be mindful of the happy time In misery.
(Longfellow, trans.)
Cbaucer has the same thought:
For of fortunes sharpe adversite,
The worst kind of infortune is this,-
A man that hath been in prosperite, and it remember whan it passed is.
Troilus and Cressida. Bk. iii. I. 1625.
Probably both Cbaucer and Dante found their inspiration in Boëthins:

In omne adversitate fortunae infelicissimum genus est infortunii fuisse felicem.
In every reverse of fortune, the most unhappy condition of misfortune is to have known happiness.

De Consolatione Philosophiae. ii. 4.]
Of joys departed,
Not to return, how painful the remembrance!

Proving absurd all written hitherto, And putting us to ignorance again. Robert brownino. Cleon.

Light flows our war of mocking words, and yet,
Behold, with tears mine eyes are wet!
I feel a nameless sadness o'er me roll.
Yes, yes, we know that we can jest,
We know, we know that we can smile!
But there's a something in this breast,
To which thy light words bring no rest,
And thy gay smiles no anodyne;
Give me thy liand, and hush awhile,
And turn those limpid eyes on mine,
And let me read there, love! thy inmost sonl.

SPEECH.

Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

New Testament. Matthew xii. 34.
[Frequently quoted in the Latin form from the Vulgate:
Ex abunantia cordis os loquitur.]
My tongue will tell the anger of my heart; 0 , else my heart, concealing it. will break.

Shakespeare Taming of the Shrew. Act iv. Sc. 2. 1. 00.

Quid de quoque viro, et cui dicas, єжре caveto.

Beware, if there is room
For warning, what you mention, and to whom.
Horace. Epistles 1, 18, 68. (Conington, trans.)

Butler. Hudibras. Pt..iii. Canto ii. l. 443.

They would talk of nothing but high life, and high-lived company, with other fashionable topics, such as pictures, taste, Shakespeare, and the musical glasses.

Goldsmitr. The vicar of Wakefield. Ch. ix.

Speech, thought's canal! speech, thought's criterion, too!
Thought in the mine, may come forth gold or dross ;
When coin'd in words, we know its real worth.
Young. Night Thoughts. Nightii. 1. 469.
Words learned by rote a parrot may rehearse,
But talking is not always to converse; Not more distinct from harmony divine The constant creaking of a country siga.

Cowper. Conversation. 1. 7.
La parole a été donné à l'homme pour déguiser sa pensée.
Speech has been given to man to conceal his thoughts.
[A famous mot currently attributed to Talleyrand during his lifetime. After Talleyrand's death, Harel, the famous fabricator of mots which he attributod to the illustrious, claimed that ho himself had put this phrase into Talleyrand's mouth. In any event, the phrase was not original. The verbal form, with the change of a single word, is borrowed from Moliere :-
La parole a été donnée al l'homme pour exprimer ses pensées.

Le Marriage Force. Sc. v.
It will be seen that the mere substitution of "déguiser" (to disguise) for "exprimer" (to express) converts a truism into a paradox.
But the paradox itself was stolen, as well as its verbal clothing. Voltaire, in his satiric dialogue, Le Chapon et la Poularde. written in 1766 , makes his capon complain of the treachery of men:
Ils ne se servent de la pensée que pour autoriser leurs injustices, et emploient les paroles que pour déguiser leurs pensées.
Men use thought only to justify their wrong doings, and employ words only to conceal their thoughts.

Oeuvres Complëtes. Vol. xxix., p. 83, ed. 1822.

Seven years previous Goldsmith had said much the same thing:
The true use of speech is not so much to express our wants as to conceal them.

The Bee, No. 3. Oct. 20, 1759.
Now, in this same year, 1759, there appeared a posthumous collection of "Samuel Butler's Remains," which Goldsmith reyiewed in the Critical Review for July 1, 1759. It is not impossible that Goldsmith's eye may have fallen upon tbe following passage:
He who does yot make his words rather serve to conceal than discover the sense of his heart, deserves to have it pulled ont like a traitor's, and strewn publicly to the rabble.

Butler. Remains. Vol. ii. p. 25.
O monstrous, dead, unprofitable world,
That thou canst hear, and hearing, hold thy way!
A voice oracular hath peal'd to-day, To-day a bero's banner is unfurl'd.

Matthew Arnold. Written in Emerson's Essays.
Goldsmith may also have been familiar with these lines of Yonng's:
Where Nature's end of language is declin'd, And men talk ouly to conceal the mind.

Love of Fame. Satire ii. 1. 207.
Likewise, both Goldsmith and Young may have read one or both of these passages:
In short, this seems to be the true inward judgment of all our politic sages, that speech was given to the ordinary sort of men whereby to communicate tbeir mind, but to wise men whereby to conceal it.

Robert South, sermon preached in Westminster Abbey. April 30, 1676.
Speech was made to open man to man, and not to hide him ; to promote commerce, and not betray it.

Lloyd. State Worthies. (1665; edited by Whitworth). Vol. i. p. 503.
A far-off likeness to the thought may be found in the following quotations:

It oft falls out.
To have what we would have, we speak not what we mean.

Measure for Measure. Act ii. Sc. 4.
Perspicite tecum tacitus quid quasque 10 quatur:
Sermo hominum mores et celat et indicat idem.

Consider in silence whatever any one says: speech both conceals and reveals the inner soul of man.

It is easy for men to talk one tbing and think another.

Publilius Syrus. Maxim 322.
Who dares think one thing, and another tell,
My heart detests him as the gates of hell.
Pope. The liiad of Homer. Bk. ix. l. 412.

Thought is deeper than all speech; Feeling deeper than all thought;
Souls to souls can never teach What unto themselves was taught.

SPENSER, EDMUND.

Here nigh to Chaucer, Spenser, stands thy hearse,
Still nearer standst thou to him in thy verse.

Whilst thou didst live, lived English poetry;
Now thou art dead, it fears that it shall die.

Anon. Epitaph on Spenser.
[Tbe quatrain is preserved in William
Camden's Reges Reginae Nobiles et alii. in Ecclesia Collegiata B. Petri Westmonasterii
Sepulti usque ad annum, 1606.]
Discouraged, scorned, his writings vilified,
Poorly-poor man-he lived; poorlypoor man-he died.

Keats. Ode to Apollo. St. 6.
Spenser to me, whose deep conceit is such As passing all conceit needs no defence.

Richard Barnfield. To His Friend, Master R. $I$.
[Tbis couplet is also in Passionate Pilgrim. St. 6.]
Like Spenser ever in thy Fairy Queene,
Whose like (for deep conceit) was never seene :
Crowned mayst thou unto thy more renowne
(As King of Poets) with a Lawrell Crowne.
Ibid. Remembrance of Some English Poets.
Old Spenser next, warmed with poetic rage,
In ancient tales amused a barbarous age.
But now the mystic tale that pleased of yore
Can charm an understanding age no more.

We view well-pleased at distance all the sights
Of arms and palfreys, battle-fields and fights
Aud damsels in distress and courteous knights;
But, when we look too near, the shades decay,
And all the pleasing landscape fades away.

SPIDER.

There webs were spread of more than common size,
And lialf-starved spiders prayed on halfstarved flies,
Churchicl. The Prophecy of Famine. 1. 327.

The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine! Feels at each thread, and lives along the line.

PoPE. Essay on Man. Es. 1. 1. 217.
Much like a subtle spider, which doth sit In middle of her web, whicil spreadeth wide:
If aught do touch the utmost thread of it, She feels it instantly on every side. Sir John Davies. The Immortality of the Soul. Sec. xviii. Feding.
Or almost like a spider, who, contin'd
In her web's centre, shakt with every winde, Moves in an instant if the buzzing flie
Stir but a string of her luwn canapie.
DU Bartas. Divine Weekes and Workes. First Week. Sixtlı Day. Jorn SYLvester, trans.
Our souls sit close and silently within,
And their own web from thenr own entrails spin;
And when eyes meet far off, our sense is such,
That, spider-like, we feel the tenderest touch.

Dryden. Marriage à la Mode. Act ii. Sc. 1.
"Will you walk into my parlour?" said a spider to a fly,
"'Tis the prettiest little parlour that ever you did spy."

And places, one keeps looking at the steeple.
byron. Don Juan. Canto ii. St. 14.
I waited for the train at Coventry;
I hung with grooms and porters on the bridge;
To watch the three tall spires; and there I shaped
The city's ancient legend into this. Tennyson. Godua.

Full seven-score years our city's pride-
The comely Southern spire-
Has cast its shadow, and defied
The storm, the foe, the fire;
Sad is the sight our eyes behold;
Woe to the three-hilled town,
When through the land the tale is told-
The brave "Old South" is down.

SPIRIT.

A ërial spirits, by great Jove design'd
To be on earth the guardians of mankind:
Invisible to mortal eyes they go,
And mark our actions, good or bad, below:
The immortal spies with watchful care preside,
And thrice ten thousand round their charges glide. Hesiod. Works and Days. 1. 164.

Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth
Unseen, both when we wake and when we sleep.

Milton. Comus. 1. 207.
Spirits when they please
Can either sex assume, or both; so soft
And uncompounded is their essence pure,
Not tied or manacled with joint or limb,

Dilated or condensed, bright or obscure,

Ibid. Paradise Lost. Bk. iv. 1. 423.
Spirits that live throughout
Vital in every part, not as frail man
In entrails, heart or head, liver or reins, Cannot but by annihilating die;

Nor in their liquid texture mortal wound
Receive, no more than can the fluid air:
All heart they live, all head, all eye, all ear,
All intellect, all sense; and as they please
They limb themselves, and color, shape, or size
Assume, as likes them best, condense or rare.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. vi. 1. 344.
Take, O boatman, thrice thy fee,-
Take, I give it willingly;

Her bosom beats,-I see the blue eyes beam:-
I think she kiss'd these lips, for now they seem
Scarce mine: so hallow'd of the lips they press'd !
Yon thicket's breath-can that be eglantine?
Those birds-can they be morning's choristers?
Can this be earth? Can these be banks of furze?
Like burning bushes fir'd of God they shine!

SPY.

Then she rode back, clothed on with chastity:
And one low churl, compact of thankless earth,
The fatal byword of all years to come.
Boring a little augur-hole in fear,
Peep'd-but his eyes, before they had their will
Were shrivell'd into darkness in his head,
And dropt before him. So the Powers, who wait
On noble deeds, cancell'd a sense misused.

Tennyson, Godiva.

STAGE.

(See Theatre.)
Jaques. All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances ;
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages. At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.
And then the whining school-boy, with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school. And then the lover,
Sighing like furnace, with a wofnl ballad
Made to his mistress' eyebrow. Then a soldier,
Full of strange oaths and bearded like the bard;
Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth. And then the justice,
In fair round belly with good capon lined,
With eyes severe and beard of formal cut,
Full of wise saws and modern instances;

And so he plays his part. The sixth age shifts
Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon,
With spectacles on nose and pouch on side;
His youtliful hose, well saved, a world too wide
For his shrunk slaank; and lis big manly voice,
Turning again toward childish treble, pipes
And whistles in his sound. Last scene of all,
That ends this strange eventful history, Is second childishness and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.
Shakespeare. As You Like It. Act ii. Sc. 7. 1139.

I take the world to be but as a stage,
Where net-maskt men do play their personage.

De Bartas. Dialogue Between Heractitus and Democritus.
Pythagoras said, that this world was like a stage
Whereon many play their parts : the lookerson the sage

The growing drama has outgrown such toys
Of simulited stature, face, and speech :
It also peradventure may outgrow
The simulation of the painted scene,
Boards, actors, prompters, gaslight, and costume,
And take for a worthier stage the soul itself,
Its slifting fancies and celestial lights,
Witlh all its grand orchestral silences
To keep the panses of its rhythmic sounds.

Roll on, ye stars! exult in youthful prime,
Mark with bright curves the printless steps of time;
Near and more near your beamy cars approach
And lessening orbs on lessening orbs encroach;
Flowers of the sky! ye, too, to age must yield,
Frail as your silken sisters of the field!
Star after star from heaven's high arch shall rush,
Suns sink on suns, and systems systems crush,
Headlong, extinct, to one dark centre fall,
And death, and night, and chaos, mingle all!
Till o'er the wreck, emerging from the storm,
Immortal nature lifts her changeful form,
Mounts from her funeral pyre on wings of flame,
And soars and shines, another and the same.

Of men and empires,--'tis to be forgiven, That in our aspirations to he great,
Our destinies o'erleap their mortal state, And claim a kindred with you; for ye are
A beauty and a mystery, and create
In us such love and reverence from afar, That fortune, fame, power, life, have named themselves a star.
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. St. 88.
This is the excellent foppery of the world! that, when we are sick in fortune (often the surfeit of our own behaviour) we make guilty of our disasters the sun, the moon, and the stars; as if we werc villains by necessity; fools by heavenly compulsion; knaves, thieves, and treachers by spherical predominance ; drunkards, liars, and adulterers by an enforced obedience of planetary influence; and all that we are evilin by a divine thrusting on. An admirable evasion of man, to lay his goatish disposition to the charge of a star!

STATE.

It seems to me that only Themistocles, of all men, has truthfully, or at any rate carefully, slown briefly what are the words which the poet Alcaeus sang long ago, for many receiving them, one from another, they afterwards came to be. Nor stones nor timbers nor the art of building forms cities, but whenever and wherever there may be found men ready to defend themselves, there is the city and the fortress.

Aristides. Orations (Jebb's edition). Vol.ii.
[Tbis probably gives the sense of what the ancients considered one of the greatest odes of Alcaens. But a single line of the original has survived --

Fighting men are the city's fortress.
It was the version given by Aristides which inspired Sir William Jones:
What constitutes a State?
Not high-raised battlement, or labored mound,
Thick wall or moated gate :
Not cities fair, with spires and turrets crowned,
No ; men, high-minded men,
Men who their duties know.
But know their rights, and knowing, dare maintain
And sovereign law, that state's collected will,
O'er thrones and globes elate,
Sits empress, crowuing good, repressing ill. ode in Tmitttion of Alcaeus.

Till you have drenched our steeples. Ibid. King Lear. Act iii. Sc. 2. 1. i.
I saw him beat the surges under him,
And ride upon their backs; he trod the water,
Whose enmity he flung aside, and breasted
The surge most swoln that met him: his lold head
'Bove the contentious waves he kept, and oar'd

Himself with his good arms in lusty stroke
To the shore, that o'er his wave-worn basis bow'd,
As stooping to relieve him : I not doubt He came alive to land.

Shakespeare. The Tempest. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 114.

Alonzo. O , it is monstrons! monstrous!
Methought the billows spoke, and told me of it;
The winds did sing it to me; and the thunder,
That deep and dreadful organ-pipe, pronounc'd
The name of Prosper; it did bass my trespass,
Therefore my son $\mathrm{i}^{\prime}$ the ooze is bedded; and
I'll seek him deeper than e'er plummet sounded
And with him there lie mudded.
Ibid. The Tempest. Act iii. Sc. 3. 1. 95.
'T was when the sea was roaring
With hollow blasts of wind,
A damsel lay deploring,
All on a rock reclin'd.
Gay. The What d'ye call it. Act ii. Sc. 8.
Come as the winds come, when
Forests are rended;
Come as the waves come, when
Navies are stranded.
Scotr. Pibroch of Donald Dhu.
Come hither, hither, my little pagel
Why dost thou weep and wail?
Or dost thou dread the billows' rage, Or tremble at tlie gale?
But dash the tear-drop from thine eye;
Our ship is swift and strong:
Our fleetest falcon scarce can fly
More merrily along.
Byron. Childe Harold. St. 18.
Come hither, come hither, my little daughter
And do not tremble so.
This ship can weather the stoutest gale
That ever wind did blow.
Longrellow. The Wreck of the Hesperus.
The sky is changed!-and such a change! $O$ niglit,
And storm and darkness, ye are wondrous strong,

Yet lovely in your strength, as is the light
Of a dark eye in woman 1 Far along,
From peak to peak, the rattling crags among
Leaps the live thunder! Not from one lone cloud,
But every mountain now hath found a tongue,
And Jura answers, through her misty shrond,
Back to the joyous Alps, who call to her aloud!
byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. St. 92.
And this is in the night:-Most glorious night !
Thou wert not sent for slumber! let ne be
A slarer inthy fierce and far delight, -
A portion of the tempest and of thee!
How the lit lake shines, a phosphoric sea,
And the big rain comes dancing to the earth I
And now again 'tis black,-and now, the glee
Of the loud hills shakes with its mountain-mirth,
As if they did rejoice o'er a young eartlqquake's birth.

STRENGTH.

Isabella. Oh, it is excellent
To have a giant's strength; but it is tyrannous
To use it as a giant.
Shakespeare. Measure for Measure. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 108.

Oh fear not in a world like this, And thou shalt know ere long, Know how sublime a thing it is
To suffer and be strong. Longrellow. The Light of Stars.
One still strong man in a blatant land,
Whatever they call him, what care I, Aristocrat, democrat, autocrat-one
Who can rule and dare not lie. TENAYSON. Maud. Pt. i. X. St. 5 .

STUDY.

(See Learning.)
Pythias once, scoffing at Demosthenes, said that his arguments smelt of the lamp.

Biron. What is the end of study? Let me know?

King. Why, that to know, which else we should not know.

Biron. Things hid and barr'd, you mean, from common sense?

King. Ay, that is study's god-like recompense.

Sharespeare, Love's Labour's Lost. Act i. Sc. 1, 1. 55.
[See under ScIENCE.]
Tranio. Mi perdonate, gentle master mine,
I am in all affected as yourself;
Glad that you thus continue your resolve
To suck the sweets of sweet philosophy. Only, good master, while we do admire This virtue and this moral discipline, Let's be no stoics, nor no stocks I pray;

Or so devote to Aristotle's checks, As Ovid be an outcast quite abjured :
Talk logic with acquaintance that you have,
And practise rhetoric in your common talk:
Music and poesy use to quicken you:
The mathematics and the metaphysies
Fall to them as you find your stomach serves you:
No profit grows where is no pleasure ta'en:-
In brief, Sir, study what you most affect. SHakespeare. Taming of the Shrew. Act i. Sc. 1. 1. 21.

It seems to me (said she) that you are in some brown study.

Jorn Lyly. Euphues. p. 80.
We spent them not in toys, in lusts, or wine,
But search of deep philosophy,

STUPIDITY.

Peter was dull ; he was at first
Dull,-Oh, so dull-so very dull !
Whether he talked, wrote, or re-hearsed-
Still with this dulness was he cursed-
Dull-beyond all conception-dull.
Shelley Peter Bell the Third. Pt. vii. $x i$.

SUICIDE.

(See Death.)
Hamlet. O that this too too-solid flesh would melt,
Thaw, and resolve itself into a dew!
Or that the Everlasting had not fixed
His canon 'gainst self-slauglter !
Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 129.

Hanlet. To sleep! perchance to dream : ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause: there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life;
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
Th' oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despised love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? Who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,-
The undiscovered country, from whose bourn
No traveller returns,-puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus, conscience does make cowards of us all;
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought;

And enterprises of great pith and moment,
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.-Soft you now !
The fair Ophelia! Nymph, in thy orisons
Be all my sins remember'd.
Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 65.

As, to behold desert a beggar born,
And needy nothing trimm'd in jollity,
and purest faith unhappily forsworn, And gilded honor shamefully misplaced, And maiden virtue rudely strumpeted, And right perfection wrongfully disgraced, And strength by limping sway disabled, And art made tongue-tied by authority, And folly (doctor-like) controlling skill,
And simple truth miscall'd simplicity,
And captive good attending captain ill:
Tired with all these, from these would I be gone;
Save that, to die, I leave my love alone.
Ibid. Sonnet lxyi.
Death may be call'd in vain, and cannot come,
Tyrants can tie him up from your relief:
Nor has a Christian privilege to die.
Alas, thou art too young in thy new Faith.
Brutus and Cato might discharge their souls,
And give them furlo's for another world:
But we like sentries are oblig'd to stand
In starless nights, and wait th' appointed hour.

SUMMER.

Sumer is icumen in, Lhude sing cuccul
Groweth sed, and bloweth med,
And springth the wude nu, Sing cuccu!
[Tradition assigns to this lyric the houour of being the most ancient song, with or without the musical notes, in the English language. In all probability it was composed as early as 1250 . It is preserved in the Harleian MS. No. 978, and was first published in Sir John Hawkins' History of Music.]

Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. viii. 1. 21.
Whether the sun, predominant in heaven,
Rise on the earth or earth rise on the sun,
He from the east lis flaming road begin
Or she from the west her silent course advance

With inoffensive pace, that spimning sleeps
On her soft axle, while she paces even
And bears thee soft with the smooth air along,-
Solicit not thy thoughts with matters hid;
Leave them to God above, him serve and fear.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. viii. 1. 160.
Together both, ere the high lawns appear'd
Under the opening eye-lids of the morn,
We drove afield, and both together heard
What time the grey-fly winds her sultry horn,
Batt'ning our flocks with the fresh dews of night
Oft till the star that rose at evening bright,
Tow'rds Heav'n descent had sloped his west'ring wheel.

Ibid. Lycidas. 1. 25.
So sinks the day star in the ocean bed,

Day!
Faster and more fast,
O'er night's brim, day boils at last;
Boils, pure gold, o'er the cloud-cup's brim
Where spurting and suppress'd it lay-
For not a froth-flake touched the rim
Of yonder gap in the solid gray
Of the eastern cloud, an hour away;
But forth one wavelet, then another, curled,
Till the whole sunrise, not to be supprest,
Rose, reddened, and its seething breast
Flickered in bounds, grew gold, then overflowed the world.

SUNSET.

Now was the hour that wakens fond desire
In men at sea, and melts their thoughtful heart
Who in the morn have bid sweet friends farewell,
And pilgrim, newly on his road, with love
Thrills if he hear the vesper bell from far
That seems to mourn for the expiring day.

Salisbury. Therefore, to be possess'd with double pomp,
To guard a title that was rich before,
To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
To throw a perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper-liglit
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful, and ridiculous excess.

Young. Satire vii. 1. 97.

SUPERSTITION.

Oh, rather give me commentators plain,
Who with no deep researches vex the brain, Who from the dark and doubtful love to run,
And hold their glimmering tapers to the sun.

CRABBE. The Parish Register. Part. 1. Introduction.

Alas l you know the cause too well ;
The salt is spilt, to me it fell.
Then to contribute to my loss,
My knife and fork were laid across ; On Friday, too ! the day I dread; Would I were safe at home, in bed I Last night (I vow to Heaven 'tis true) Bounce from the fire a coffin flew. Next post some fatal news shall tell: God send my Cornish friends be well! Gay. Fables. Pt. i. Fable 37.

One swallow maketh not summer. J. Heywood. Proverbs. Bk, ii. Ch. v.

One foul wind no more makes a winter, than one swallow makes a summer.
C. Dickens. Martin Chuzzlewit. Ch. xliii.

The swallow follows not the summer more willing than we do your lordship.

SHARESPEARE. Timon of Athens. Act iii. Sc. 6. 1. 31.

Banquo. This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting martlet, does approve,
By bis love'd mansionry, that the heaven's breath
Smells wooingly here ; no jutty. frieze,
Buttress, nor coign of vantage, but this bird
Hath made its pendent bed, and procreant cradle:
Where they most hreed and haunt, I have observ'd,
The air is delicate.
Ibid. Macbeth. Act i. Sc. 6. l. 3.
When autumn scatters his departing gleams,
Warned of approaching winter, gathered, play
The swallow-people; and tossed wide around,

O'er the calm sky in convolution swift,
The feathered eddy floats; rejoicing once,
Ere to their wintry slumbers they retire.
Тномson. The Seasons: Autumn. 1. 836.
Nature's licensed vagabond, the swallow.

Tennyson. Queen Mary. Act v. Sc. 1.
It's surely summer, for there's a swallow:
Comes one swallow, his mate will follow,
The bird-race quicken and wheel and thicken.
Christina g. Rossetti. A Bird Song. St. 2.

SWAN.

You think that upon the score of fore-knowledge and divining I am infinitely inferior to the swans. When they perceive approaching death they sing more merrily than before, because of the joy they have in going to the God they serve.

Socrates. In Phaedo. 77.
Prince Henry. 'Tis strange that death should sing.
I am the cygnet to this pale faint swan,
Who chants a doleful hymn to his own death:
And, from the organ-pipe of frailty, sings
His soul and body to their lasting rest. SHakespeare. King John. Act v. Sc. 7. 1. 21.

Othetlo. I will play the swan and die in music.

Ibid. Othello. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 247.

With bootless lahour swim against the tide,
And spend her strength with overmatching waves.
Shakespeare. Henry VI. Act i. Sc. 4. 1. 19.

The swan, with arched neck
Between her white wings mantling proudly, rows
Her state with oary feet.
Militon. Paradise Lost. Bk. vii. 1. 438.

The stately-sailing swan
Gives out his snowy plamaye to the gale : And, arching proud his neck, with oary feet Bears forward fierce, and gaards his osierisle,
Protective of his young.
Thomson. The Seasons: Spring. 1. 775.
On thy fairy bosom, silver lake,
The wild swan spreads his snowy sail, And round his breast the ripples break As down he bears before the gale.

James G. Percival. To Seneca Lake.

Ibid. Richara 1I. Act i. Sc. 3. 1. 237.
The bitter goes before the sweet. Yea, and for as much as it doth, it makes the sweet the sweeter.

Bunyan. Pilgrim's Progress. Pt.ii.
The little sweet doth kill much bitterness.
Keats. lsabella. xiii.
The fly that sips treacle is lost in the sweets.

Gay. Beggar's Opera. Act ii. Sc. 2.
For the rest, whatever we have got has been by infinite labor and search, and ranging through every comer of nature ; the difference is, that, instead of dirt and poison, we have rather chosen to fill our hives with honey and wax, thus furnishing mankind with the two noblest of things, which are, sweetness and light.

SWIFT. The Battle of the Books: The Spider and the Bee.

Lives on the labours of this lord of all. Ibid. Essay on Man. Epis. iii. 1. 41.

Thus says the prophet of the Turk,
Good Musselman, abstain from pork.
Cowper. Love of the World Reproved.
[This poem is founded on an ancient Arabian apologue, which feigned that Mahommed allowed his followers to eat every portion of the hog, save only one, Which he slyly left unspecified. Therefore, Mohammedans let the hog entirely alone, lest they might eat the forbidden portion. But the later followers of the prophet thought it hard
From the whole hog to be debarred, because a single part had been forbidden. So one took a leg, another a shoulder, a third, and a fourth, and so on, each his particular titbit:
With sophistry their sauce they sweeten Till quite from tail to snout 'tis eaten.
Hence the proverb to go the whole hog.]

SWORD.

Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that take the sword, shall perish with the sword.

New Testament. Matthew xxpi. 52.
"Put up the sword!" The voice of Christ once more
Speaks, in the pauses of the cannon's roar . .
0 men and brothers! let that voice be heard,
War fails, try peace; put up the uselcss sword.

Disarmament.

Better die with the sword, than by the sword.
S. Daniel. Civil War. Bk. vii. 26.

Richelieu. Take away the swordStates can be saved without it.

Bulwer lytton. Richelieu. Act ii. Sc. 2.

Impatient straight to flesh his virgin sword.

Pope. The Odyssey of Homer. Bk. xx. 1. 461.

When valour preys on reason
It eats the sword it fights with.

Child of mortality, whence comest thou? Why is thy countenance sad, and why are thine eyes red with weeping?
Mrs. Barbauld. Hymns in Prose. xiii.
The tear, down childhood's cheek that flows,
Is like the dewdrop on the rose;
When next the summer breeze comes by
And waves the bush, the flower is dry. Scotr. Rokeby. Canto iv. St.i1.
But woe awaits a country, when
She sees the tears of bearded men. 1bid. Marmion. Canto v. St. 16.

Oh! too convincing-dangerously dear-
In woman's eyes th' unanswerable tear!
That weapon of her weakness she can wield
To save, subdue, at once her spear and shield.
Byron. The Corsair. Canto ii. st. 15.
She was a good deal shocked,-not shocked at tears;
For women shed and use them at their liking;
But there is something when man's eye appears
Wet, still more disagreeable and striking.

Ibid. Don Juan. Canto v. St. 118.
Oli would I were dead now,
Or up in my bed now, To cover my head now,

And have a good cry. Hood. A Tabie of Errata.

E'en like the passage of an angel's tear
That falls through the clear ether silently.
Keats. To One who has been long in City pent.

There shall be love when genial morn appears,
Like pensive Beauty smiling through her tears. CAMPBELL. Pleasures of Hope. 1. 95.

Tears, idle tears, I know not wliat they mean.
Tears from the depth of some divine despair
Rise in the heart and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy autumn-fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.
Tennyson. Princess. iv. Song. 1.1.

TEMPERANCE.

(See Moderation.)
Impostor ! do not charge most innocent Nature
As if she would her children should be riotous
With her abundance. She, good cateress,
Means her provision only to the good,
That live according to her sober laws,
And holy dictate of spare Temperance. Milton. Comus. 1. 762.

Reason's whole pleasure, all the joys of sense,
Lie in three words, health, peace, and competence.
But health consists with temperance alone;
And peace, $O$ Virtue $!$ peace is all thy own.
Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. iv. l. 79.
Call'd to the temple of impure delight
He that abstains, and he alone, does right.
If a wish wander that way, call it home;
He cannot long be safe whose wishes roam.
Cowrer. The Progress of Error. 1. 557.

TEMPTATION.

Angelo. Most dangerous
Is that temptation that doth goad us on
To sin in loving virtue.
Shakesprare. Measure for Measure. Act ii. St. 2. 1. 181.

Devils soönest tempt, resembling spirits of light.
Shakespeare. Love's Labour's Lost. Act iv. Sc. 31. 257.

Temptations hurt not, though they have access;
Satan o'ercomes none but by willingness.

Herrick. Hesperides.

The devil tempts us not-'tis we tempt him, Reckoniug his skill with opportunity. George Eliot. Fetix Hali. Ch. xlvii.

The subtlest tempter liath the smoothest style,
Sirens sing sweetest when they would betray.
Drayton. Legend of Matilda the Fair.
He comes too near that comes to be denied.
Sir Thos. Overbury. A Wife. St. 36.
In part she is to blame tbat has heen tried: He comes too near that comes to be denied. Lany M. W. Montagu. The Lady's Resotve.
The devil was piqu'd such saintship to behold,
And longed to tempt him like good Job of old;
But Satan now is wiser than of yore.
And tempts by making rich, not making poor.
Pope. Moral Essays. Epis. iii. 1. 349.
As the Sandwich IsIander believes that the strength and valor of the enemy he kills, passes into himself, so we gain the strength of the temptation we resist.

Emerson. Essays. First Series. Compensation.

But in spite of all temptations,
To belong to other nations,
He remains an Englishman!
Gilbert and Sullivan. H. M. S. Pinafore. Act ii.

Why comes temptation, but for man to meet
And master and make cronch beneath lis foot,
And so be pedestaled in triumph?
Browning. The Ring and the Book. The Pope. 1. 1185.

THANKS.

Thank you for nothing. Cervantes. Don Quixole.
Bolingbroke. Evermore thanks, the exchequer of the poor.

Ibid. Hamlet. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 280.
Your bounty is beyond my speaking,
But though my mouth be dumb, my heart shall thank you.
Nicholas Rowe. Jane Shore. Act ii. Sc. 1. Words are but empty thanks.
Colley Cibber. Woman's Wit. Act v.
Thank you, good sir, I owe voll one.
Colman the Younger. The Poor Gentlemen. Acti. Sc. 2.
When I'm not thanked at all, I'm thanked enough,
I've done my duty, and I've done no more.
Fielding. The Life and Death of Tom Thumb the Great. Act i. Sc. 3.
Some hae meat and canna eat, And some would eat that want it;
But we hae meat, and we can eat, Sae let the Lord be thankit. Burns. Grace before Meat.

THIEF; THIEVING.

Set a thief to catch a thief. old Proverb.
[Zeno first started that doctrine that knavery is the best defense against a knave.] Plutarch. Of Bashfulness.

Stolen sweets are always sweeter;
Stolen kisses much completer;
Stolen looks are nice in chapels;
Stolen, stolen be your apples. Thomas Randolif. Song of Fairies.
Timon. I'll example you with thievery :
The sun's a thief, and with his great attraction
Robs the vast sea; the moon's an arrant thief,
And her pale fire she snatches from the sun;

The sea's a thief, whose liquid surge resolves
The moon into salt tears; the earth's a thief,
That feeds and breeds by a composture stolen
From general excrement: each thing's a thief.
Shakespeare. Timon of Athens. Act iv. Sc. 3. 1. 438.

Duke. The robb'd, that smiles, steals something from the thief.
He robs himself that spends a bootless grief.

Ibid. Othello. Act i. Sc. 3. l. 208.
Othello. He that is rohb'd, not wanting what is stol'n,
Let him not know't, and he's not robb'd at all. Ibid. Othello. Act iii. Sc. 3. 1. 342.

What loss feels he tbat wots not what he loses?
Broome. The Merry Beggars. Act i. Sc. 1.
Angelo. Thieves for their robbery have authority
When judges steal themselves.
SHAKESPEARE. Measure for Measure. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 176.

Angus. Those he commands, move only in command,
Nothing in love: now does he feel his title
Hang loose about him, like a giant's robe
Upon a dwarfish thief.
Ibid. Macbeth. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 19.
I this morning said
In my extremity, entreat the thief!
Try if he have in him no honest touch! A thief might save me from a murderer.
'Twas a thief said the last kind word to Christ:
Christ took the kindness and forgave the theft.
Robert Browning. The Ring and the Book, 1I.: Giuseppe Caponsacchi. 11. 865-70.

THOUGHT.

Cogito, ergo sum.
I think, therefore I am.

They always talk who never think. Matthew Prior, Upon a Passage in the Scaligerana. [See DRINz.]
Thoughts shut up want air
And spoil, like bales unopened to the sun.
Young. Night Thoughts. Night ii. 1. 466.
So in the way of writing without thinking,
Thou hast a strange alacrity in sinking. Dorset. Satire on Edward Howard.

Falstaff. You may know by my size that I have a kind of alacrity in sinking; if the hottom were as deep as hell I should down. Shakespeare. Merry Wives of Windsor. Act iii. Sc. 5. 1. 12.

With curious art the brain, too finely wrought,
Preys on itself and is destroyed by thought.
Churchill. Episte to William Hogarth. 1. 645.

And like a passing thought, she fled in light away.

Burns. Epistte to James Smith.
Though man a thinking being is defined,
Few use the grand prerogative of mind.
How few think justly of the thinking few!
How many never think, who think they dol
Jane Taylor. Essays in Rhyme. Essay 1. St. 45.
Perhaps 'tis pretty to force together
Thoughts so all unlike each other;
To mutter and mock a broken charm,
To dally with wrong that does no harm.
Coleringe. Christabel. Conclusion to Part ii.
When thus the heart is in a vein
Of tender thought, the simplest strain
Can touch it with peculiar power.

[This is a parody on Byron.]
The power of Thought-the magic of the Mind!
Byron. The Corsair, Canto i. St. 8.
We figure to oursel ves
The thing we like; and then we build it up,
As chance will have it, on the rock or sand,-
For thought is tired of wandering o'er the world,
And home-bound Fancy runs her bark ashore.
Sir Henry Taylor. Philip Van Artavelde. Pt. i. Act i. Sc. 5 .
Thought is deeper than all speech; Feeling deeper than all thought;
Souls to souls can never teach
What unto themselves was taught.
C. P. Cranch. Gnosib.

And Thought leapt out to wed with Thought
Ere Thought could wed itself with Speech.
Tennyson. In Memoriam. xxiii. St. 4. 11. 3-4.

"For ever-never,"
Never-for ever !"
H. W. Longrellow. The Old Clock on the Stairs. St. 9.
Old Time, in whose banks we deposit our notes,
Is a miser who always wants guineas for groats;
He keeps all his customers still in arrears
By lending them minutes and charging them years.
O. W. Holmes. Poems of the Class of 'g9. Our Banker. 1874.
A wonderful stream is the River Time,
As it runs through the realms of Tears,
With a faultless rhythm, and a musical rhyme,
And a broader sweep, and a surge sublime
As it hlends with the ocean of Years. benjamin F. Taylor. The Long ago.
The clock indicates the moment-but what does eternity indicate?

Drink to me only with thine eyes, And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss hut in the cup, And I'll not look for wine.
ben Jonson. The Forest: To Celia. Cf. Dickens. Our Mutual Friend. Bk.iii. Ch. 14.

King. Give me the cups;
And let the kettle to the trumpets speak The trumpet to the cannoneer withont,
The cannons to the heavens, the heavens to earth,
Now the king drinks to Hamlet.
Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act v. Sc. 2. 1. 288.

Simonides. Here with a cup that's stored unto the brim
We drink this health to you.
Ibid. Pericles. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1. 54.
And he that will this health deny
Down among the dead men let lim lie. DYER. Song.
[This song appeared anonymonsly in the early part of the reign of George I. It has been ascribed to one Dyer, first name unknown. Empty bottles were colloquially known as "dead men."]

Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen;
Here's to the widow of fifty;
Here's to the flaunting, extravagant quean;
And here's to the house-wife that's thrifty.

Let the toast pass.
Drink to the lass.
I'll warrant she'll prove an excuse for the glass.
Sheridan. School for Scandal. Act iii. Sc. 3. Song.

Here's a sigh to those who love me, And a smile to those who hate;
And whatever sky's above me, Here's a heart for every fate. Byron. To Thomas Moore. St. 2.

Ho ! stand to your glasses steady ! 'Tis all we have left to prize.
A cup to the dead already,Hurrah for the next that dies. Bartholomew Dowling. Revelry in India.

TOBACCO.

Ods me! I marle what pleasure or felicity they have in taking their roguish tobacco. It is good for nothing but to choke a man and fill him full of smoke and embers.

Ben Jongon. Every Man in His Humour. Act iii. Sc. 2.
Pernicious weed I whose scent the fair annoys,
Unfriendly to society's chief joys,
Thy worst effect is banishing for hours
The sex whose presence civilizes ours.
Cowper. Conversation. 1. 251.
For I hate, yet love thee, so,
That whichever thing I show,
The plain truth will seem to be.
A constrained hyperbole,
And the passion to proceed
More from a mistress than a weed. Lamb. A Farewell to Tobacco. 1.1.
For thy sake, tobacco, I
Would do anything but die.
Ibid. A Farewell to Tobacco. 1. 123.
Sublime tobacco ! which from east to west
Cheer the tar's labor or the Turkman's rest;
Which on the Moslem's ottoman divides His hours and rivals opium and his brides;
Magnificent in Stamboul, but less grand, Thongh not less loved, in Wapping or the Strand:
Divine in hookahs, glorious in a pipe,
When tipped with amber, mellow, rich, and ripe;
Like other charmers, wooing the caress
More dazzling when daring in full dress ;
Yet thy true lovers more admire by far
Thy naked beauties-Give me a cisar! Byron, The Island. Canto ii. St. 19.
For Maggie has written a letter to give me my choice between
The wee little whimpering Love and the great god Nick $\mathrm{O}^{\prime}$ Teen.

Kipling. The Betrothed.

[^27]TODAY; TOMORROW.
(See Yesterday.)
Boast thyself not of tomorrow: for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.

Old Testament. Proverbs, xxvii. 1.
Macbeth. To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death.

Dreaming of tomorrow, which tomorrow
Will be as distant then as 'tis today. Tome de burgotllos. Tomorrow. (BowRING, trans.)
In human hearts what bolder thoughts can rise
Than man's presumption on tomorrow's dawn!
When is tomorrow?
Young. Night Thoughtr. Night i. 1. 374.
Where art thou, beloved To-morrow?
When young and old, and strong and weak,
Rich and poor, througl joy and sorrow,
Thy sweet smiles we ever seek,-
In thy place-ah! well-a-day!
We find the thing we fled-To-day! Shelley. To-Morrow.
A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays
And confident tomorrows.

Who can say
Why today,
Tomorrow will be yesterday?
Tennyson. Song.
We're curus critters: Now ain't jes' the minute
Thet ever fits us easy while we're in it;
Long ez 'twus futur', 'twould be perfect bliss-
Soon ez it's past, thet time's wutl ten o' this;
An' yit there ain't a man thet need be told
Thet Now's the only bird lays eggs of gold.
J. R. Lowell. The Biglow Papers. Series ii. Letter 6.

Bunthorm. Ol to be wafted away,
From this black Aceldama of sorrow,
Where the dust of an earthy to-day
Is the earth of a dusty to-morrow !
A little thing of my own. I call it "Heart-Foam." I shall not publish it. Farewell!
W. S. Gilbert. Patience. Act ii.

TRANSPOSITION.

Here lie I, Martin Elginbrodde.
Have mercy o' my soul, Lord God, As I would do were I Lord God, And ye were Martin Elginbrodde.
[This is one of many variants of an epitaph frequently found in British and American graveyards. George Macdonald eites it in tbis form in his novel of David Elginbrod. James Howells, in one of his letters, gives the following quotation as the versification of a passage in St. Angustine:

If I were Thon and Thon wert I, I would resign the Deity,
Thou sbouldst be God, I would be manIs't possible that Love more can?
The sentiment has been traced back as far as the Rig Veda and other sacred books of the Orient. One example must suffice:

Were I thon, Agni, and wert thon I, this aspiration should be fulfilled. Rig Veda, viii. 19, 25.]
Isabella. I would to heaven I had your potency
And you were Isahel! Should it then be thus?
No; I would tell what 'twere to be a judge,
And what a prisoner.
SHakespeare. Measure for Measure. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 67.

If I could dwell
Where Israfel
Hath dwelt, and he where I,-
He might not sing so wildly well
A mortal melody,
While a bolder note than his might swell
From my lyre within the sky. PoE. Israjel.
If there be any one can take my place
And make you happy whom I grieve to grieve,
Think not that I can grudge it, but believe
I do commend you to that nobler grace
That readier wit than mine, that sweeter face.

TREASON.

Punica fide.
With Punic faith.
Sallust. Jugurtha, 108.
[The Poeni or Carthaginians were reputed by the Romans to be a peridious race. 1n similar vein Horace speaks of Parthis mendacior, "more lying than the Parthians," while Epimenides, and after him St. Paul, say "the Cretans are always liars." New Testament. Titus i. 12.]
Treason doth never prosper : what's the reason?
Why, if it prosper, none dare call it treason.
Sir John Harrington. Epigrams. Bk. iv. 5.

Prosperum ac Felix sccelus.
Virtus vocat.
Successful and fortunate crime be calls virtue.

SEnECA. Hercules Furens. ii. 250.
Treason is not owned when'tis descried; Successful crimes alone are justified.

Dryden. The Medal. 1. 207.
Volumnia. The man was noble,
But with his last attempt he wiped it out ;
Destroyed his country, and his name remains
To the ensuing age abhorred.
Shakespeare. Coriolanus. Act v. Sc. 3. l. 145.

Gloster. To say the truth, so Judas kissed his master,
And cried "All hail!" whereas he meant all harm.
Ibid. III. Henry VI. Act v. Sc.7. 1. 33.
And forthwith he came to Jesus and said
" Hail Master," and kissed him.
New Testament. Matthew xxvi. 49.
But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss?

Ibid. Luke xxiii. 48.
Is there not some chosen curse, Some hidden thunder in the stores of heaven,
Red with uncommon wrath, to blast the man
Who owes his greatness to his country's ruin?

Addison. Cato. Act i. Sc. 1.
Oh for a tongue to curse the slave
Whose treason, like a deadly blight, Comes o'er the councils of the brave
And blasts them in their hour of might 1
Moori. Lalla Rookh. The Fire Worshippers.

The traitor to humanity is the traitor most accursed.
Man is more tlan constitutions, better rot beneath the sod
Than be true to Church and State while we are donbly false to God.
Lowell. On the Capture of Certain Fugitive Slaves.

TRAVEL.

Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

Old Testament. Daniel xii. 4.
I have been a stranger in a strange land.

Ibid. Exodus ii. 22.
Travel, in the younger sort, is a part of education; in the elder, a part of experience. He that travelleth into a country before he hath some entrance into the language, goeth to school, and not to travel.

Bacon. Essays of Travel.
Valentine. Home keeping youth have ever homely wits,
Wer't not affection chains thy tender days
To the sweet glances of thy bonoured love,
I rather would entreat thy company
To see the wonders of the world abroad Than living duly sluggardized at home, Wear out thy youth with sleepless idleness.
Shakespeare. Two Gentlemen of Verona. Act i. Sc. 1. 1. 2.

Clown. Journeys ending in lovers meeting,
Every wise man's son doth know.
Ibia. Twelfth Night. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1.44.
Touchstone. Ay, now am I in Arden. When I was at home I was in a better place; but travellers must be content.
Ibid. As You Like It. Act ii. Sc. 4. 1. 17.
Go far-too far you cannot, still the farther
The more experience finds you: And go sparing;-
One meal a week will serve you, and one suit,

Through all your travels; for you'll find it certain,
The poorer and the baser you appear, The more you look through still.

Beaumont and Fletcher. The Woman's Prize. Act ív. Sc. 5. 1. 199.

Know most of the rooms of thy native country before thou goest over the threshold thereof.

Remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow, Or by the lazy Scheld, or wandering Po. Goldshith. The Traveller. 1.1.

I pity the man who can travel from Dan to Beersheba and cry, "'Tis all barren!"

Sterne. Sentimental Journey: In the Street.
[The allusion is to the Old Testament: From Dan even to Beersheba. Old Testament. Judges xx.1.]

The more I see of other countries the more I love my own.

Madame de Stael. Corinne.
[This sentence has been much paraphrased, the favorite form being:

The more I see of men the more I like dogs.]

Oh, I have roamed o'er many lands, And many friends I've met;
Not one fair scene or kindly smile Can this fond heart forget.
Thomas Haynes bayiy. Oh, Steer My Bark to Erin's Shore.
Some love to roam o'er the dark sea's foam,
Where the shrill winds whistle free.
Charles Mackay. Some Love to Roam.

Don't cross the bridge till you come to it,
Is a proverb old, and of excellent wit. Longrellow. The Golden Legend.

Travelling is no fool's errand to him who carries his eyes and itinerary along with him.

Amos Bronson Alcott. Table-talk. Travelling.

Coelum, non animum mutant, qui trans mare current.

Their sky, not their mind, they change who traverse the sea.
horace. Letters. i. 2. 27.
Traveling is a fool's paradise. We owe to our first journeys the discovery that place is nothing. At home Idream that at Naples, at Rome, I can be intoxicated with beanty, and lose my sadness. I pack my trunk, embrace my friends, embark on the sea, and at last wake up in Naples, and there beside me is the stern Fact, the sad self, unrelenting, identical, that I fled from. I seek the Vatican, and the palaces. I affect to be intoxicated with sights and suggestions, but I am not intoxicated. My giant goes with me wherever I go.

UNION.

Then join hand and hand, brave Americans all-
By uniting we stand, by dividing we fall;
In so righteous a cause we may hope to succeed,
For Heaven approves every generous deed.
John Dickinson. The Patriot's Appeal.
[This song was originally published July 4, 1776 , in the Pennsylvania Chronicle of Philadelphia. Parodied by the Tories, it brought forth a counter-parody in the Massachusetts Liberty Song. Morris alludes to the vogue of Dickinson's famons second line:
A song for our banner! The watchword recall
Which gave the Republic her station:
"United we stand, divided we fall!"
It made and preserves us a nation ! The union of lakes, the union of lands, The union of States none can sever. Tbe union of hearts, the union of bands
And the flag of our union forever.
George p. Morris. The Flag of Our Union.
In the form, "United we stand, divided we fall,", Dickinson's line, as amended by Morris, hecame the motto of the state of Kentucky. The idea itself goes back to remotest antiquity :

ConcordiA res parvæ eresunt, discordia maximæ dilabantur.

By union the smallest states thrive, by discord the greatest are destroyed.

Sallust. Jugurtha. x.]
When my eyes shall be turned to behold, for the last time, the sun in heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken and dishonored fragments of a once glorious Union; on States dissevered, discordant, belligerent ; on a land rent with civil feuds, or drenched, it may be, in fraternal blood:

Daniel Webster. Second Speech on Foot's Resolution. Jan. 26, 1830.

We join ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.

Rufus Choate. Letter to the Whig Convention. 1855.

The Constitution in all its provisions looks to an indestructible union composed of indestructible States.

Salmon P. Chase. Decision in Texas us. White. See Werden's rrivate Life and Public Services of Salmon P. Chase, P. 664.
[The States-Rights or Southern view is thus stated by Calhoun:
I never use the word " nation" in speaking of the United States. I always use the word "Union" or "Confederacy." We are not a nation but a union, a confederacy of equal and sovereign States. Letter to Otiver Dyer. Jan. 1, 1849.]

Our Union is river, lake, ocean, and sky :
Man breaks not the medal when God cuts the die!
Though darkened with sulphur, though cloven with steel,
The Blue arch will brighten, the waters will heal.
HoLmes. Brother John's Lament for Sister Caroline.
One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, One nation, evermore!

Sail on, O Ship of State !
Sail on, O Union, strong and great 1
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years, Is langing breathless on thy fate! Longrellow. The Building of the Ship.

Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee,-
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith trimphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee,-are all with thee!

Longrellow. The Building of the Ship.
Scilurus on his death-bed, being about to leave fourscore sons surviving, offered a hundle of darts to each of them, and bade them break tnem. When all refused, drawing out onc hy one, he easily broke them,thus teaching them that if they held together they would continue strong; but if they fell out and were divided they would become weak.

Plutarch. Apothegms of Kings and Great Commanders. Scilurus.

All your strength is in your union, All your danger is in discord.
Longrellow. Hiawatha. Bk. i. 1. 113.
Our cause is just, our union is perfect.
John Dickinson. Declaration on taking up Arms in 1775.

If this bill [for the admission of Orleans Territory as a State] passes, it is my deliberate opinion that it is virtually a dissolution of the Union; that it will free the States from their noral obligation; and, as it will be the right of all, so it will be the duty of some, definitely to prepare for a separation,-amicably if they can, violently if they must.

Josiar Quincy. Abridged Oong. Debates. Jan. 14, 1811. Vol. iv. p. 327.

The gentleman [Mr. Quincy] cannot bave forgotten his own sentiment uttered even on the floor of this House-:" Peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must."

Henry Clay. Speech. Jan. 8, 1813.
Our Federal Union: it must be preserved.

Andrew Jackson. Benton's Thirty Years' View. 1. 148. Tbast given, Jefferson Birthday Celebration. 1830.
This glorious Union shall not perish I Precious legacy of our fathers, it shall go down honored and cherished to our children. Generations unborn shall enjoy its privileges as we have done; and if we leave them poor in all besides, we will transmit to them the boundless wealth of its blessings !

Edward Eyerett. Orations and Speeches. Union Meeting in Faneuil Hall.

Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable.

Daniel Webster. Second Speech on Foot's Resolution. Jan. 26, 1830.

One Country, one Constitution, one Destiny.

Ibid. Speech. March 15, 1837.

UNITY.

One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

New Testament. Ephesians iv. 5.
We are born for coöperation, like the feet, the hands, the eyelids, and the upper and lower jaws.

Marcus Aurelius. Quod sibi ipsi. ii. 1.
Menenins Agrippa concluded at length with the celebrated fable: "It once happened that all the other members of a man mutinied against the stomach, which they accused as the only idle, uncontributing part in the whole body, while the rest were put to hardships and the expense of much labour to supply and minister to its appetites."

Plutarch. Life of Coriolanus.
Helena. So we grew together,
Like to a double cherry, seeming parted, But yet a union in partition;
Two lovely berries moulded on one stem:
So, with two seeming bodies, but one heart;
Two of the first, like coats in heraldry, Due but to one and crowned with one crest.
Shakespeare. Midsummer Night's Dream. Act iii. Sc. 2. 1. 208.

Lysander. One turf shall serve as pillow for ns both;
One heart, one bed, two bosoms, and one troth.

Shakespeare. Cymbeline. Act v. Sc. 4. 1. 229.

Heaven forming each on other to depend,
A master, or a servant, or a friend,
Bids each on other for assistance call,
Till one man's weakness grows the strength of all.
Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. ii. 1. 249.
We must all hang together or assuredly we shall all hang separately.

Benj. Frankinn. At Signing of the Declaration of Independence. July 4, 1776 .
When bad men combine, the good most associate; else they will fall, one by one, and unpitied sacrifice, in a contemptible struggle.

Burke. On the Present Discontents.
United, yet divided, twain at once :
So sit two kings of Brentford on one throne.
Cowper. Task. Bk. i. The Sofa. 1. 77.
These are two friends whose lives were undivided:
So let their memory be, now they have glided
Under the grave; let not their bones be parted,
For their two hearts in life were singlehearted.

Shelley. Epitaph.

Entzwei und gebiete! tüchtig Wort; Verein und leite! bess'rer Hort.
Divide and command, a wise maxim; Unite and guide, a better.

Goethe. Sprüche in Reimen. iii.
Our hearts, my love, were form'd to be The genuine twins of sympathy, They live with one sensation: In joy or grief, but most in love, Like chords in unison they move, And thrill with like vibration. Moore. Sympathy. To Julia.
A man, be the heavens ever praised, is sufficient for himself; yet were ten men united in Love, capable of being and doing what ten thousand singly would fail in.

Carlyle. Sartor Resartus. Bk. iii. Ch. xii .
What still of strength is left, employ This end to help attain:
One common wave of thought and joy, Lifting mankind again.

ARNOLD. Obermann.

UNIVERSE.

One Universe made up of all that is; and one God in it all, and one principle of Being, and one Law, the Reason, shared by all thinking creatures, and one Truth.

Marcus Aurelius. Meditations. 7.
I am whatever was or is or will be, and my veil no mortal ever took up. Plutarce. Of Isis and Osiris.
Seas roll to waft me, suns to light me rise;
My footstool earth, my canopy the skies. Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. i. 1. 139.
All the parts of the universe I have an interest in: the earth serves me to walk upon; the sun to light me; the stars have their influence upon me.

Montaigne. Apology for Raimond Sebond.
I am a part of all that I have met. Tennyson. Ulyses.
I live not in myself, but I become
Portion of that around me.

This truth within thy mind rehearse,
That in a boundless universe
Is boundless better, boundless worse. Tennyson. The Two Voices. St. 9.

UNKNOWN.

Omne ignotum pro magnifico.
Everything unknown is taken to be magnificent.

Tacirts. Agricola. 30.
Not to know me augurs yourself unknown,
The lowest of your throng.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. vi. 1. 830.
Seek not to know what must not be revealed,
Joys only flow where Fate is most concealed;
Too busy man would find his sorrows more
If future fortunes he should know before;
For by that Knowledge of his Destiny
He would not live at all, but always die. Dryden. The Indian Queen. Act. iii Sc. 1.
It is good to love the unknown.
Lame. Essays of Elia: Valentine's Day.

What song the Sirens sang, or what name Achilles assumed when he hid himself among women.

Sir Thomas Browne. Um-Burial. Ch. v.
Full many a gem of purest ray serene, The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear.
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.
Gray. Elegy in a*Country Churchyard. St. 14.

Such blessings Nature pours,
O'erstock'd mankind enjoy but half her stores:
In distant wilds, by human eye unseen,
She rears her flow'rs, and spreads her velvet green:
Pure gurgling rills the lonely desert trace,
And waste their music on the savage race. Young. Love of Fame. Satire v. 1. 227.
As down in the sunless retreats of the ocean Sweet flowers are springing no mortal can see,
So deep in my soul the still prayer of devotion,
Unheard by the world riscs silent to Thee.
Moore. The Heart's Prayer.
Some write their wrongs in marble: be more just,
Stooped down serene and wrote them in the dust,-
Trod under foot, the sport of every wind,
Swept from the earth, and blotted from his mind,
Then, secret in the grave, he bade them lie,
And grieved they could not 'scape tb' Almighty's eye.
Sanurl Madden. Boneter's Monument.
Some village Hampden, that with dauntless breast
The little tyrant of his fields withstood,
Some mute inglorious Milton here may rest,
Some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood.
Gray. Elegy in a Country Churchyard. St. 15.
How many a rustic Milton has passed by, Stifling the speechless longings of his heart, In unremitting drudgery and care!
How many a vulgar Cato has compelled
His energies, no longer tameless then,
To monld a pin, or fabricate a nail!
SHELLEY. Queen Mab. Pt. v. St. 9.

A dark horse which bad never been thought of rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph.

Disramel. The Young Duke. Bk. i. Ch. 5.
The world knows nothing of its greatest men.

Sir H. Tayior. P. van Artevelde. Pt. i. I. v. 19.
. . . there were some men there
Who drank in silence to the memory
Of those who failed on earth great men to be,
Though better than the men who won the crown.
Wildiam Morris. The Earthly Patadise. July. 1. 22.

For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: "It might have been!"
J. G. Whittier. Maud Miller. 1. 105.

The world which credits what is done, Is cold to all that might have been.
Tennyson. In Memoriam. lxxv. St.iv.
For deeds undone
Kankle and snarl and bunger for their due,
Till there seems naught so despicable as you
In all the grin $o^{\prime}$ the sun.
W. E. Henley. Poems: Rhymes and Rhythms. vii. St. 2.

The Somewhat which we name but cannot know,
Ev'n as we name a star and only see
His quenchless flashings forth, which ever show
And ever hide him, and which are not be.
William Watson. Wordsworth's Grave. Pt. i. St. 6.

Space is as nothing to spirit, the deed is outdone by the doing,
The heart of the wooer is warm, but warmer the heart of the wooing,
And up from the pits when these shiver, and up from the heights when those shine,
Twin voices and shadows swim starward, and the essence of life is divine.

Richard Realf. Indirection.

Back of the canvas that throbs the painter is hinted and hidden,
Into the statue that breathes the soul of the sculptor is bidden.
Under the joy that is felt lie the infinite issues of feeling,
Crowning the glory revealed is the glory that crowns the revealing. Ibid. Indirection.

VALENTINE'S DAY.

Ophelia (sings). To-morrow is St. Valentine's day
All in the morning betime,
And I a maid at your window
To be your Valentine.
Shakespeare. Hamlet. Act iv. Sc. 5. 1.

Oft have 1 heard both youths and maidens say
Birds choose their mates and couple, too, this day:
But by their flight I never can divine
When I shall couple with my Valentine.
Herrick. To His Valentine, on St. Valentine's Day.
Oh! if it be to choose and call thee mine
Love, thou art every day my Valentine.
Hood. Sonnet. For the 14th of February.
Hail to thy returning festival, old Bishop Valentine! Great is thy name in the rubric. Thou venerable arch flamen of Hymen . . . Like unto thee, assuredly, there is no other mitred father in the calendar.

Lamb. Essays of Elia: Valentine's Day.

VALLEY.

Multitudes in the valley of decision. old Testament. Joel iii. 14.
There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet
As that vale in whose bosom the bright waters meet.

Moore. The Meeting of the Waters.
Oh , weep for the hour
When to Eveleen's bower
The lord of the valley with false vows came.

1bid. Eveleen's Bower.

Beyond this vale of tears
There is a life above.

It beareth the name of Vanity Fair, because the town where 'tis kept is "lighter than vanity."
bunyan. Pilgrim's Progress. Pt. i.
[The quotation marks refer to Psalm 1xii.]
Surely men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lie: to be laid in the balance they are altogether lighter than vanity.
ola Testament. Psalm lxii. 9.
Here files of pins extend their shining rows,
Puffs, powders, patches, bibles, billetdoux.
Pope. Rape of the Lock. Canto 1, 1. 137.
And not a vanity is given in vain. Ibid. Essay on Man. Ep. ii. 1. 290.

Vain? let it be so! Nature was her teacber, What if a lovely and unsistered creature Loved her own harmless gift of pleasing feature?
HoLmes. The Professor at the BreakfastTable.

Meek nature's evening comment on the shows
That for oblivion take their daily birth From all the fuming vanities of earth. Wordswortr. Sky: Prospect from the Plain of France.
He's welly like a cock as thinks the sun's rose o' purpose to hear him crow. Georgr Eliot. Adam Bede.
[Put into the mouth of Mrs. Poyscr.]

VARIETY.

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale Her infinite variety.

Shakespeare. Antony and Cleopatra. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 140.
Not chaos-like together crushed and bruised,
But, as the world, harmoniously confused:
Where order in variety we see,
And where, though all things differ, all agree.

Pope. Windsor Forest. 1. 13.
Amidst the soft variety I'm lost. ADDISON. Letter from laly. 1. 100.
Variety's the very spice of life
That gives it all its flavor.
Cowper. The Task. Bk. ii. 1. 606.
Variety's the source of joy below.
Gay. Epistles to Bernard Lintot.
No pleasure endures unseasoned by variety.

PUblilius Syruis. Maxim. 406.
The earth was made so various, that the mind
Of desultory man, studious of change, And pleased with novelty, might be indulged.

Cowper. The Task. Bk. i. l. 506.
Wherefore did Nature pour her bounties forth
With such a full and unwithdrawing hand,
Covering the earth with odors, fruits, and flocks,
Thronging the seas with spawn innumerable,
But all to please and sate the curious taste. Milton. Comus. 1. 110.

VENICE.

In Venice, Tasso's echoes are no more, And silent rows the songless gondolier;
Her palaces are crumbling to the shore, And music meets not always now the ear.
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto ì. St. 3.

Venice once was dear,
The pleasant place of all festivity,
The revel of earth, the masque of Italy. Ibid. Childe Harold. Canto iv. St. 3.

I stood in Venice, on the Bridge of Sighs;
A palace and a prison on each hand;
I saw from out the wave her structure rise
As from the stroke of the enchanter's wand:
A thousand years their cloudy wings expand
Around me, and a dying Glory smiles
O'er the far times, when many a subject land
Look'd to the winged Lion's marble piles,
Where Venice sate in state, throned on her hundred isles.
Ibid. Childe Harold Canto iv. St. 1.

White swan of cities, slumbering in thy nest
So wonderfully built among the reeds
Of the lagoon that fences thee and feeds,
As sayeth thy old historian and thy guest.

Longrellow. Venice.

The sylph and ondines
And the sea-kings and queens
Long ago, long ago, on the waves built a city,
As lovely as seems.
To some bard in his dreams,
Tlie soul of his latest love-ditty. Owen Meredith. Venice.

VICTORY.

"Saint George shalt called bee, Saint George of mery England, the signe of victoree."
Spenser. Faërie Queene. Bk. i. Canto x. St. 61. 11. 8-9.

Pyrrbus, when his friends congratnlated to him bis victory over the Romans under Fabricius, but with great slaughter of his own side, said to them, "Yes, but if we have such another victory we are undone."

Bacon. Apothegms. No. 193.
[Hence the phrase, a Pyrrhic victory-i.e., one in which the victors suffer as much as the vanquished. The Greek phrase, a "Cadmean victory," had a similar meaning.]

King Henry. Then with the losers let it sympathize,
For nothing can seem foul to those who win.
Shagespeare. I. Henry IV. Act v. Sc. 1. 1.8:

King Edward. Thus far our fortune keeps an upward course,
And we are graced with fruits of victory.

The victory of endurance born.
Bbyant. The Battlefeld.
Speak, History 1 who are Life's victors?
Unroll thy long annals and say,
Are they those whom the world called the victors-who won the success of a day?
The martyrs, or Nero? The Spartans who fell at Thermopyle's tryst
Or the Persians and Xerzes? His judges or Socrates? Pilate or Christ? W. W. Story. To Victis.

Not one of all the purple host Who took the flag to-day
Can tell the definition So clear of victory

As he, defeated, dying, On whose forbidden ear
The distant strains of triumph Break agonized and clear. Emily Dickinson. Poems. Succesg.
"But what good came of it at last?" Quoth little Peterkin.
"Why that I cannot tell," said he:
"But'twas a famous victory."
Southey. Battle of Blenheim. Last 2 lines.

But spoke the victor then
As he hailed them o'er the wave,
" Ye are brothers! ye are men!
And we conquer but to save.
So peace instead of death let us bring;
But yield, proud foe, thy fleet,
With the crews at England's feet,
And make submission meet,
To our king."
Campbell. The Battle of the Battic.
Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won. DUKE OF WELLINGTON. In a Despatch, 1815,

VICE.

Splendida vitia.
Splendid vices.
TTertullian says of the virtues of the heathen, that, being devoid of grace, they can only be looked upon at the best as so many "splendid vices."]
O, what a mansion have those vices got
Which for their habitation chose out thee,
Where beauty's veil doth cover every blot,
And all things turn to fair that eyes can see! Shakespeare. Sonnet. xev.

Edgar. The gods are just, and of our pleasant vices
Make instruments to scourge us. Ibid. King Lear. Act v. Sc. 3. 1. 160.
J'aime mieux un vice commode
Qu'une fatigante vertu.
I prefer an accommodating vice to an obstinate virtue.

Moliere. Amphitryon. i. 4.
Count all th' advantage prosp'rous vice attains,
'Tis but what virtue flies from, and disdains.
Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. iv. 1. 89.
Vice is a monster of so frightful mien, As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.
Ibid. Essay on Man Ep. ii. 1. 217-20
For truth has such a face and such a micn, As to be lov'd needs only to be seen.

Dryden. The Hind and the Panther. Pt. i. 1. 33.
There are some faults so nearly allied to excellence, that we can scarce weed out the vice without eradicating the virtne.

Goldsmity. The Good-natured Man (Sir W. Honeywood). Act i. Sc. 1.

Vice itself lost half its evil, by losing all its grossness.

Burke. Reflections on the Revolution in France.

To a philosophic eye the vices of the clergy are far less dangerous than their virtues.

Ne'er blush'd, unless, in spreading vice's snares,
She blunder'd on some virtue unawares. Churchill. The Rosciad. 1. 137.
I waive the quantum o' the sin, The hazard of concealing;
But, och! it hardens a' withia, And petrifies the feeling!
Burns. Epistle to a Young Friend.
To sanction Vice, and hunt Decorum down.
Byron. English Bards and Scotch Reviewers. 1. 621.

Vice, that digs her own voluptuous tomb.
Ibid. Childe Harold. Canto i. St. 2.
As crabs, goats, scorpions, the balance and the waterpot, lose all their meanness when hung as sigus in the zodiac, so I can see my own vices without heat in the distant persons of Solomon, Alcibiades, and Catiline.

Emerson. Essays. First Series. History.

VICTORIA AND ALBERT.

Broad-based upon her people's will, And compassed by the inviolate sea. Tennyson. To the Queen. St. 9 .

My own ideal knight,
Who reverenced his conscience as his king ;
Whose glory was, redressing human wrong;
Who spake no slander, no, nor listen'd to it;
Who loved one only and who clave to her.
Ibid. Idylls of the King. Dedication. 11. 6-10.

In that fierce light which beats upon a throne.
Ibid. Idylls of lhe King. Dedication. 1. 26.

Great is the facile conqueror;
Yet happy he, who, wounded sore,
Breathless, unhorsed, all covered o'er
With blood and sweat,
Sinks foiled, but fighting evermore, Is greater yet.
William Watson, In Laleham Church. yard. St. 14.

VILLAIN.

Hamlet. O villain, villain, smiling, damned villain!
My tables,-meet it is I set it down,
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain:
At least I'm sure it may be so in Denmark.
Shakegpeare. Hamlet. Act i. Sc. 5. 1. 106.

Hamlet. There's ne'er a villain dwelling in all Denmark,-
But he's an arrant knave.
Horatio. There needs no ghost, my lord, come from the grave
To tell us this.

Ducks to the golden fool: all is oblique;
There's nothing loved in our cursed natures
But direct villainy.
I bid. Timon of Athens. Act xv. Sc. 3. 1.17.

Shylock. The villainy you teach me I will execute, and it shall go hard, but I will better the instruction.

Ibid. The Merchant of Venice. Act iii. Sc. 1. 1. 75.

VIRGINITY.

Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son and shall call his name Immanuel.

Old Testament. Isaiah vii. 14.
[Cy. New Testament. Matthew i. 23.]
Theseus. Therefore, fair Hermia, question your desires,
Know of your youth, examine well your blood,
Whether if you yield not to your father's choice
You can endure the livery of a nun; For aye to he in shady cloister mew'd To live a harren sister all your life, Chanting faint hymns to the cold fruitless moon.

Thrice blessed they, that master so their blood,
To undergo their maiden pilgrimage;
But earthlier bappy is the rose distill'd
Than that which, withering on the virgin thom,
Grows, lives, and dies in single blessed$f$ ness.

Shakespeare. Midsummer Night's Dream. Act i. Sc. 1. 1. 67.
Maidens withering on the stalk. Wordsworth. Personal Tatk. St.i.
Where the virgins are soft as the roses they twine
And all save the spirit of man is divine? Byron. Bride of Abydos. Canto i. St. 1.
But a celestial brightness,-a more ethereal beauty-
Shone on her face and encircled her form when, after confession,
Homeward serenely she walked with God's benedictions upon her.
When she had passed, it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music.
Longrellow. Evangeline. Pt. i.

VIRTUE.

Ipsa quidem virtus præmium sibi.
Virtue is indeed its own reward.
Claudianus. De Consulatu Malli Theodorii Panegyris. i.
Virtue is her own reward.
Dryden. Tyrannic Love. Actiii. Sc. 1.
Doubt not but angling will prove to be so pleasant that it will prove to be, like virtue, a reward to itself.

Isace Walton. The Angler.
The only reward of virtue is virtue. Emerson. Essays. Friendship.
Vivit post funera virtus.
Virtue lives after the funeral.
[Dr. Cains in 1557 inscribed this motto on Linnere's monument in old St. Paul's Church, London.]

Hamlet. Assume a virtue, if you have it not.

Hamlet. Act iii. Sc. 4. 1. 160.
Duke. Virtue is bold, and goodness never fearful.

Sir Toby Belch. Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cakes and ale?

Shakespeare. Tweifth Noght. Aet ii. sc. 3. 1. 124.
Friar Laurence. Virtue itself turns vice, being misapplied;
And vice sometimes by action dignified.
Ibid. Romeo and Juliet. Act ii. Sc. 3 . 1. 21.

Escalus. Some rise by sin, and some by virtue fall.
Ibid. Measure for Measure. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 38 .

King. From lowest place when virtuous things proceed,
The place is dignify'd by the doer's deed.
Ibid. All's Well that Ends Well. Act ii. Sc. 3. 1. 132.

Virtue is not malicious; wrong done her
Is righted even when men grant they err.
georgr chapman. Monsieut d'olive. Act i. Sc. 1. 1. 127.
Virtue could see to do what Virtue would
By her own radiant light, though sun and moon
Were in the flat sea sunk. Militon. Comus. 1. 373.

Virtue may be assail'd, but never hurt ;
Surpris'd hy unjust force, but not enthrall'd;
Yea, even that which mischief meant most harm,
Shall in the happy trial prove most glory.

Ibid. Comus. 1. 589.

Most men admire

Virtue, who follow not ber lore.
Ibid. Paradise Regained. Bk. i. 1. 482
There is no road or ready way to virtue.

Sir Thomas Browne. Religio Medici I. sect. 1v.
Virtue in distress, and vice in triumph Make atheists of mankind.

DRyden. Cleomenes.

When the prizes fall to the lot of the wicked, you will not find many who are virtuous for virtue's sake.

Sallust. History. Bk. 1. (Fragment.)
Only a sweet and virtuous soul,
Like season'd timber, never gives;
But though the whole world turn to coal,
Then chiefly lives.
Herbert. The Church. I'irtue.
For blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds,
And though late, a sure reward succeeds.
Conoreye. The Mourning Bride. Act v. Sc. 3.

O let us still the secret joy partake,
To follow virtue even for virtue's sake.
Pope. Temple of Fame. 1, 364.
You ask what I seek from virtue? Itself. For virtue has nothing better to give; its value is in itself.

SENECA. De Vita Beata. ix. 4.
Know then this truth (enough for man to know)
"Virtue alone is happiness below." Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. iv. 1. 309.

Virtue was sufficient of herself for happiness.

Diogenes Laertius. Plato. xlii.
That yirtue only makes our bliss below, And all our know ledge is ourselves to know. Pope. Essay on Man. Ep.iv. 1. 397.
Well may your heart believe the truths I tell:
'Tis virtue makes the bliss, where'er we dwell.

Collins. Eclogue 1. 1. 5. Selim.
Virtuous and vicious ev'ry Man must be,
Few in th' extreme, but all in the degree.
POPE. Essay on Man. Ep. ii. 1. 231.
The diff'rence is too nice
Where ends the virtue, or begins the vice.
1bid. Essay on Man. Ep. ii. 1. 209.
Virtue may choose the high or low degree,
'Tis just alike to Virtue and to me;
Dwell in a monk, or light upon a king,
She's still the same belov'd contented thing.
Ibid. Epilogue to the Satires. Dialogue i. 1. 137.

Virtue she finds too painful an endeavor,
Content to dwell in decencies forever. Ibid. Morat Essays. Ep. ii. l. 163.
Our virtues are most frequently but vices disguised.

La Rochefoucauld.

[This epigram, which is the key to the system of La Rochefoucanld, is found in another form as No. 179 of the Maxims of the first edition, 1665 ; it is omitted from the second and third, and reappears in the fourth edition at the head of theReflections].

I find that the best virtue $I$ have has in it some tincture of vice.

Montaigne. Essays. That We Taste Nothing Pure.
Curse on his virtues! they've undone his country.

ADDIson. Cato. Act iv, Sc. 4.
Virtue alone outbuilds the pyramids:
Her monuments shall last, when Egypt's fall.
Youno, Night Thoughts. Night vi. 1. 314.
For, when with beauty we can virtue join,
We paint the semblance of a form divine.

Prion. To the Countess of Oxford.
All the brothers were valiant, and all the sisters virtuous.
[From the inscription on the tomb of the Duchess of Newcastle in Westminster Abbey.]
To Virtue's humblest son let none prefer
Vice, though descended from the Conqueror.
Yoine. Night Thoughts. Night vi. 1. 314.

The virtue which requires to be ever guarded is scarcely worth the sentinel.

Goldsmith. The Vicar of Wakefield. $\mathrm{Ch} . \mathrm{\nabla}$.
There is, however, a limit at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue.

Burike. Present State of the Nation. Vol. i. p. 273.

And he by no uncommon lot
Was famed for virtues he had not.
Cowper. To the Rev. William Bull.
The only amaranthine flower on earth Is virtue.

Ibid. The Task. Bk. iii. 1. 268.

In virtues nothing earthly could surpass her
Save thine incomparable oil, Macassar! Byron. Don Juan. Canto i. St. 17.

Glory of Virtue, to fight, to struggle, to right the wrong -
Nay, but she aim'd not at glory, no lover of glory she:
Give her the glory of going on, and still to be.

Tennyson. Maud.

VISION.

Gorgons, and Hydras and Chimmras dire!
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. ii. 1. 625.
The people's prayer, the glad diviner's theme!
The young man's vision, and the old man's dream.
Dryden. Absalom and Achitophel. Pt.i. 1. 238.

Hence the fool's paradise, the statesman's scheme,
The air-built castle, and the golden dream,
The maid's romantic wish, the chemist's flame,
And poet's vision of eternal fame. Pope. Dunciad. Bkr.iii. l. 9.

Visions of glory, spare my aching sight!
Ye unborn ages, crowd not on my soul. Gray. The Bard. iii. 1. 11.

Fond man! the vision of a moment made!
Dream of a dream! and shadow of a shade!
Young. Paraphrase on Part of the Book of Job. 1. 187.

But shapes that come not at an earthly call,
Will not depart when mortal voices bid.

Wordsworth. Dion. v.
My thoughts by night are often filled
With visions false as fair:
For in the past alone, I build
My castles in the air.
Thos. Love Peacoce. Castles in the Air. St. 1.

An angel stood and met my gaze,
Through the low doorway of my tent; The tent is struck, the vision stays;

I only know she came and went.

VOICE.

The voice is Jacob's voice, hut the hands are the hands of Esau.

Old Testameni. Genesis xxvii. 22.
The voice of the people is the voice of God.

Hesiod. Works and Days. 763.
[In its Latin form, Vox populi, vox Dei, this saying has become one of the most popular of proverbs. Pope Sylvester II. in one of his epistles actually refers it to the Bible: "Scriptiora dicente vox populi, vox Dei," "Scripture calling the voice of the people, the roice of God." Possibly this is a misreading of a passage in the Old Testament:
A voice of noise from the city, a voice from the temple, a voice of God that rendereth recompense to His enemies.

1saiah. 1xvi. 6].
The people's voice is odd,
It is, and it is not, the voice of God.
Pope. To Augustus. Bk. ii. Ep. i. 1. 89.
Vox et preterea nihil.
All voice and nothing else.
[This proverb is probably the Latin version of a phrase used in Greek by Plntarch. The context is as follows: "A Laconian having plucked all the feathers off from a nightingale, and seeing what a little body it had 'Surely,' quoth he, 'that art all voice and nothing else.'"

- Laconic Apothegms.

Vox clamantis in deserto.
The voice of one crying in the wilderness.

The Vulgate. Isaiah xl. 3.
Romeo. How silver-sweetsound lovers' tongues by night,
Like softest music to attending ears !
Romeo and Juliet. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 166.

Lear. Her voice was ever soft,
Gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman.

King Lear. Act v. Sc. 3. 1. 272.
How sweetly sounds the voice of a good woman!
It is so seldom heard, that, when it speaks,
It ravishes all senses. Middleton. The Old Law. Act iv. Sc. 2.

The Angel ended, and in Adam's ear
So charming left his voice, that he awhile
Thought him still speaking, still stood fix'd to hear.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. viii. 1. 1.
The voice so sweet, the words so fair,
As some soft chime had stroked the air;
And though the sonnd had parted thence,
Still left an echo in the sense.
Ben Jonson. Eupheme. iv.
I hear a voice you cannot hear, Which says I must not stay;
I see a hand you cannot see, Which beckons me away. Ttckeli. Colin and Lucy.

His voice no touch of harmony admits, Irregularly deep, and shrill by fits.
The two extremes appear like man and wife
Coupled together for the sake of strife. Chorchill. Roseiad. 1. 1003.
But I will aggravate my voice so that I will roar you as gently as any sucking dove.

A Midsummer Night's Dream. Acti. Sc. 2. 1. 83.

His voice was propertied
As all the tuned spheres.
Antony and Cleopatra. v. 2. 1. 28.
A voice so thrilling ne'er was heard
In spring-time from the cuckoo bird,
Breaking the silence of the seas
Among the farthest Hebrides.
WORDSWORTH. The Solitary Reaper.
The devil hath not in all his quiver's choice
An arrow for the heart like a sweet voice.
Byron. Don Juan. Canto xv. St. 13.

For it stirs the blood in an old man's heart,
And makes his pulses fly,
To catch the thrill of a happy voice And the light of a pleasant eye.
N. P. WILLiss. Saturday Afternoon.

Her silver voice
Is the rich music of a summer bird,
Heard in the still night, with its passionate cadence.
Longrellow. The Spirit of Poetry. 1. 55.
He ne'er is crown'd
With immortality, who fears to follow
Where airy voices lead.
Keats. Endymyon, Bk.ii. . . . quiet, priestlike voice,
Too used to syllable damnations round
To make a natural emphasis worth while.
elizabeth Barrett Browning. Aurora Leigh. Bk. iv. 1. 630.
A still small voice spake unto me.
tennyson. The Two Voices. 1. i. !
The still, sad music of humanity.
Wordsworth. Lines Composed a Few Miles above Tintern Abbey.
The still small voice of gratitude.
Inexorable couscience holds his court,
With still, small voice the plot of guilt alarms.

A good sword and a trusty hand, A merry heart and true,
King James's men shall understand What Cornish lads can do.
Robert Stephen Hawkes. The Song of the Western Men.

And have they fixed thee where and when,
And shall Trelawny die?
Here's twenty thousand Cornish men
Will know the reason why!
Ibid. The Song of the Western Men.

WAR.

Bella! horrida bella!
War! horrible war!
Virail. ITneid. Bk. vi. 1.86.
Arms and the man I sing, who, forced by fate
And haughty Juno's unrelenting hate.
Virgil. Eleeid. 1.1. (Dryden trans.)
Delenda est Carthago.
Carthage must be destroyed.
Сато, the Elder.
[Cato's hatred and fear of Carthage was such that, relevantly or irrelevantly, he concluded every speech made in the Senate and every letter written to his friends with the words: Ceterum censeo, Carthaginem esse detendam. "For the rest I hold that Carthage should be destroyed.'"]
Dulce bellum inexpertis.
War is delightful to those who have had no experience of it.
Erasmus. Adagiorum Chiliades. Imperitia.

And the stern joy which warriors feel In foemen worthy of their steel. Scott. Lady of the Lake. Canto.

Young Clifford. O war! thou son of hell,
Whom angry heavens do make their minister,
Throw in the frozen bosoms of our part
Hot coals of vengeance! Let no soldier fly.
He that is truly dedicate to war
Hath no self-love, nor he that loves himself
Hath not essentially but by circumstance
The name of valour.
Shakespeare II. Henty VI. Act $\mathbf{v}$. sc. 2. 1, 33.

War is hell.
GENERAL W. T. Sherman. In Conversation.

King Henry. Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more;
Or close the wall up with our English dead.
In peace, there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility:
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger,
Stiffen the sinews, summon up the blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favored rage;
Then lend the eye a terrible aspect.
Let it pry through the portage of the head,

Like the brass cannon; let the brow o'erwhelm it
As fearfully as doth a galled rock
O'erhang and jutty his confounded base.
Now set the teeth, and stretch the nostril wide;
Hold hard the breath, and bend up every spirit
To his full height l-on, on you noble English!

My voice is still for war.
Gods! can a Roman senate long debate
Which of the two to choose, slavery or death?

Addrson. Cato. Act ii. Sc. 1.
War, war is still the cry. "War even to the knife!"
byron. Childe Harold. Canto i. St. 86.
[This is a reference to the reply given by Palafox, Governor of Saragossa, when summoned to surreader by the French in 1808: "Gnerra al cuchillo:" "War to the knife!"

The brazen throat of war had ceased to roar.
Milion. Paradise Lost. Bk. x. 1. 713.

They now to fight are gone;
Armor on armor shone;
Drum now to drum did groan,
To hear was wonder;
That with the cries they make,
The very earth did shake;
Trumpet to trumpet spake,
Thunder to thunder.

Ultima ration regum.
The final argument of kings.
[Inscription on cannons of Louis XIV.'s time, and on Prussian guns of the present day. It seems to have beell a motto for pieces of ordnance in use as far back as 1613 (Buchmann, Gefl. Wörte, p. 476). Calderon calls war the Ultima razon de reges.The last argument of kings.]
"War," says Machiavel, "ought to be the only study of a prince"; and by a prince he means every sort of state, however constituted. "He ought," says this great political doctor, " to consider peace only as a breathing-time, which gives him leisure to contrive, and furnishes ability to execute military plans." A meditation on the conduct of political societies made old Hobbes imagine that war was the state of nature.

Burke. A Vindication of Natural Saciety. Vol. i. p. 15.
Hobbes clearly proves that every creature
Lives in a state of war hy nature.

> SWLFT. Poetry. A Rhapsody.

I hate that drum's discordant sound
Parading round and round and round:
To me it talks of ravaged plains,
And burning towns, and ruined swains,
And mangled limbs, and dying groans,
And widows' tears, and orphans' moans;
And all that misery's hand bestows
To fill the catalogue of human woes.

They came with banner, spear, and shield;
And it was proved in Bosworth field,
Not long the a venger was withstood-
Earth help'd him with the cry of hlood.
Wornsworti. Song at the Feast of Braugham Castle. St. 3.
War is the statesman's game, the priest's delight,
The lawyer's jest, the hired assassin's trade.

Shelley. Queen Mab. iv.
Carnage, so Wordsworth tells you, is God's daughter.
Byron. Don Juan. Canto viii. St. 9.
[In a note Byron quotes the following lines as from Wordsworth's Thanksgiving ode:
But Thy most dreaded instrument,
In working ont a pure intent,
Is man arrayed for mutual slaughter.
Yea, Carnage is thy daughter.
Wordsworth revised these lines, and they now appear in this form:
But man is thy most awful instrument
In working ont a pure intent.
Thou cloth'st the wicked in their dazzling mail,
And for thy righteous purpose they prevail. Paems of the Imagination. Ode. 1815.]
And there was mounting in hot haste: the steed,
The mustering squadron, and the clattering car,
Went pouring forward with impetuous speed,
And swiftly forming in the ranks of war;
And the deep thunder peal on peal, afar
And near, the beat of the alarming drum
Roused up the soldier ere the morning star;
While throng'd the citizens with terror dumb,
Or whispering with white lips-" "The foe! they come! they come!"
Byron. Childe Harold. Canto iii. St. 25.

Hang out our banners on the outward walls;
The cry is still, "They come!" Our castle's strength
Will laugh a siege to scorn.

WATCH.

'Tis with our judgments as our watches, -none
Go just alike, yet each believes bis own. Pope. Essay on Criticism. Pt.i. 1. 9.
But as when an authentic watch is shown, Each man winds up and rectifies his own, So in our very judgments.

SUCKLing. Aglaura: Epilogue.
The reasoning by which Socrates in Xenophon's hearing confuted the little atheist Aristodemus, is exactly the reasoning of Paley's Natural Theology. Socrates makes precisely the same use of the statues of Polycletus and the pictures of Zeuxis which Paley makes of the watch.

Macaulay. Essays: Von Ranke.
[Macaulay's reference is to a once-famous argument which Paley probably derived from the Dutch theologian Nienwentyt, as he has clad it in similar words.
Paley's book was published in 1784. He knew no Dntch, but an English translation of Nieuwentyt, by Chamberlayne, appeared nnder the title The Religious Philosopher in 1718. After all, the illustration itself is an ancient commonplace. Voltaire, who made a long sojourn in Holland and may have been acquainted with the works of the Dutch theologian, has these lines:
Le monde m'embarrasse, et je ne puia songer Que cette horloge existe et n'a pas d'horloger.
(The world embarasses me, and I cannot dream
That this watch exists and has no watehmaker.)
Hallam (Iiterature of Europe. ii. 385) traces the idea all the way back to a passage in Cicero (De Naturd Deorum), where he imagines a man in Scythia or britain diacovering a recently invented astronomical machine intended to show the revolutions of the sun and moon. Such a man, says Cicero, wonld not doubt it to be the work of a reasonable being. Herbert, of Cherbury, elaboratea the illustration of a clock in the treatisc De Religione Gentilium. It appears again in Hale's Primitive Origination of Mankind. Bolingbroke uses it in bis letter to Ponilly, and Clark in hia first sermon. Blackmore says in The Creation. Book 111.:

In all the parts of Nature'a spacious sphere Of art ten thouaand miracles appear;
And will you not the Author's skill adore
Becanse you think he might discover more?
You own a watch the invention of the mind,
Though for a aingle motion 'tis designed,
As well as that which ia with greater thought,
With various springs, for various motions wrought.]

WEDDING.

(See Marriage.)
As the bridegroom rejoiceth over the bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee. Old Testament. Isaiah lxii. 5.
To have and to bold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in liealth, to love and to cherish, till death us do part.

Book of Common Prayer: Solemnization of Matrimony.
Behold, whiles she before the altar stands,
Hearing the holy priest that to her speakes,
And blesseth her with his two happy hands,
How the red roses flush up in her cheekes,
And the pure snow, with goodly vermill stayne,
Like crimsin dyde in grayne:
That even th' angels, which continually
About tbe sacred altare doe remaine,
Forget their service and about her fly,
Ofte peeping in her face, that seems more fayre
The more they on it stare.
Spenser. Epithalamion.
Portia. As are those dulcet sounds in break of day
That creep into the dreaming bridegroom's ear'
And summon him to marriage.
Shakespeare. Merchant of Venice.
Diana. If you shall marry,
You give away this hand, and that is mine;
You give away heaven's vows, and those are mine;
You give away myself, which is known mine.
Ibid. All's Well That Ends Well. Act v. Sc. 3. 1. 169.

To the nuptial bower
I led her blushing like the morn: all heaven
And happy constellations on that hour Shed their selectest influence; the earth Gave sign of gratulation, and each hill; Joyous the birds; fresh gales and gentle airs
Whispered it to the woods, and from their wings
Flung rose, flung odors from the spicy shrub.
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. viii. 1.510.
Other rites
Observing none, but adoration pure
Which God likes best, into their inmost bower
Handed they went; and, eased the putting off
These troublesome disguises which we wear,
Straight side by side were laid; nor turned, I ween,
Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites
Mysterious of connubial love refused;
Whatever hypocrites austerely talk
Of purity, and place, and innocence,
Defaming as impure what God declares
Pure, and commands to some, leaves free to all.
Our Maker bids increase; who bids abstain,
But our destroyer, foe to God and Man?
Ibid. Paradise Lost. Bk. iv. 1. 736.
I am to be married within these three days; married past redemption.

Dryden. Marriage a la Mode. Act i. Sc. 1.
Misses! the tale that I relate This lesson seems to carry-
Choose not alone a proper mate, But proper time to marry.
Cowper. Pairing Time Anticipated. (Moral.)
There is something about a weddinggown prettier than any other gown in the world.

Douglas Jerrold. A Wedding-gown.
Now when they sever wedded hands,
Joy trembles in their bosom-strands,
And lovely laughter leaps and falls
Upon their lips in madrigals.
R. L. Stevenson. Underwaods. iv.

Maidens! why should you worry in choosing whom you should marry?
Choose whom you may, you will find you have got somebody else.
John Hay. Pike County Ballads: Distiches. $\mathbf{x}$.

WEDLOCK.

Benedick. The savage bull may; but if ever this sensible Benedick bear it, pluck off the bull's horns and set them in my forehead: and let me be vilely painted; and in such great letters as they write, "Here is good horse to hire," let them signify under my sign,-" Here you may see Benedick the married man."

Shakespeare. Much Ado About Nothing. Act i. Sc. 1.1. 250.
Duke. Let still the woman take
An elder than herself: so wears she to him;
So sways she level in her husband's heart:
For, boy, however we do praise ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm, More longing, wavering, sooner lost and worn
Than women's are.
Sharespeare. Twelfth Night. Act ii. Sc. 4. 1. 25.
[Afterward the Duke adds,
Then let thy love be younger than thyself, Or thy affection cannot hold the bent.
"I cannot hesitate in believing," observed Coleridge in 1815, "that in this passage from 'I'welfth Night,' Shakespeare meant to give a caution arising out of his own experience; and, but for the fact of the disproportion in point of years between himself and his wife, I doubt much whether the dialogue between Viola and the Duke would have received this turn "]

King. Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green; and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief, and our whole kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe;
Yet so far hath discretion fought with nature
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of ourselves.

Therefore our sometime sister, now our queen,
The imperial jointress of this warlike state,
Have we, as 't were, with a defeated joy,
With one auspicious, and one dropping eye;
With mirth in funeral, and with dirge in marriage
In equal scale, weighing delight and dole,
Taken to wife.
Ibid. Hamlet. Act i. Sc. 2. 1.1.
I don't think matrimony consistent with the liberty of the subject.

Farquhar. Thwin Rivals. v. 3.

A weary lot is thine, fair maid,
A weary lot is thine!
To pull the thorn thy brow to braid,
And press the rue for wine!
SIR W. Scott. Rokeby. Canto iii. 28.

WELCOME.

Alike he thwarts the hospitable end
Who drives the free or stays the hasty friend;
True friendship's laws are by this rule expressed,
Welcome the coming, speed tbe parting guest.

Homer. Odyssey. Bk. xv. l. 83.
[Bryant's translation of these lines is more literal but less epigrammatic :

It is alike a wrong
To thrust the unwilling stranger ont of door,
And to detain him when he longs to go.
While he is with us, we should cherish him, And when he wishes, help him to depart.]
(For I, who hold Sage Homer's rule the best,
Welcome the coming, speed the going guest.)
Pope. Satires: Horace. Bk. ii. Ep. 2. 11. 159-60.

Ulysses. For time is like a fashionable host
That slightly shakes his parting guest by the hand,
And with his arms outstretch'd, as he would fly
Grasps in the comer: welcome ever smiles, And farewell goes ont sighing.

Shakespeare. Troilus and Cressida. Act. iii. Sc. 3. l. 168.

Portia. Sir, you are very welcome to our house.
It must appear in other ways than words,
Therefore, I scant this breathing courtesy.
Ibid. Merchant of Venice. Act v. Sc. 1. 1. 139.

Guildford. Ladies, a general welcome from his grace
Salutes ye all: This night he dedicates
To fair content, and you: none here, he hopes,
In all this noble bery, has brought with her
One care abroad: he would have all as merry
As first good company, good wine, good welome
Can make good people.
Ibid. Henry VIII. Act i. Sc. 4. 1. 1.

Menenius. A hundred thousand welcomes: I could weep,
And I could laugh; I am light and heavy: Welcome.
Ibid. Coriolanus. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1. 199.
Capulet. This night I hold an old accustom'd feast,
Whereto I have invited many a guest,
Such as I love; and you among the store,
One more, most welcome, makes my number more.
Ibid. Romeo and Juliet. Act i. Sc. 2. 1. 20.

Antipholus of Ephesus. You are sad, Signior Balthazar. Pray God, our cheer
May answer my good will, and your good welcome here.
Balthazar. I hold your dainties cheap, sir, and your welcome dear.
Ant. E. O, Signior Balthazar, either at flesh or fish,
A table full of welcome makes scarce one dainty dish.
Bal. Good meat, sir, is common; that every churl affords.
Ant. E. And welcome more common; for that's nothing but words.
Bal. Small cheer, and great welcome, makes a merry feast.
Ant. E. Ay, to a niggardly host, and more sparing guest,
But though my cates be mean, take them in good part;
Better cheer may you have, but not with better heart.
Ibid. Comedy of Errors. Act iii. Sc. 1. I. 19.

Belford. Unbidden guests
Are often welcomest when they are gone.
Ibid. I. Henry VI. Act ii. Sc. 2. 1. 55.
'Tis sweet to hear the watch-dog's honest hark
Bay deep-mouth'd welcome as we draw near home;
'Tis sweet to know there is an eye will mark
Our coming, and look brighter when we come.
Byron. Don Juan. Canto i. St. 123.

Come in the evening, or come in the morning,
Come when you're looked for, or come without warning,
Kisses and welcome you'll find here before you,
And the oftener you come here the more I'll adore you.

Thomas O. Davis. The Welcome.

Fitzaerald. Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. xii.

Ah, for some retreat
Deep in yonder shining Orient, where my life began to beat,

Or to burst all links of habit,-there to wander far away,
On from island unto island at the gateways of the day.

There methinks would be enjoyment more than in this march of mind,
In the steamship, in the railway, in the thoughts that shake mankind.
There the passions cramped no longer shall have scope and breathing space;
I will take some savage woman, she shall rear my dusky race.

Iron-jointed, supple-sinewed, they shall dive, and they shall run,
Catch the wild-goat by the hair, and hurl their lances in the sun;
Whistle back the parrot's call, and leap the rainbows of the brooks,
Not with blinded eyesight poring over miserable bonks.

Tennyson. Locksley Hatt.
Oh that I had been nourished in the woods . . . and not known
The right of crowns, nor the dissembling trains
Of woman's looks. . . .
And then had taken in some monntain girl,
Beaten with winds, that might have strewed my bed
With leaves and reeds, and have horne at her big breasts
My large coarse issue. This had been a life Free from vexation. Beaumont. Philaster. Activ. Sc. 2.

WILL.

Hoc voles; hoc jubeo. I will this; I command this.

Juvenal. Satire vi. I. 223
He that complies against his will
Is of the same opinion still,
Whicl he may adhere to, yet disown
For reasons to himself best known. Butlers. Hudibras. Pt. iii. Canto iii. 1. 547.

Where is the man who has the power and skill
To stem the torrent of a woman's will?
For if she will, she will, you may depend on't;

WINTER.

Lastly came Winter, cloatbed all in frize,
Chattering his teeth for cold that did him chill;
Whilst on his hoary beard his breath did freese,
And the dull drops, that from his purpled bill
As from a limebeck did adown distill:
In his right hand a tipped staffe he held, With which his feeble steps he stayed still;
For he was faint with cold, and weak with eld;
That scarce his loosed limbes he hable was to weld.
Spenser. Faerie Queene: Legend of Constancie. Canto vii. St. 31.
When icicles hang by the wall,
And Dick, the sliepherd, blows his nail,
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail,
When blood is nipp'd and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl, Tu-whit;
Tu-who, a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

Winter comes, to rule the varied year. Thomson. The Seasons: Winter.
O Winter I ruler of the inverted year,
Thy scatter'd hair with sleet-like ashes fill'd,
Thy breath congeal'd upon thy lips, thy cheeks
Fring'd with a beard made white with other snows

Than those of age; thy forehead wrapt in clonds,
A leatless branch thy sceptre, and thy throne
A sliding car indebted to no wheels,
But urged by storms along its slippery way;
I love thee, all unlovely as thou seem'st, And dreaded as thou art.

It is not wise to be wiser than is necessary.

> Quinadit. Armide.

In parts superior what advantage lies? Tell (for you can) what is it to be wise? 'Tis but to know how little can be known;
To see all others' fanlts, and feel our own:
Condemn'd in business or in arts to drudge,
Without a second, or without a judge:

Truths would you teacli, or save a sinking land?
All fear, none aid you, and few understand.
Pope. Essay on Man. Ep. iv. 1. 259.
The clouds may drop down titles and estates;
Wealth may seek us; but wisdon wust be sought;

Ask, who is wise ?-You'll find the selfsame man
A sage in France, a madman in Japan;
And here some head beneath a mitre swells.
Which there had tingled to a cap and bells.

T. Moore. The Sceptic. 1. 17.

But these are foolish things to all the wise,
And I love wisdom more than she loves me;
My tendency is to philosophise
On most things, from a tyrant to a tree;
But still the spouseless virgin Knowledge ties.
What are we? and whence come we? what shall be
Our ultimate existence? What's our present?

And best distinguish'd by black, brown, or fair.

1bid. Moral Essays. Ep. ii. 1. 2.
One moral's plain, . . . without more fuss;
Man's social happiness all rests on us:
Through all the drama-whether damn'd or not-
Love gilds the scene, and women guide the plot.
R. B. Sheridan. The Rivals. Epilogue.
What a strange tbing is man! and what a stranger
Is woman! What a whirlwind is her head,
And what a whirlpool full of depth and danger
Is all the rest about ber! Whether wed,
Or widow, maid or mother, she can change her
Mind like the wind; whatever she has said

Or done, is light to what she'll say or do;-
The oldest thing on record, and yet new!

Thus translated by Davison:
Dust is lighter than a feather,
And the wind more light than either:
But a woman's fickle mind
More, than feather, dust or wind.
Pray, what is lighter than a feather?
Dust, my friend, in summer weather.
What's lighter than the dust. I pray?
The wind that blows them both away.
What is lighter than the wind?
The lightress of a woman's mind.
And what is lighter than the last?
Ah, now, my friend, you have me fast!

WOMAN.

(Her Virtues.)

O woman! lovely woman! Nature made thee
To temper man: we had been brutes without you;
Angels are painted fair, to look like you:
There's in you all that we believe of Heaven,
Amazing brightness, purity, and truth,
Eternal joy, and everlasting love.
Thomas Otway. Venice Preserved. Act i. Sc. 1.
'Tis beauty that doth oft make women proud;
But, God he knows, thy share thereof is small;
'Tis virtue that doth make them most admired;
The contrary doth make thee wondered at:
'Tis government that makes them seem divine.
Shakespeare. III. Henry Vl. Act i. Sc. 4. 1, 128.

Gcetee. Faust. Epilogue. Chorus Mysticus. Concluding lines.
[Bayard Taylor translated and commented on this chorus as follows:

All things transitory
But as symbols are sent :
Earth's insufficiency Here grows to event;
The indescribable Here it is done,
The Woman Soul leadeth ns Upward and on.
"l can find," says Mr. Taylor, in a note,
"no English equivalent for Ewig-weibliche except Woman Soul, which will express very nearly the same idea to those who feel the spirit which breathes and burns through the scene. Love is the all-uplifting and allredeeming power on earth and in heaven, and to man it is revealed in its most pure and perfect form through woman. Thus in the transitory life of earth it is only a symbol of its divine being, the possibilities of love which earth can never fulfill become realities in the higher life which follows; the spirit which woman interprets to us here still draws ns upward (as Margaret draws the soul of Faust) there.']

Swinburne. Tristram of Lyonnesse.

WOOING.

Much ado there was, God wot, He would love and she would not.
She said never was man true,
He said, none was false to you,
He said, he had lov'd her long,
She said, Love should have no wrong.
Corydon would kiss her then.
She said, maides must kiss no men,
Till they did for good and all.

Helena. We cannot fight for love, as men may do;
We should be woo'd and were not made to woo.
Ibid. Midsummer Night's Dream. Act ii. Sc. 1. 1, 241.
Rosalind. No, no, Orlando; men are April when they woo, December when they wed: maids are May when they are maids, but the sky changes when they are wives. I will be more jealous of thee than a Barbery cock-pigeon over his lien; more clamorous than a parrot against rain; more new-fangled than an ape; more giddy in my desires than a monkey: I will weep for nothing, like Diana in the fountain, and I will do that when you are disposed to be merry; I will laugh like a hyen, and that when thou art inclined to sleep.

Orlando. But will my Rosalind do so?
Ros. By my life, she will do as I do. Ibid. As You Like It. Activ. Sc. 1. 1. 147.

Cluudio. Thus answer I in name of Benedick,
But hear these ill news with the ears of Claudio.
'Tis certain so;-the prince woos for himself.
Friendship is constant in all other things,
Save in the office and affairs of love:
Therefore, all hearts in love use their own tongues;
Let every eye negociate for itself,
And trust no agent: for beauty is a witch,
Against whose charms faith melteth into blood.
This is an accident of hourly proof
Which I mistrusted not.

Ibid.. Courtship of Mîtes Standish. Pt. iii. 1. 111 .

Othello. My story being done,
She gave me for my pains a world of sighs;
She swore, -In faith, 'twas strange, 'twas passing strange,
'Twas pitiful, 'twas wondrous pitiful:
She wish'd she had not heard it; yet she wish'd
That heaven had made her such a man. She thank'd me;
And bade me, if I had a friend that lov'd her,
I should but teach him how to tell my story,
And that would woo her. Upon this hint I spake;
She lov'd me for the dangers I had pass'd;
And I lov'd her, that she did pity them :
This only is the witcheraft I have us'd;
Here comes the lady, let her witness it.
Shakespeare. Othello. Act i. Sc. 3. 1. 162.

Dame Quickly. Thou didst swear to me upon a parcel-gilt goblet, sitting in my Dolphin Chamber, at the round table, by a sea-coal fire, on Wednesday in Whitsun week, when the Prince broke thy head for likening his father to a singing man of Windsor; thou didst swear to me then, as I was washing thy wound, to marry me, and make me my lady, thy wife. The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours. WOrdsworth. Miscellaneous Sonnets.

But each day brings its petty dust
Our soon-chok'd souls to fill,
And we forget because we must
And not because we will.
Matthew Arnold. Absence.
I have not loved the world, nor the world me;
I have not flattel'd its rank breath, nor bow'd
To its idolatries a patient knee,-
Nor coin'd my cheek to smiles,-nor cried aloud
In worship of an echo; in the crowd
They could not deem me one of such; I stood
Among them, but not of them; in a shroud
Of thoughts which were not their thoughts, and still could,
Had I not filed my mind, which thus itself subdued.

As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air:
And, like the haseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve; And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind: We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.

And like the baseless rabrick of a Vision Leave not a wreck behind.

It is possible that Shakespeare had in mind these lines which were published in 1603:
Let greatnesse of her glassie scepters vaunt,
Not scepters, no, but reeds, soone brnis'd, soone broken;
And let this worldlie pompe our wits enchant,
All fades and scarcelie leaves behinde a token.

Those golden palaces, those gorgeous halls, With furniture superthously faire;
Those statlie courts, those sky-encount'ring walls
Evanish all--like vapours in the aire. Alexander, Earl of Sterling. Illusion.]

WORSHIP.

How often from the steep
Of echoing hill or thicket have we heard
Celestial voices to the midnight air,
Sole, or responsive each to other's note,
Singing their great Creator?
Milton. Paradise Lost. Bk. iv. 1. 680 .
Ay, call it holy ground,
The soil where first they trod:
They have left unstained what there they found,-
Freedom to worship God.
Mrs. Hemans. Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers.

Man always worships something: always he sees the Infinite shadowed forth in something finite; and indeed can and must so see it in any finite thing, once tempt him well to fix his eyes thereon.

An incurable itch for scribbling seizes many, and grows inveterate in their insane breasts.

Juvenal. Satives. vii. S. 1.
Hamlet. I once did hold it, as our statists do,
A baseness to write fair; and labored much
How to forget that learning; but, sir, now
It did me yeoman's service.
Shakespeare. Humlet. Act. v. Sc. 2. 1. 36.
Poets lose half the praise they should bave got,
Could it be known what they discreetly blot.

Waller. On Roscommon's Translation of De Arte Poetica.

Beneath the rule of men entirely great, The pen is mightier than the sword.

Bulwer-Lytton. Richelicu. Act. ii. Sc. 2.
This may he a reminiscence of the Latin phrase quoted by Burton (Anatomy of Melancholy, Part I., Sec. 2, Mem. 4, Subs. 4), "Hinc guam sit calamus sævior ense, patet" ('From this it appears how much more cruel the pen may be than the sword"). But Saint-Simon comes closer to Bulwer's thought in his "Memoirs," iii, 517 (1702), ed. 1856: "Tant la plume a eu sons le roj d'aventage sur l'épee" ("So much had the pen, onder the king, the advantage over the sword '"). Other more or less close anticipations are the following:
Anser, apis, vitellus, populus et regna gubernant
Goose, bee, and calf-i. e.. pen, wax and parchment govern the world.
Quoted by James Howell. Letters. Bk. ii. Letter 2.

Le style est l'homme même.
The style is the man himself.
Buffon. Discours de Reception (Recueil de l'Académie.) 1753. p. 337.
Of writing many hooks there is no end. elizabeth barrett beowning. Aurora Leigh. ble. I. 1. 1.

YEAR.
Eheu! fugaces labuntur anni.
Alas ! the fleeting years are passing away!

Horace. Odes. ii, 14, 1.
But to the dwellers in eternity
A thousand years shall as a moment be. ABRaham Coles. The Microcosm and other Poems. P. 289.
That gems the starry girdle of the year. Campbell. Pleasures of Hope. Pt. ii. l. 114.

Winter is come and gone
But grief returns with the revolving year.

SHELLEY. Adonais. St. 18.
There are no birds in last year's nest ! Longrellow. It is not always May. last line.
Never look for birds of this year in the nests of the last.

Cervantes. Don Quixote. Pt. ii. ch. 74.
Mais ou sont les uicges d'autan?
But where are the snows of yester-year?
Villon. Ballade of Bygone Ladies. (John Payne, trans.)

Like yonder stars so bright and clear That praise their Maker as they move, And usher in the circling year.

Schller. Soong of the Bell.
(Bowring trans.)
Dip down upon the Northern shore, O sweet New Year, delaying long:
Thou dost expectant Nature wrong Delaying long, delay no more.

Tennyson. Spring.
Six years-six little years--six drops

- of time !

Matthew Arnold. Myceriunus. st. 11.

YESTERDAY.

(See To-Day.)
Yesterday, and to-day, and forever New Testament. Hebrews. xiii. 8.
Whose yesterdays look backward with a smile.
Young. Night Thoughts. Night ii. 1. 334.
'Tis greatly wise to talk with our past hours.
Ibid. Night Thoughts. Night ii. 1.376.
O Death! O Change! O Time!
Without you, O, the insufferable eyes
Of these poor Might-Have-Beens,
These fatuous, ineffectual Yesterdays !
W. E. Henley. Poems: Rhymes and Rhythms, XIII. To James McNeill Whistler. 1. 27.

YOUTH.

Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.
old Testament. Psalms. ciil 5.
The glory of young men is their strength; and the beauty of old men is the hoary head.

Ibid. Proverbs. Ch. xx. ver. 29.
Ah, youth! forever dear, forever kind.
Homer. Iliad. Bk. xix. 1. 303 .
(Pope's trans.)
Virginibus puerisque canto.
I sing to youths and maids alone.
Horace. Odes. iii. 1, 4.
Solet hic pueris virginibusque legi.
Him boys and girls alike are wont to read.
Ovid. Tristia. ii. 370. (Of Menander.)

O formose puer, nimium ne crede colori. O, pretty boy, trust not too much to your rosy looks!

Virgil. Eneid. Canto ii. 1. 17.
Quem di diligunt adolescens moritur dum valet, sentit, sapit.

He whom the gods love dies young, while he is in health, has his senses and his judgment sound.

PlaUtus. Bacchides. iv. 7, 18.
[See under Death.]
Maxima debetur puero revereutia.
Great reverence is due to boyhood.
Juvenal. Satires. xiv. 44.
She may guess what $I$ should perform in the wet, if I do so much in the dry. Cervantes. Don Quixote.
Crabbed age and youth cannot live together;
Youth is full of pleasance, age is full of care;
Youth like summer morn, age like winter weather;
Youth like summer brave, age like winter bare.
Youth is full of sport, age's breath is short:
Youth is nimble, age is lame;
Youth is hot and bold, age is weak and cold;
Youth is wild, and age is tame.
Age, I do abhor thee; youth I do adore thee.
Barnard. The Passionate Pilgrim. St. 12.
It is better to be an old man's derling than a yong man's werling.
John Heywood. Proverbes. Pt ii. Cb. 7.
Young men think old men are fools; but old men know young men are fools. Chapman. all Fools. Act v. Sc. 1.
Portia. I'll hold thee any wager,
When we are both accouter'd like young men,
I'll prove the prettier fellow of the two,
And wear my dagger with the braver grace;
And speak, between the change of man and boy,
With a reed voice; and turn two mincing steps
Into a manly stride; and speak of frays,

Like a fine bragging youth: and tell quaint lies,
How honourable ladies sought my love,
Which I denying they fell sick and died;
I could not do withal: then I'll repent,
And wish, for all that, that I had not kill'd them :
And twenty of these puny lies I'll tell,
That men shall swear l have discontinued school
Above a twelvemonth :-I have within my mind
A thousand raw tricks of these bragging Jacks,
Which I will practise.
Shakespeare. Merchant of Venice. Act iii. Sc. 4. i. 62.

Just at the age 'twixt hoy and youth,
When thought is speech, and speech is truth.

Scotr. Marmion. Introduction to Canto ii.

Standing with reluctant feet, Where the hrook and river meet, Womanhood and childhood fleet! Longfellow. Maidenhood.

Cleopatra. My salad days;
When I was green in judgment, cold in blood.
Shakespeare. Antony and Cleopatra. Act i. Sc. 5, 1. 73.

Pandulph. How green you are and fresh in this old world.

Ibid. King John. Act iii. Sc. 4. 1. 145.
Youth, what man's age is like to be, doth show;
We may our ends by our beginnings know.

Denham. On Prudence. 1. 225.
That age is best which is the first,
When youth and blood are warmer;
But, being spent, the worse and worst
Times still succeed the former.
Herrick. Amatory Odes. 93.
Youth is a continual intoxication; it is the fever of reason.

La Rochefodcadld. Maxim. 271.
Young men soon give and soon forget affronts:
Old age is slow in both.
AdDISON. Cato. Act ii. Sc. 5.

When the brisk minor pants for twenty-one.

Pope. Epistle I. Bk. i. 1. 38.
Young fellows will be young fellows. Blckerstaff. Love in a Village. Act ii. Sc. 2.

Fair laughs the morn, and soft the zephyr blows,
While proudly rising o'er the azure realm
In gallant trim the gilded vessel goes,
Youth on the prow, and Pleasure at the helm.

Gray. The Bard. Pt ii. St. 2.
Our youth we can have but to-day;
We may always find time to grow old.
Bishop Berkeley? Can Love be Controlted by Advice.

The atrocious crime of being a young man, which the honourable gentleman has with such spirit and decency charged upon me, I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny ; but content myself with wishing that I may be one of those whose follies may cease with their youth, and not of that number who are ignorant in spite of experience.

Dr. Jounson. Pitt's Repty to Walpole. Speech. March 6, 1741.
[This is the composition of Johnson, founded on some note or statement of the actual speech. Johnson said, "That speech I wrote in a garret, in Ixxeter Street." Boswell. Life of Johnson. 1741.]
If youth be a defect, it is one that we outgrow only too soon.

Lowell. Democracy and Other Addresses. Address, Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 8, 1886. Harvard Anniversary.

Towering in the confidence of twentyone.

Dr. Johnson. - Letter to Bennet Langion. Jan. 9, 1758.
'Tis now the summer of your youth. Time has not cropt the roses from your cheek,
Though sorrow long has washed them. Enward Moore. The Gamester. Act iii. Sc. 4.
Unthinking, idle, wild, and young,
I laugh'd and danc'd and talk'd and sung.
Princess Amelia. (Daughter of George III.)

O, Life! how pleasant is thy morning,
Young Fancy's rays the hills adorning!
Cold pausing Caution's lesson scorning,
We frisk away,
Like schoolboys at the expected warning,
To joy and play.
Burns. Epistle to James Smith.
Oh! enviable, early days,
When dancing thoughtless pleasure's maze,
To care, to guilt unknown!
How ill exchanged for riper times,
To feel the follies, or the crimes,
Of others, or my own!
Ibid. Despondency.
Young heads are giddy, and young hearts are warm,
And make mistakes for manhood to reform.
Boys are, at best, but pretty buds unblown,
Whose scent and hues are rather guess'd than known.
Each dreams that each is just what he appears,
But learns his error in maturer years,
When disposition, like a sail unfurl'd,
Shows all its rents and patches to the world.

Cowper. Tirocinium.
Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive,
But to be young was very Heaven!'
Wordsworth. The Prelude. Bk. xi.
A youth to whom was given
So much of earth, so much of heaven.
Ibid. Ruth.

Life went a-maying

With Nature, Hope, and Poesy,
When I was young!
When I was young?-Ah, woeful when! Ah, for the change 'twixt now and then! This breathing house not built with hands,
This body that does me grievous wrong,
O'er aëry cliffs and glittering sands,
How lightly then it flashed along:
Like those trim skiffs, unknown of yore,
On winding lakes and rivers wide,
That ask no aid of sail or oar,
That fear no spite of wind or tide !
Coleridge. Youth and Age.

Nought cared this body for wind or weather
When youth and I lived in 't together. Ibid. Youth and Age.
Flowers are lovely; love is flower-like;
Friendship is a sheltering tree;
Oh the joys that came down showerlike,
Of friendship, love, and liberty, Ere I was old!

Ibid. Youth and Age.
The smiles, the tears
Of boyhood's years,
The words of love then spoken.
MOORE. Oft in the Stilly Night.
In life's morning march, when my bosom was young.

Campbell. The Sotdier's Dream
I was most ready to return a blow,
And would not brook at all this sort of thing,
In my hot youth, when George the Third was king.
Byron. Don Juan. Canto i. St. 212.
And both were young, and one was beautiful.

Byron. The Dream. St. 2.
Ah! happy years! once more who would not be a boy ! Ibid. Chitde Harold. Canto ii. St. 23.

Oh talk not to me of a name great in story;
The days of our youth are the days of our glory.
Ibid. Stanzas written on the road between Florence and Pisa. I.
When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen:
Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.
Charles Kingsley. Song. Water-Babies.
How beautifill is youth! bow bright it gleams
With its illusions, aspirations, dreams !
Book of Beginnings, Story without End,
Each maid a beroine, and each man a friend!

All possibilities are in its bands,
No danger daunts it, and no foe withstands;
In its sublime audacity of faith,
"Be thou removed!" it to the mountain saith,
And with ambitious feet, secure and proud,
Ascends the ladder leaning on the cloud!

Longfellow. Morituri Salutamus.
I remember the gleams and glooms that dart
Across the school-boy's brain;
The song and the silence in the beart, That in part are prophecies, and in part Are longings wild and vain.

And the voice of that fitful song Sings on, and is never still :
"A boy's will is the wind's will, And the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts."

Ibid. My Lost Youth.
O for one hour of youthful joy !
Give back my twentieth spring !
I'd rather laugh, a bright-hained boy
Than reign a gray-beard king.
Holmes. The Otd Man Dreams.
There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain;
But when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts, And it never comes again.
R. H. Stoddard. Never Again.

A young man will be wiser by-and-by;
An old man's wit may wander ere he die.

Tennyson. The Coming of Arthur.
Ah, what sluall I be at fifty
Should Natnre keep me alive,
If I find the world so bitter
When I am but twenty-five? Ibid. Maud. Pt. і. vi. St. 5.

A year ago and blithely paired
Their rough and tumble play they shared;
They kissed and quarrelled, laughed and cried
A. year ago at Eastertide.

With bursting heart, with fiery face,
She strove against him in the race;
He unabashed her garter saw
That now would touch her skirts with awe.
P. L. Stevenson. Underwoods. iv.

ZEAL.

For zeal's a dreadful termagant
That teaches saints to tear and cant.
Butlek. Hudibras. Pt. iii. Canto 2. 1. 673.

But his zeal
None seconded, as out of season judged,
Or singular and rash. Milton. Bk. v. 1.849.

For virtue's self may too much zeal be had
The worst of madmen is a saint run mad.

Pope. Horace. Bk. i. Ep. vi. 1. 26.

ZEPHYR.

Zephyr with Aurora playing
As he met her once a-Maying;
There on beds of violets blue
And fresh-blown roses washed in dew, Filled her with thee, a daughter fair, So buxom, blithe, and debonair. Milton. L'Allegro. 1. 19.
[The last line is borrowed without acknowledgment from Randolph:
A bowl of wine is wondrous good cheer To make one blithe, buxam, and debonair. Thomas Randolph. The Jealous Lovers.

Soft is the strain when zephyr gently blows.
Pope. Es8ay on Criticism. Pt. ii. 1. 366.
Soft o'er the shrouds aërial whispers breathe
That seemed but zephyxs to the train beneath.
Ibid. Rape of the Lock. Canto ii. 1. 58.

[^1]:    Ibid. Meditations. iv. 32.

[^2]:    It has never, we believe, been remarked that two of the most striking lines in the description of Achitophel are borrowed, and from a most obscure quarter. In Knolles' History of the Turks, printed more than sixty years before the appearance of Absalom and Achitophel, are the following verses, under a portrait of Sultana Mnstapha 1:
    Greatnesse on goodnesse loves to slide, not stand,
    And leaves for Fortune's ice Vertue's firme land.
    The circumstance is the more remarkable, because Dryden has really no couplet more intensely Drydenian, both in thought and expression than this, of which the whole thought, and almost the whole expression are stolen.

[^4]:    Thackeray, in "Pendenniz," has a pasaage less obviously patterned after Sterne. Old Major Pendennis has just heard that his nephew ia dangerously sick, and Lord Steyne hustles him into a carriage :
    "You've twenty minutes to catch the mail-train. Jump in, Pendennis; anddrive like $h$ —, sir! do you hear?'
    The carriage drove off swiftly with Pendennis and his companions, and let us trust that the oath will be pardoned to the Marquis of Steyne.
